LUMBER SALE.

The sale of lumber leases was the principal event of the week. It was systematically and impartially conducted and gave entire satisfaction to all interested. The proceeds reached about $80,000, there being strong competition especially when lots touching on the Miramichi and its tributaries were offered. It was evident by the large attendance and sharp bidding that the lumber lands of the province are becoming very valuable, and that the lumbermen are as well acquainted with the well wooded blocks as is a resident of a city with its streets.

The new law has been pretty exhaustively criticized, but the universal verdict is that it is the best law yet put on the statute books with respect to timber lands. The long lease makes many portions of land extremely valuable, whereas a short lease would render them of very little consequence. In the case of streams such as the Renous or Dungarvon where driving is very difficult and costly, no lumberman would erect dams, build sluices, etc., if he had only a five or ten years lease. It would not pay him to do it and the land would therefore be of little worth although well covered with timber.

By the terms of the sale every mile has to be worked on each year. Whether it is or not the lessee is compelled to pay a certain stumpage, and it is probable that the lumber will be cut.

It is satisfactory to know that there is so much valuable land in the province yet in possession of the crown; and the laws passed by the present government against the granting or sale of large tracts such as was the practice of other governments were wise indeed. Not only is there a large revenue this year, but each year the stumpage will amount to a handsome sum, and surveyor general Tweedie is to be congratulated on the success of the recent sale.

LOOK ON THIS PICTURE.

From the utterances of the conservative leaders it is difficult to determine what will be the condition of affairs at the next session of the dominion government. One says that the tariff will be changed so that the farmer will not be so grievously burdened as at present, another declares that the national policy, first, last and every time will be the motto of the party. Sir John Thompson in an interview declared that extensive improvements will be made in the tariff, both as to matters of principle and administration. At the same time it is only proper to state that we have no idea of adopting the notion that the industries of the country should be completely sacrificed to the doctrines of the opposition in favor of a change in the tariff.

It is plain that Sir John labors under a difficulty. He does not appear to know just how many tariff changes will keep his party in power, and is willing to make a change if arrangements can be made with the owners of the industries that as he appears to think are not yet able to stand alone after years of careful nursing.

THEN ON THIS.

Hon. Mr. Foster in his address here on the 15th inst. declared positively that the conservative party would stand by the national policy, and that no change will be made in the tariff that will in any way effect protection principles.

Mr. Thompson advocates reciprocity principles in Ontario, while Mr. Foster urges the conservatives of this province to stand by the national policy with all its faults and imperfections. It is plain that the leaders are in a dilemma and that they have not as yet come to a conclusion as to what will be the best scheme for vote catching at the coming election.

GEORGE JOHNSON, dominion statistician, says that the adult population of New Brunswick is not, in comparison with the total population of the province, as generally able to read or to write as it was twenty years ago. Although many dispute this fact, yet when the census returns are carefully examined it appears to be grounded on a sure basis. When it is considered that the great majority of the adult population consists of aged people—those in the prime of life have left the province—this special statement of Mr. Johnson's, however disagreeable, must be accepted as true.

INTENDING exhibitors at the provincial exhibition to be held here on the 19th, 20th and 21st inst. should make application for space at once to the secretary, A. S. Murray, as the time is limited and applications are coming in rapidly. The show of horses, cattle, sheep, swine and poultry promises to surpass anything ever seen in the province. Ample accommodation will be provided at the hotels for all visitors, an efficient committee having the matter in charge. See special advertisement in another column.

THE Duke of Devonshire, formerly Lord Hartington, will move the rejection of the home rule bill on three grounds. They are that the bill is bad in its principles and in its details, that it had not received sufficient discussion, that it was not known whether the principles and details involved would be commended by the electors. There is no doubt but that the bill will be rejected. It will then be in order to get the voice of the people, who will decide by their votes whether the bill will become law or not.

GENERAL HERBERT has recommended to the government the arming of the Canadian militia with the new Martini-Metford rifle. It is a move in the right direction, as the Enfield guns now in use are entirely out of date when compared with the modern rifle. The new gun is not a magazine rifle, but a single loader, and is of the same calibre as the one now in use. It is said that the rifle has no recoil and will shoot point blank up to five hundred yards.

