THE HERALD.

FREDERICTON, SEPTEMBER 16, 1893.

ALDERMANIC ELECTION.

The new scheme for the election of aldermen has been carried at St. John by a very large majority, and in future most of the councillors will be chosen not from and by a particular ward, but by the whole city. This will tend to bring forward a better set of men, men of more intelligence, influence and ability, and the future prosperity of the city will be assured by the change. There are some features of the scheme which may be condemned. These, however, are so few in comparison with the benefits to be derived, that they are not worthy of special consideration.

With respect to Fredericton the scheme is much in favor. Most of the citizens believe that a similar change would be to the benefit of all and that the taxes would be lessened in great measure and the finances would be conducted in a more economical way. We do not hereby reflect upon the action of the whole council of the city nor yet upon any particular alderman, but we believe that changes could be made in the personel of the board to the advantage of the council and the city. There would not be so much grasping for one ward to the detriment of others as there is at present but all would share alike. If an alderman depended upon the whole city for election, he would be careful to conserve the interests of the whole city and would not confine his favors to one particular part as is at present the case.

The asphalting here proves this. Let a citizen take a walk through the streets and note where the best sidewalks are made and he must come to the conclusion that ward business, equal in principle to that of the Tammany ring, is carried on here, but of course to a very limited extent.

The new scheme would do away with this favoritism in great measure and a majority of our citizens would favor its introduction.

FREE LUMBER.

The lumbermen of Maine and New Brunswick are looking forward with confidence to a radical change in, if not the complete removal, of the import duties on lumber shipped to the United States from this country. They expect the change to come soon.

The late sale of crown lands here evidenced this. There was a large attendance of Maine men here, and they took an active part in the proceedings, bidding high on any special piece of good land offered. They thought perhaps that the New Brunswick men would not care about burdening themselves with large tracts of land, and that they could bid it in at an easy price.

Bangor, which is the centre of the lumbering influence in Maine, would welcome a free trade, especially in lumber. It might curtail business on the Penobscot for a year or two, but it would tend to reduce the large stumpage charged, so that the operator would eventually become the gainer. Just at present Maine lands are held at a very high stumpage, and unless that combine is broken by free trade or something of the same nature, the smaller operators must work at a loss or remain idle.

Maine men claim that with their superior machinery and closer proximity to the great markets, that they would not feel the rivalry of the maritime provinces, but that they could carry on the work of sawing with advantage if the stumpage were reduced to a reasonable figure, as it would be if free trade was assured.

THES CERTIFICATES.

The Rustler disaster, at Miramichi, is only the direct result of carlessness, not only on the part of the officials of the vessel, but on the part of the dominion government. Perhaps the latter is the most culpable. From the evidence adduced at the inquest, it is plain that the vessel was not in a fit state to carry passengers. If she had been inspected, it must have been most carelessly done, or she could not been in the condition described by her officers.

At present, it is no great assurance of safety to see hanging up in the cabins or the engine room, a certificate from a dominion official to the effect that this vessel is thoroughly seaworthy and fitted to carry passengers. Our citizens will remember that the old ferry boats, veritable life traps of the past, carried these certificates in highly ornamental frames. They will also remember that the Belle Isle and Acadia carried them, yet at each throb of the engine, the craft appeared to be dropping to pieces.

The officials may do their work, or perhaps do just what is required by the law, but there is a defect somewhere, a certificate being perfectly worthless as a guarantee of the condition of the boat.

A few more such disasters and a change for the better will be made, but it would save lives if made at once.

POLITICS.

Political talk has quieted down for a time, each party watching the moves of the other. Many are of the opinion that Hon. George E. Foster will be the candidate for York on the Conservative side at the next election, while Dr. McLeod and J. S. Neill are also spoken of. Perhaps never in the political history of York has it been so difficult to forecast the future as at present. With all the manufacturers and many of the merchants in favor of the present condition of affairs on one hand, and the combined force of farmers looking towards tariff reform on the other, it is very difficult to tell which side will win. Many say that a large deputation of farmers waited upon Mr. Foster when here, both Tory and Liberal, and that they were unanimously in favor of the present condition of things.

An analysis of this farmers' deputation will show that the tory element was composed of men who are conservative whether the country progresses or not. They are so politically bigoted that it is party before even common sense. The liberal element of that deputation came to see Mr. Foster out of curiosity, and because they were requested to come by letter to help swell the ranks. They did not take any interest in the matter, as there was no object in the meeting only that "Mr. Foster should be received by a deputation of farmers." The mass of farmers of both sides of politics in this province have found to their cost that the N. P. is not a benefit but a hindrance to them, and the coming contest will find the farmers arrayed strongly against protection as it is at present.

