THE MURDER.

Prisoners on Trial Before the Police Magistrate

For Shooting the Deceaeed Fred Titus of Gibson.

The examination of the negroes, Odber McMichael and his son Charles, for the shooting of Fred. Titus at St. Marys on Wednesday night last, was begun before magistrate Marsh at the police court on Monday morning. Henry B. Rainsford and J. W. McCready, appeared for the prosecution and Geo. A. Hughes for defence. Rainsford Staples was the first witness called. He said, knew deceased, prisoners resided at St. Marys, they were barbers, did see prisoners and Titus together on Wednesday, the 5th inst., saw Titus in prisoner's shop, the prisoners, Alex. Atkinson, Fred. Titus, P. Hughes were present about four o'clock, when witness entered shop Titus caught him and said he could throw witness, witness replied that he could do that all right, he then let go of witness, prisoner Odber said his son Charles could throw Titus so quick it would make his head ache and would bet five dollars on it. Titus handed witness a $5 bill saying he would put it up, witness put it in his pocket, Odber told Charles to go and get his boots and he would show him, Titus said, d—m your soul, he could throw him or his son. Odber said to Titus, don't d—m my soul, Titus made some reply but witness did not remember words, then Odber drew off and hit Titus with his fist and knocked him against the wall, then Titus clinched Odber, and rushed him back on the counter, then Charles jumped on Titus' back and hit him several times, Atcheson took Chreles off, then Charles turned on Atcheson and they had a tussle and Peter Hughes and witness separated Odber and Titus; Odber and Titus got at it again when witness went out the back door and left them.

When witness came out to his own shop door after a minute he saw Titus on top of Odber on the sidewalk, helped Hughes to separate them when witness took Titus away into his back yard, some boys from Gibson took charge of Titus and witness thought took him home, witness then went home to tea, went back to shop about six o'clock and all was quiet, about eight o'clock heard a noise again on the sidewalk near McMichaels and went out on platform, saw Titus and told him he had better go home, he had a stone in his hand and was standing in front of McMichaels, Alex. Atcheson was with him, Atcheson was pushing the door open and stumping the McMichaels to come out and fight him, told them they had better go away and they did so and witness went into his own store, came out twenty minutes after and Titus and Atkinson were standing at the corner of witness' shop. Atkinson was coaxing Fred to go home with him, told Fred he had better go with him, they moved off up the street, heard some glass breaking when witness returned to the shop, heard a shot and some one ran into his shop, went out and saw Titus lying on the sidewalk about 15 feet from McMichaels door, Charles McMichael was standing on the sidewalk with a rifle in his hand, when witness stooped over Titus, Charles lifted the rifle towards witness (objected to and allowed) witness said drop that Charley, Charles lowered the rifle and went inside, then Odber ran around from the yard to the alley with three black bottles in his hand, said to him "Odber who did this?" He said his boy did and he had told him to do so, had found Titus apparently dead, witness got a light, Dr. Mullen came and in about three quarters of an hour the coroner came.

Cross-examined by Mr. Hughes: When witness went into barber shop the prisoner and deceased were friendly; it was about six o'clock when witness got Titus to go home; the quarrel was over; heard Atkinson calling on the McMichaels to come out; heard McMichael tell them to go away; heard the glass break and the report of the gun; never heard of Titus starting a row but when he was in one he was sure to carry it out; when witness saw deceased on the platform Atkinson was not with him; prisoners stayed most of the time of the quarrel in their shop; they have been at St. Mary's about two months and had behaved themselves.

Henry Flemming sworn: Reside at St. Marys; remembered Wednesday last, saw Titus and Atkinson together walking back and forth before the barber shop about 7.30 that evening; saw Atkinson go to the door and ask Odbur McMichael out to finish the row; McMichael told him to go away, he did not want to have anything to do with him; Titus was at that time behind Atkinson and in front of McMichael's window; Atkinson went to the door not less than three times in the same way, and each time McMichael told him to go away; when Atkinson came back the last time Titus was right behind him; while Atkinson was talking with McMichael, Titus had something in his hand; Atkinson had his hand up against the side of the door and Titus asked him to lower his arm, Atkinson did so and Titus fired whatever he had, breaking the glass but not going into the room—striking the middle bar of the sash; Titus and Akinson then went up street. Odber McMichael came out to the door with three bottles, followed by his son Charles and went after the prisoners; Odber threw the bottles at Titus and Atkinson; Charles had two bottles and a rifle, he threw both bottles up street after Titus and Atkinson; could not say whether they struck them or not; Titus stopped in the alley and Atkinson went up street a little further; after Charles fired the two bottles he went into the shop again and came back to the sidewalk with another bottle and the rifle which he had not put down; met his father going in the front door, and going towards the back, Charles threw the bottles he had up the street after the deceased; just at that time Atkinson came down street and went into the alley; Titus came out of the alley and walked pretty smart towards Charles; he got within twelve feet of him when Charles raised the rifle to his shoulder, pointed it at Titus and fired; Titus dropped on the sidewalk; as Titus approached Charles he appeared to be stooped down and had his hand drawn back as if in the position of striking; did not see anything in his hand; did not see which way Charles went after the shooting; R. Staples was the first man to get to Titus; while Staples was looking at deceased heard him say to Charles, "put down that rifle;" on looking at Charles saw that he had the rifle pointed at Staples, he lowered the rifle when spoken to; witness then heard Odbur McMichael talking and his attention was turned to him; heard him say his boy shot him and he had told him to do so; the next man getting to the body was Dr. Mullen; went for a coroner and got back with the police; Titus was not dead at the time but breathing.