THE Behring sea award does not appear so beneficial to the Canadians and disastrous to the Americans as was a first supposed. The government journals in British Columbia say that the so-called victory is worse than defeat. The Americans are perfectly satisfied with the award—proof positive that they have lost nothing by the decision. The only thing about it that is of any value is that all future disputes will be settled by arbitration without any of the bluster of war or seizure.

Mrs. Collings, relict of the late Gamalial Collings, was buried at the F. C. Baptist church, Marysville, on Sunday last. Deceased was a well known resident of the Nashwaak, being one of the earliest settlers of that district. She was in her 89th year and had many friends. Numerous relatives as well as a large circle of friends speak of her death with regret.

A WOODSTOCK GIRL

Falls in Love With one of Pawnee Bill's Cowboys.

HOULTON, Me., Aug 30.—When the Pawnee Bill wild west show was in Woodstock yesterday, one of the cowboy riders connected with it chanced to meet a pretty young Canadian girl, and in the process of making her acquaintance became quite enamored.

The hours of the stay in Woodstock were all devoted to her society, and it was with the greatest reluctance that he tore himself away late that night when the special train which carries the show left for Houlton.

The next evening he left Houlton, taking with him the finest pony of the show, rifle and revolver, to renew the acquaintaince of the fair maid who had so quickly won his affection.

Early in the evening he was missed, and his flight being surmised, a Mexican cowboy and an Indian were dispatched in pursuit.

It is not a long journey from Houlton to Woodstock, and the men fairly flew over the route, hoping that they might somewhere overtake the fugitive, and thus be spared the task of searching through a strange town for him. But the cowboy Romeo also had an object in travelling with the utmost speed and he reached Woodstock long before they did.

The lover rode boldly into the town park, and finding a dark secluded corner fastened his pony there and then carefully hid his firearms in the vicinity.

This was all quickly done and, proceeding up street, the winsome cause of the fast increasing complications was found and the man from the west was perfectly happy.

The loving couple strolled quietly along the street oblivious of danger.

But the Mexican had arrived, and riding slowly around town to accustom himself to its surroundings, his bright eye fell upon the much-wanted man.

Without a moment's hesitation he seized a lasso which had been hanging from his saddle, and dashing behind the unsuspecting couple instantly had them fast in the loop of the lariat which he had thrown with unerring aim around them, and the Indian was immediately at his side to complete the capture.

The soft-hearted cowboy changed into a man raving mad, but resistance without the weapons which he had cast aside was hopeless.

The girl was frightened nearly out of her life, and to add to her consternation a small crowd quickly gathered amazed at her curious plight.

She was willing to promise anything to be released and upon her solemn agreement to visit Houlton the next day, a friend was allowed to take her home, but her lover, whose devotions had been so ruthlessly checked, was hustled back to Houlton, pony, gun, revolver and all, and lodged in jail for safe keeping.

Yesterday he was brought before Trial Justice Briggs, charged with larceny of the property from the show, and his Canadian Juliet was present as a witness.

Probable cause was found and he was bound over to the September term of court. Then the Mexican, who was delighted with Yankee justice as an adjunct to his work as a self-constituted officer of the law, hastened to Calais with the Indian, the ponies and all the property to join the show which had preceded them.

The girl in the case declares now that she means to stand by her lover to the end.

A BROTHER AND SISTER

Become Husband and Wife and Live Together Eighteen Months.