OUR RESOURCES.

Those who take an interest in the prosperity of the province, as all residents should, must be pleased at the rapid growth of certain lines of agriculture and in mining as well.

Take for instance the development in dairy work. It is only a few years since cheese was first made by factory in this province and now the output is large. Not only is this so, but the quality is excellent and fully equal to that of the old dairy countries of the world. Our butter is making a mark for itself in the United States and in England, and with care in the manner of putting it up for export an unlimited quantity may be sold there. The same may be said of its shipment to the United States. Good quality and neatness in packing are the requisites, with these there will be no difficulty in finding a market.

In respect to mining there is a rapid development. Not only are the coal mines being explored and opened up, but many other minerals such as gold, nickel, manganese, gypsum and copper are being mined, and it is only a question of a few years till mines will prove a source of large revenue. The Carroll mine at St. Stephen is shipping a fair quantity of nickel across the line, and it is proving of good quality and extremely valuable.

With a correct trade policy this province would with its natural resources be a wealthy and prosperous country instead of as at present being burthened with depression and more or less fear for the future.

It is now painfully evident that the much dreaded cholera has got a foothold in England and unless the most stringent measures are taken it will reach this side of the Atlantic. If care is taken at our many ports there is nothing to be alarmed at this year, the only danger being a complete sweep of America next spring and summer.

It must be gratifying to Lieut. Col. Maunsell and the officers of the school to have received the strong meed of praise that was given them by General Herbert, commander-in-chief. He said that they controlled the best drilled school in the dominion.

KESWICK RIDGE.

Sept. 12.—The weather of late has been fine but cold. We have, however, escaped frost so far, but we learn that our friends in the valley have not been so fortunate. To day is very fine, and considerably warmer than the past week.

The farmers are now very busy harvesting. The crops are reported a good average. The wind and grasshoppers have done considerable damage to oats and buckwheat.

It is reported that the cheese factory of this place is about to suspend operations for this season. Much good work has been done by this factory considering the short time it has been running. Much credit is due to the company, and we hope that next summer will see a great increase in the number of patrons. A goodly number of cheese have already been sold at the factory for a good round price. The cream wagon still makes its tri-weekly trips. This is another good institution, and we hope that better satisfaction will be given this year than last. It will be remembered that this factory is under the control of the dominion government, and we all know the fair promises that were made to the farmers of this section, and we all see how far short the government has come. It, however, has not come any farther short in this than in many other promises which it has made to the farmers of New Brunswick. One thing we can say is that unless the farmers get better returns this year, the factory will be a thing of the past in a very short time.

A very happy social event took place here on Wednesday last. It was the marriage of Miss Ella Pickard, daughter of Abram Pickard, to Joseph Albright, both of Keswick Ridge. A large company of invited guests assembled to witness the ceremony, which took place in the open air immediately in front of the house. The bride was attended by Miss M. Coburn, and the groom was supported by W. H. Long. The bride received numerous, costly and useful presents. Something was seen there which seldoms happens at a wedding. It was this. The bride received nearly a whole sett of glassware, which was given by different individuals. All that was required to complete the sett was the water pitcher and goblets. The charivari was something grand. Words are inadequate to describe the costumes.

SCOTCH SETTLEMENT.

Sept. 11.—Harvesting is about finished in this section, and farmers pronounce their grain crops very good.

By the number of carriages seen passing through this place yesterday, we would judge that there was a good attendance at the C. B. quarterly meeting held in Springfield.

Mr. and Mrs. Butler, who have been visiting this place lately, intend going away this week, to visit other friends in the county, before leaving for their home in Wakefield, Mass.

Mrs. S. Ingraham of Queensbury, is at present visiting her daughter, Mrs. Alfred Christy.

Mrs. James Stone of Houlton, who has been visiting her parents, has returned home.

Mrs. C. Z. Churchill, of Woodstock, paid his friends here, a visit last week.

Miss Ruth A. Mitchell, one of our popular young dress-makers, intends leaving soon for Chelmsford, Mass.

Walter Graham has again started his thrashing machine.

Wesley Gordon who lately moved from Springfield to this place, is making some good improvements on his new property. He has moved his barn to a more convenient place, laid water pipes and now has water handy for all purposes. We wish him success.

UPPER MAGAGUADAVIC.

Sept. 13.—The farmers are nearly all done harvesting here. We are having very fine weather.