Cross-examined by H. B. Rainsford: Titus was not twelve feet away when the shot was fired.

Cross-examined by Geo. Hughes: Was opposite the shooting at Mr. Hayes' building; the night was not very dark, it was cloudy; the street is about four rods wide; Staples and McMichael's shops were lit up; had there been no lights in the stores could not be able to tell who people were across the street; saw Atkinson trying to get into the shop with Titus right behind him; did not notice Titus have anything in his hand; Atkinson pushed the door open and McMichael closed it and told them to go away; when Atkinson was at the door heard him say to the McMichaels that they were cowards and dare not come out; McMichael told him to go away; heard Atkinson say that he would remember him for it; the old man was near the door; witness could see through the window into the shop; Odbur had pulled the door to and was near the door; heard Odbur say for someone to look at his face and see how it was cut; saw the dent in sash next morning; was sure it was Titus that went into the alley, Atkinson went up opposite Kierstead's and out into the street; the shutters were not on McMichael's shop at that time; Titus was walking fast when shot; was positive that McMichael put the gun to his shoulder and that Atkinson was in the alley at the time; did not see Atkinson afterwards.

To Mr. Rainsford: Titus had his head down when the rifle was fired; held the rifle long enough to his shoulder to take aim; when Charles threw the first bottle Titus was just coming out of the alley towards the prisoner.

Wm. Blaine sworn, said: When he reached the scene of the row Odber came to the door and talked to Atkinson, then the door was closed; the man with Atkinson threw something at the door breaking the glass; heard the glass break, but could not say as to whether the missile went inside or not; Odber then threw a bottle through the broken door; Atkinson and deceased then went up street running; Odber came outside and threw bottlesl up the street; after this witness went up street and opposite McMichael's; saw Odber throw some other bottles up the street, and at that time told his son to bring out the gun; boy came out with the gun and told his father they were coming in the back way; Odber then went to the back of the shop; Charles ran out again and stood on the sidewalk three or four minutes with the gun in his hand; saw the man who had been with Atkinson at the door come down the street as though intoxicated, as he passed Staples' store Charles fired the gun and the man fell; someone said, "put up that gun, you have killed that man;" Odbur walked down street as though from the alley with a bottle in his hand; he said something, but do not remember his words; witness thought Charles fired the gun from his shoulder.

To Mr. Hughes: Witness believed Chas. to be excited when he fired; did not hear Odber tell Charles to shoot; saw Titus after he was shot; saw Titus throw something at the window.

At the conclusion of this evidence the case was adjourned till Tuesday morning.

On Tuesday morning the court room was again crowded. Isaac Wynn was called: He said that he was at St. Marys the night of the shooting; went over behind Sergt. Phillips, saw a man lying on the sidewalk shot through the head; went to McMichael's door and saw the arrest; Phillips came out and handed witness a gun; witness asked Charles if it was loaded; said that it was, and unloaded it and it returned the cartridge to Phillips and the gun to witness; carried it to the police office and gave it to the police magistrate.

To Mr. Rainsford witness said that McMichael had the gun in his hand while it was being unloaded; did not hear the older prisoner make any remarks.

To Mr. Hughes: Got the gun from Phillips outside the shop; then asked Charles if it was loaded, he said it was; handed the gun to Charles, he did not ask for it, he unloaded it.

Henry F. Dayton sworn said: reside at St. Marys; knew the prisoner and the deceased; about half-past four that day saw prisoner talking to Atkinson at the door of prisoner's shop, Charles was standing behind Odber; they were talking of fighting; Atkinson said that Odber had hit him in the face and he would not leave till he had seen it out; Odber said he had not struck him, witness then went away. About 7 that night saw Atkinson and Titus on the platform; Odber told them to go away, that he didn't want to have anything to do with them; they went up street together; saw them come down street about 8.30 that evening; Atkinson went into McMichael's shop, Titus stood outside; heard Atkinson call to Odber while in the shop; heard Titus tell Atkinson to lower his arm; Titus threw something at the door, heard glass break; Atkinson came out and both ran up street; then Charles came out with bottles in his hand and threw them after the deceased: he then went into the shop and returned with a bottle and the gun, threw the bottle up the street. Titus came down street in a stooped position; his right hand behind him as though carrying something; Charles had the rifle raised to about the waist, held it there about a second and fired; did not see the rifle at his shoulder; he put down the gun and went into the shop, and returned with the gun still in his hand; saw Titus lying on platform, R. Staples was stooping over him; Odber came out of the shop and said, "Let him lie there and die."

To Mr. Hughes: Was standing at my father's shop door when the shooting took place; it was about 35 feet from McMichael's; after throwing the missile at window Titus and Atkinson went up street.

Sergt. Phillips sworn: Is a policeman; arrested Charles McMichael in his father's shop on the charge of shooting Frederick Titus on Wednesday night; Odber was on the sidewalk when first got there; went into shop and prisoner followed; saw the rifle on the counter with muzzle towards door, pushed the muzzle towards wall; Charles began to tell what had happened; told him to say nothing; while Charles was putting on coat preparatory to going with police, Rev. Mr. Manzer went in and said to also arrest Odber, which policeman did; handed the rifle to Isaac Wynn; he took it and asked Charles if it was loaded; he said it was; had hold of Charles' left hand with a twister; the gun when taken from the counter was cocked; Charles pushed back the breech and took the cartridge out, (policeman showed cartridges—one of which was in the gun and the other on the counter.) Cautioned prisoners not to speak; Odbur said, "They can't do anything to father; I did it."