BRANTFORD, Aug. 30.—Tonight's Expositor says: A brother and sister residing in this city as man and wife have accidentally discovered they are brother and sister, and the paper gives the following particulars: "Violet Buckingham, a young woman of 21 years of age, was born in Ireland, and some years ago came to Canada and located permanently in London, Ontario, where she made her home with friends. A little more than 18 months ago she was introduced to a young man named Edward Vezzy, who had shortly before arrived in the Forest City from New Zealand, and who had been a soldier in the second Enniskillen fusiliers stationed at Secunderabad. The friendship ripened into courtship, and the young man pressed the girl to marry him. The marriage took place in London in the usual way. After residing there for some time they removed to Brantford, where Vezzy got employment with Messrs. A. G. Montgomery & Company. After coming to reside in Brantford for some time, the young woman sent a photograph of her husband to an uncle, who is the superintendent of one of the largest public charities in the city of Dublin. The picture so strikingly resembled this gentlemen's nephew and Violet's brother, whom she had not seen since she was nine years of age, that a feeling of fearful horror struck him. Being in an influential position in Ireland, he had no difficulty in securing the government's assistance to locate the retired or time expired soldier, whose name was Leopold Buckingham, and who at the present time would be about 25 years of age. He was traced to Brantford and the young wife found that her husband was her brother. Vezzy's real name was of course Buckingham, but when he enlisted in the army he adopted the other name in order to hide his identity from his friends, who would have been enraged at his enlistment. The couple had not lived very happily together, Vezzy being of a very passionate nature. The young woman, who is almost crazed with grief, has stated to her neighbors, that she did have the most extraordinary suspicions that all was not right, particularly during the last few months, but never did she dream for a moment of her awful position. The matter had been placed in a lawyer's hands. Vezzy, or Buckingham as his real name appears to be, has suddenly left the town and cannot be found. The woman has closed her home and is living with friends. The case will be placed in the hands of the police, who will satisfy themselves that it is most extraordinary that these people should meet accidentally and be married, unconscious of their relation, or whether it is a villainous scheme of the man Vezzy.

PENNIAC.

AUG. 30.— Hay making is about finished in this neighborhood and harvesting has been begun. The grain crop is a great deal better than that of last year.

The Penniac drive has at last reached its destination. A large party of men and several horses were engaged in the work while the stream was high from the heavy rain of Monday last.

The Union Sunday school will hold a picnic at Lower Penniac, on Saturday, Sept. 2d. A good time is looked for.

The members and congregation of the Methodist church intend holding a tea meeting and bazaar on Saturday, Sept. 9th, to which we cordially invite all who wish to enjoy an afternoon's outing in the country. The committee have secured the services of the Marysville band for the occasion. A good program of sports will also be carried out. There will be excursion trains from Fredericton at the low rate of twenty-five cents return tickets.

LAND SALE.

The Results Highly Satisfactory to all.

The sale of leases to cut lumber and timber of all kinds off the crown lands of the province, took place during the week. There was a large attendance of lumbermen from all parts of the province. The sale took place in the old legislative assembly room of the parliament buildings which had been cleared out for the purpose and afforded ample accommodation for the large number present. The surveyor general, with his staff, was present to look after the sale, while auctioneer Wetmore did the talking in his usually happy manner. The competition, particularly for the more valuable blocks of land, was keen from the start, and the bidding at times became quite exciting. The large tracts of land held by the bank of Montreal seemed to be in general demand and brought large prices. Ernest Hutchison was bound to raise his share of them at any price, while Geo. A. Hughes, the dark horse of the sale, who is believed to have been acting for some American capitalists, chased the big financial concern up into three figures every time a block came up. Timothy Lynch came in for a hard pounding, and had to pay a big price for all the land he purchased. For one block he paid $221 per square mile, and for yet another he was forced up to $301 per mile. J. B. Snowball paid well for his land of which he had a large quantity, the greater part of which he still retains.

Mr. Gibson met with more or less competition for his valuable lands but retained them all. K. F. Burns did not have to go above the upset price. The Fairley's and some operators represented by A. S. Murray, were forced to pay well for their land. Messrs. Wm. Richards and James Robinson were also large purchasers, but got their lands without much competition. The general result of the sale was most satisfactory, and shows that the crown lands of the provice are a valuable liability, whose value has been materially enhanced by the policy of the government. At the close of the sale F. E. Winslow, the bank of Montreal's agent, arose and, as one of those largely interested in the sale, expressed his satisfaction at the fair and impartial way in which the sale had been carried on. He wished also to convey his thanks to the surveyor general and his staff for the kind and courteous treatment he had received. He had found all the clerks of the department most obliging, and willing at all times of day or night to give any information asked for. He had met with competition in the purchase of his lands but he expected and was satisfied to pay the increased value. He had much pleasure in moving a vote of thanks to the surveyor general and his staff for their uniform kindness and courtsey during the sale. This motion was seconded by E. Hutchinson who, as one of the largest purchasers was well satisfied with the way the sale had been conducted.