Miss McLaughlin, from Massachusetts, was here visiting her uncle, Wm. Jamieson.

Miss Janie McKinnon, a former resident, paid the place a nice visit; on her departure she took her cousin with her, Miss Ella Hood, for a visit.

Miss Florence McMullin has gone to Fredericton to attend the Normal School.

Mr. and Mrs. Hunter spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Miller.

Miss Edith Hood has gone to Mrs. Hamilton's for a while.

Miss Sarah Hood is visiting at Tweedside with her sister.

DURHAM.

Sept. 11.—Mrs. John Bradley and daughter of Gibson, were visiting their many friends in Durham last week.

Miss Maggie Parker of Bloomfield Ridge paid us a short visit while on her way to Boston where she expects to remain for a few months.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. O'Neil are receiving our congratulations on a happy domestic event, a young daughter.

Wm. Ross of Houlton is visiting his old friends here. We imagine we hear the silvery chiming of wedding bells.

SOUTHAMPTON.

Sept. 12.—In my great hurry while writing you last, I unintentionally omitted the names of Jas. T. Masten, John Oldham and Chas. W. Dunham from the list of "probable candidates" for municipal honors this fall.

Two or three weeks ago Mr. John Fero decided not to milk his cows again this fall. They wandered so far, during the dry season through which we have just passed, that he was unable to get them regularly, and at last those five milch cows gave but a pint each. After they had not been milked for several days, he gave the whole of their milk to his two pigs, and it killed them both. "Uncle John" feels blue and its no wonder.

Mr. David Lutwick, wife and two children of Alma, Albert Co., are here visiting his sister, Mrs. Geo. Clynick. Mr. L. has been absent some thirty years, during which he has become "well fixed." He is one of the partners in a large mill concern.

Daniel Scriver, jr., lost a very fine two year old colt one day last week under very strange circumstances. When found in the pasture the animal gave every sign of having its back broken. It was hauled to the barn and put in slings, but almost before the owner was aware it was dead. Mr. S. intends to have a veterinary surgeon cut the body up, to ascertain if possible the cause of death. Albert Patterson lost a very fine colt the first of the season; but that got a severe cold, sickened and died. These were probably two as fine colts as were ever raised in the place.

Very few of our farmers will go to the exhibition next week for the simple reason that we (as you said in your article) are as far from Fredericton as the cities of Boston or New York.

Ephriam Clark woke the other morning and found himself all swelled up. He drove to a Woodstock doctor who told him he could do nothing for him. It is supposed to be dropsy, but he is gradually getting worse, and worst of all he has only his two small children to care for him.

A large hole, 4 x 6, and just two feet south of the channel post on Wm. Miller's front has been dug by some parties who, though seen, their names are unknown. A small tongue of land shoots out exactly west from the east shore of the river St. John. Behind this is the gravelly bed of a small brook and dry, except in one spot—north of channel post one rod—is a never-failing spring. A bunch of hazelnut bushes grew on the south side of the post, and these were cut away before operations were commenced. The channel post, which was deeply set by colonel McLaughlin thirty years ago, is on the extreme west end of this little cape or tongue of land. One Sunday morning just before haying John Dore happened to take a walk down to the river. Right opposite the "post" and the spring which bubbles immediately behind it, he saw a large red batteau with a canvass roof. He had scarcely seated himself on a large stone at the water's edge, when two men and a woman came from the little gully. They all looked sunburnt and showed exposure; but were not of the rougher class. The woman was between 40 and 50, and wore a dark stuff dress. Her hair, which had been a magnificent profusion of black, was now silvered. The two men resembled each other, and if any relation existed they were her sons. They asked how far it was to Pokiok, and paddled off. More anon.

PENNIAC.

Sept. 13.—The Methodist tea-meeting held last Saturday was a thorough success. The weather was pleasant, the grounds in good condition and the tables filled with everything good. Over 300 persons came from Fredericton, Gibson and Marysville on the excursion trains, besides the numbers who drove from various places. The fancy table was well patronized, the sale of articles realizing in the neighborhood of forty-five dollars. Taken altogether the receipts amounted to nearly two hundred dollars, which after deducting expenses will leave a snug sum towards repairing the church. We hereby tender our thanks to those who in any way helped to make the affair a success.

A very painful accident happened to John Dennison, sr., last Friday morning. He was in the act of placing a ladder on the roof of his house when he fell to the ground head first breaking his nose and otherwise injuring himself. He was unconscious for some time and it was feared that he had injured himself internally. Dr. Sharp was at once summoned and he now has hopes for the recovery of his patient. Mr. Dennison is over seventy years and has always been very ambitious. Two of his sons have come to visit him in his misfortune.