Hon. Mr. Snowball then took the floor and in a brief but pleasant speech spoke of the pleasure he felt at the result of the bidding for the crown lands. As one who had held a large amount of valuable lands he had expected to pay more for it under the new regulations recently passed by the government. He had come expecting and prepared to meet keen competition. When called upon in open contest with others to pay a high price for his lands or loose them he had paid what they were worth, and he was satisfied with the result. He must also express his gratitude to the surveyor general's department for the obliging way in which the clerks had answered all questions, and given all the information in their power to assist the purchasers in their inquiries concerning the lumber lands. The sale had been a fair one, and he believed all so recognized it. Mr. K. F. Burns, the chairman, put the motion, which was carried with cheers, and in felicitous language he conveyed the thanks of the large assemblage to the surveyor general representing the department. The surveyor general on rising to reply was cordially received. He made one of his usually witty and manly speeches, in the course of which he took occasion to explain and uphold the policy of the government of which he was a member, concerning the crown lands of the province.

The lumbermen have all left for their homes and the great sale is over. The total receipt from all sources will be in the vicinity of $80,000.00.

HARVEY STATION.

AUG. 30.—Court City Camp, I. O. F. of McAdam, held their annual second annual picnic on the grounds by the lake shore on Thursday, 24th inst. Upwards of a thousand people attended the picnic. Large numbers came by excursion trains from Canterbury, Vanceboro, McAdam, and other points along the railway. The weather was all that could be desired until evening when rain began to fall. A good variety of amusements was provided by the committee of management, including boating, dancing and base ball. One of Little's acrobatic swings was on the grounds and was well patronized. The athletic games were not quite a success on account of the negligence of some of the sub-committees who were appointed to take charge of them. One of the chief attractions of the day was a phonograph, operated by Prof. Allerton of Woodstock. It contained a number of songs by popular singers, among them were three Scotch songs by our late neighbor, W. M. Atcheson, now a resident of Houlton. The songs were all distinctly given by the phonograph and much enjoyed by those who heard them. The members of courts Harvey Glen and City Camp paraded at 10 o'clock, a. m. The Royal Templars of Temperance also paraded in the afternoon and presented a fine appearance with their badges on and banners flying. Music was furnished by the Infantry school band from Fredericton, which was on the grounds throughout the day. Dinner and tea were supplied by the ladies of the Harvey sewing circle in a building erected at the station for that purpose. The fare was of the best quality, and a large number sat down to the tables. The proceeds of the dinner and tea amounted to $161. Prof. Allerton gave a phonographic concert in Taylor's hall in the evening which was largely attended. Dancing was afterwards indulged in and kept up till the small hours. Much credit is due to the managing committee and also to the ladies of the sewing circle for the satisfactory way in which the picnic was conducted.

It is with much regret that we record the death of William Wilson, a son of James Wilson, which took place on the 23rd inst. at his father's residence. He had a severe attack of pneumonia last winter from which he never fully recovered. He was thought to be progressing favorably until about a month ago when he was seized with a nervous affection to which he succumbed. He was an estimable young man and will be much missed. He was about 24 years of age. Much sympathy is felt for the bereaved parents as this is the second son they have lost within a year.

Postmaster Glendenning has been laid up for a few days from the effects of an accident, but we are glad to see that he is able to be out again.

Harvesting has now begun, but little headway can be made on account of the weather, which is very wet. Rain fell very heavy yesterday afternoon. It was accompanied by a gale of wind which blew down fences, and it is feared some damage has been done to the standing grain.

The remains of the late George Day were laid to rest at Lakeville Corner, Sunbury, on the 25th ult. His death was caused by cancer. He was in his fifty-sixth year, and was much respected.

Forty persons are reported killed by a cyclone at Savannah, Ga., and $10,000,000 worth of damage done.

Emma Goldman, the anarchist, was arrested at Philadelphia, on Aug. 31st on a charge of inciting a riot in New York city. She will be taken to New York.

Two passenger trains on the Harlem River railroad collided Sunday afternoon, killing the engineers and firemen of both trains, also Miss Reed of Brewsters.

J. T. Ramsay, a Moncton builder, has been awarded the contract for the erection of the new Union hotel at Shediac, which will be a much more imposing structure than the old one.

The Fall River manufacturers' association decided to reduce the wages of the mill employes from 10 to 15 per cent. The cutdown will go into effect on the second Monday in September.

The first Chinaman ever entered at the custom house passed through that institution at St. John. He came by the Duart Castle from Demerara, is a washerman, and being desirous of taking up residence paid $50.