Lorenzo Savage lost a nice colt the other day. The animal was found in a brook near his house, and it is supposed that it had fallen over the bank and been drowned.

Mrs. S. Allen, widow of the late Chas. Allen of Gibson, is visiting relatives at Mt. Hope.

Mrs. T. G. Collins, who with her two children has been spending the summer with her mother, leaves on Friday for her home in Lowell.

The Misses Alice Donald, Katie Clark, Jessie Tompkins and Gertie Long, and Mrs. Minnie Peterson, all of Marysville, remained over Sunday with friends here.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Mawhinney of Mace's Bay, Charlotte county, have been visiting their friends in this place.

The union sunday School picnic, which took place on the 30th ult., was largely attended. Owing to the heavy wind it was not as pleasant as it might have been, but a whirl on Trail brothers aerolite swing made everything smooth. The evening was spent in tripping the light fantastic at B. Long's.

It Fooled Him.—What is the matter? said the gnat to the musquito. I'm disappointed. How? I've worked for ten minutes on what I thonght was a small bald spot. Well? The man had a wig on.

The executive committee of the Irish National League of America has issued a manifesto to Irishmen and friends of Ireland denouncing the Home Rule Bill submitted to the commons as pratically worthless.

H. T. Stevens, of the Moncton Times, publishes an "Open Letter to Sir John Thompson," asking him not to promote Judge Landry, alleging that he was "unfair, unjust, and tyrannical" against a person lately tried at Dorchester.

Rev. Mr. Thompson has declined the call of the Tracey Mills F. C. B. church to remain with them for another year, and has tendered his resignation, having accepted a call to a church in Caribou, Me. The Tracey Mills people very much regret his decision.

The demonstration to Sir John Thompson at Montreal Tuesday night was a regular fiasco. Although six bands had been engaged to draw the people from all parts of the city, only about two thousand attended, and those were mostly boys attracted by the music.

The Liberals had a monster political meeting at Shubenacadie, N. S. on Tuesday. Many hundreds of farmers assembled from outside districts and listened with rapt attention to addresses by Hon. L. H. Davies, M. P. Hon. A. G. Jones, Premier Fielding and Hon. D. C. Fraser, M. P.

The following comes from Rio Janeiro: The attack of the rebel fleet on the forts began at 9 o'clock Thursday. The garrison of the largest and strongest fort has declared for the rebels. The bombardment of the town began at 11 o'clock. The town has a desolate appearance. The people who are compelled to remain are greatly excited. All business is at a standstill. The air is full of alarming rumors.

A young woman made a charge against the rev. Angus McKay, of Pictou and West Branch, N. S., for an offence committed in P. E. Island. The Pictou correspondent of the Guardian says that the charge was investigated by the Kirk of Scotland synod with closed doors. The synod resolved "that rev. Angus McKay was guilty of grave improprieties in his conduct towards the young woman," and reprimanded Mr. McKay.

What promises to be a valuable quarry of black granite has been found in Bocabec not far from the public landing. In every other respect but color it bears a close resemblance to the red granite, and if it can be polished as easily there is no doubt that it will be of almost inestimable value. The St. George granite workers are interesting themselves in the stone, and some of them have samples in their possession, which they are working on.

The completed returns of the receipts and expenditures of the dominion for the year ended with 30th June last show a revenue of $38,132,701 and an expenditure of $36,745,122. This is the expense on account of what is called the consolidated fund. But there was a further expenditure on capital account, amounting to $3,881,887. The public debt has grown to $300,009,439 gross, this being the first time that the round three hundred million mark has been reached.

The plan of turning the Penobscot logs into Moosehead and thence down the Kennebec having worked well, it is now proposed to pursue a similar plan with regard to the St. John waters, so that the logs from that river may be turned into the Penobscot and floated down to Bangor, something which has never before been deemed possible, except by the process of rafting, which was not feasible. Surveyors have been over the ground, and leading Bangor men are concerned in the new enterprise.

The inquest on the body of Miss Morrison, killed in the accident to the steamer Rustler near Chatham on Tuesday last, was concluded on Saturday. The verdict was: "That May Agnes Morrison came to her death from a stick of timber running into the boat at Kerr's mill wharf, caused by the negligence of Capt. John Russel in steering his boat out of her proper course on the 5th Sept. inst." Mr. Thomson, Q. C. acting for the crown, advised the coroner to arrest Capt. John Russel; as the verdict was in effect manslaughter. Capt Russell was taken in charge.