The Tracey Mills F. C. Baptist church by a very large vote, has given their pastor, Rev. A. Thompson, a call to remain with them for another year. It is not known whether he will accept or not, as some of the churches on the other side of the line are endeavoring to secure his services.

The Buctouche and Moncton railway has been purchased by Dr. DeBertram, for a company of New York capitalists. Receiver E. G. Evens and manager F. Hall ran a special train over the road to be able to make a complete report of neat repairs to bridges and road bed. It is reported that the new company intend putting the road in condition at once.

The house of Representatives, Washington, Wednesday passed the bill introduced by Mr. Wilson, of West Virginia, to repeal the silver coinage clauses of the Sherman act. A much larger majority—one hundred—was obtained for the repealing proposition than was expected. Mr. Wilson's measure has gone to the senate, where the repeal feeling is not nearly so strong as it is in the House.

A sad accident occurred at Read's quarry, Stonehaven, Gloucester Co., about one o'clock Monday afternoon. While Joseph Pinet and some other men were working with a derrick it suddenly fell, killing Pinet and injuring two other men named Amos Commeau (foreman) and Fred Hache, but not seriously. Pinet belongs to St. Joseph's, near Grand Anse. He leaves a widow and four small children.

A report from Hampton states that there is confined in the jail at that place a woman, eighty years of age, convicted for a violation of the Canada Temperance act. The woman in question has been visited by a number of ladies of Hampton, who are probably as anxious that the saloons throughout the country be closed as those engaged in enforcing the Scott Act, but they do not approve of placing an old lady of eighty years in a convict's sell.

The deadly system of coupling cars at Hopewell, N. S., was the cause of another fatality on Friday morning. As Edwin Siddell, a brakesman on Gordon's special, was coupling moving cars at Stellarton his feet caught on the switch sleeper and he fell across the track and the train ran over him. His legs were terribly mangled and he died at noon after four hours of intense suffering. Siddell was a native of Oxford. The coroner's jury brought in a verdict of "accidental death."

A man named David W. Armstrong, whose address is Reading, Mass., advertises for a wife in the Moncton Times. He says:—"I hope some good young woman of the province of New Brunswick will take me up on this "Search for a Wife." She must be of good people, and one that will make a good, saving wife, and of the protestant faith. The right one, if we come to terms will have nothing to lose but everything to gain. I will tell about myself in letter and why I take this way to get a good wife."

The Boston Herald says: Over 6000 Canadians resident in the New England states have returned to Canada within the past few weeks, on account of the closing of the mills and factories in which they were employed. Serious trouble has broken out among railway employes. Wednesday afternoon the mobs were throwing coupling pins and the police were making ready to use gatling guns; but the mob was finally dispersed without the use of the gatling guns and without the shedding of blood.

Thirteen dead, another dying, nearly forty seriously injured and two missing is the sum total of the Chester horror. It is believed there are several bodies yet hidden by the mass of debris in the Westfield river, and some of the workmen who picked their way over the distorted timbers this morning told gruesome tales of uplifted arms and ghastly heads reflected in the stream. These stories however, lack corroboration. The work of removing the debris is progressing slowly, and not for several days will it be possible to obtain more definite information concerning the number of lives lost.

The storm of Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday was very severe in all parts of the United States. On the Atlantic coast telegraphic communication was so interrupted that news from points south of Washington is very meagre. It is reported that property in South Carolina and Georgia is damaged to the extent of over one million dollars. The damage to crops is especially severe in the south of Maine and Connecticut. A number of new unoccupied houses in Brooklyn, N. Y., were demolished. A few fatalities are reported. The storm was quite severe in Maine, demolishing many trees. Many small craft in Massachusetts harbors were damaged.

George W. Oulton, of Moncton, N. B., aged about fifty-four, has been stopping at the hotel, Thorndike, west end, Boston. Some time early yesterday morning, a servant traced escaping gas to his room, where Oulton was found partially unconscious. The servant found the gas turned on and roused Oulton, turned off the gas and opened the windows. About eleven o'clock the smell of gas was noticed again, and Oulton found unconscious with the gas turned on. Oulton was removed to the Massachusetts general hospital. His recovery is doubtful. It is stated that he had been on a protracted spree and this is believed to have led to the attempted suicide.
