FREDERICTON, JULY 1, 1893.

THE METHODIST CONFERENCE.

Revs. Jos. Sellar and Mr. Bell are from the North Shore, and they have been recently attending the conference of the Methodist church of New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island at Moncton. While there the thought struck them, incidentally of course, that it would be a fine idea, and one which would contribute to their own personal glorification, to have the conference pass judgment on the Bathurst school question. They knew that the matter was at present under judicial consideration in the supreme court of the province; they may, also, with apparent good reason, have anticipated that the decision of the highest judicial court in the province would not very thoroughly establish the truth of the contentions of the protestant minority at Bathurst, nor consign the Blair government to that political disgrace and discredit which they so eagerly desire; and therefore, with all these weighty considerations to move them, they threw the whole force of their Brobdignagian intellects in the direction of a magnificent coup d'etat, designed to settle the question once and for all, and overwhelm the arch-conspirator Blair with everlasting turpitude and disgrace. If they could only obtain a public verdict from the clever and intelligent number of clergymen present, in condemnation of the government's course with regard to this question, the supreme court would hardly dare to publish a decision to the contrary. They accordingly introduced a little resolution. This resolution it is unnecessary to publish here, as it will be found in full in our news columns to-day, but it will suffice to say that it embodied in a crystalized form all the very valuable historical statements and disinterested suggestions which the Protestant minority at Bathurst have, for the past twelve months, been hurling broadcast at the government, both individually and collectively considered. That resolution didn't pass. Why? Because in the first place, there is a very grave doubt in the minds of all intelligent people as to the alleged wickedness of the government in connection with the Bathurst school question; because in the second place the Methodist ministers assembled at Moncton are no less intelligent than their fellows; because, in the third place the leaders among that clever body have too much good sense to make fools of themselves by anticipating the judicial decision of the supreme court of New Brunswick; and lastly, because Mr. Sellar and his zealous co-laborer didn't secure enough votes to give the resolution a majority.

That is the simple explanation of the failure of this gigantic piece of ministerial strategy; that is why the matter is still at large. And, on the whole, the general public feel that the Methodist conference has done wisely, and are content, with them, to await the final decision of the able and impartial judge who has the question under his consideration.

TO-DAY, Saturday, the amendments to the petroleum inspection act take effect. There are eight points in New Brunswick, seven in Nova Scotia, thirty in Ontario, thirteen in Quebec, twenty-five in Manitoba and the territories, and three in British Columbia at which petroleum for illuminating purposes may be admitted in tank cars. The New Brunswick points are: St. John, Moncton, Fredericton, Chatham, St. Stephen, Sussex, Edmundston and Woodstock.

The Gibson Fire.

The village of Gibson a few days subsequent to the big fire presented a melancholy and deserted appearance, and the wholesale destruction of property which then occurred seemed to have paralyzed the former inhabitants of the village. But during the present week a great change is manifest in the appearance of the burned district. It was at first thought that owing to the fact that the great majority of people living in Gibson previous to the fire were wage-earners, employed in other places, only a very few would rebuild their houses; but while it is true that some will not venture to build again, still there are many who have already commenced operations, and more will follow their example in the near future.

The work of rebuilding the burned portion of Gibson has begun and already the village has entered on a new lease of life. Alex. Gibson started the movement by declaring his intention to build at once a brick tenement house on the site of his old one, and has gone vigorously at work to keep his word. Among others already at work building are: T H Hoben, W Bradley (shop), A Sewell, M Brown, C Titus, F Pond, D Evans, J F Miles, B H and Dan Babbitt, R Macklin, L A Belyea. Besides these Edward Johnston, C Minue, J Kyle, Geo Bailey and several others have announced their intentions of building in the near future.

Hiram Brewer is going to Detroit, Mich. H. Garrety and family will remove to Boston. George S. Peters will reside in Fredericton. Moses White is putting up a house at Marysville and will reside there.

The Gibson relief committee have kept open the church hall at that place, since the fire, and some twenty persons have their meals regularly there. Many take their breakfasts and supper at home and call at the hall for dinner as it is near their work. As buildings go up the number will gradually decrease. The committee have to some degree relieved most of the worst cases of destitution, the goods from St. John, this city and elsewhere, being well distributed and suited to the people's wants. A good deal yet requires to be done. It will take years of labor to make the village what it was and to place the people in as comfortable circumstances as they were before the fire. The following is a list of the goods and money which up to today have come into the hands of the committee and treasurer:

A HOST OF PRETTY LADIES

Attend the Provincial Institute—A Good Programme of Work Transacted.

The fourteenth annual session of the provincial teachers institute convened in the assembly hall of the Normal school on Wednesday afternoon at 2.30 p.m. The finest weather greeted the large body of visitors to the capital, and the proceedings at the institute this year were of more than ordinary interest. Dr. Inch, chief superintendent of education, opened the proceedings with prayer, after which he delivered a short address to the teachers present, welcoming them to the city and congratulating the institute on the very large number in attendance. In answer to numerous inquiries regarding eligibility for membership, he stated that the executive had had the matter under careful consideration, and had decided that any teacher who had paid the annual fee at a county institute would be eligible for membership here. In the absence of the assistant secretary Mr. Trueman was appointed to that position. A nominating committee for the election of officers was chosen, consisting of W. S. Carter, James Barry, Geo. J. Oulton, Inspector H. V. Bridges and W. T. Day. The following persons enrolled themselves as members of the institute:

James M. Palmer, of Fredericton, was elected secretary, and Miss Mary K. Tibbits, of Gagetown, assistant secretary.

Mr. Palmer submitted the annual audit report of the executive committee showing a balance of $139.64 to the credit of the institute.

Geo. A. Inch, of Fredericton, the only member of the grading committee present, submitted a very carefully prepared and exhaustive report of the committee, dealing fully with the important subject of grading. After discussing the several methods by which grading is done in this country and many cities of the United States, it was suggested that promotion by the teacher from whom the pupils come with the co-operation and assistance of the teachers to whom the pupils were to be sent, was the proper way in which pupils should be advanced or graded. This, in cases of nonconcurrence by the teachers interested, to be decided by the principal or superintendent of the schools. This report provoked considerable discussion. Adjourned.

In the evening the chief superintendent read his paper. He said the statistics presented showed a remarkable contrast between use of steam forty years ago and its use to-day, as well as that of electricity and other powers, and was an evidence of this progressive age. The cause of education is undergoing wonderful changes. We are in art as well as science in a state of transition and of consequent unrest and must be careful in the adoption and adaptation of new methods. The world to-day is calling for practical knowledge, and to this end schools in many cities in the United States devote a reasonable proportion of their time to manual training. To place a liberal and practical education in the possession of every child without regard to class creed or color ought to be the aim of all educationists. The world looks for purity in the life of teachers as well as knowledge. Behind all the machinery and thought there is a power invisible which sees and knows every effort which the humblest of us may make.

Addresses were delivered by Mayor Beckwith, hon. A. F. Randolph, rev. Dr. Brecken, Dr. Brecken, and prof. White rendered a violin solo.

Thursday morning the institute convened at 9 o'clock. After roll call the nominating committee presented twenty-two names from which to select the members of the executive.

P. Cox, A. B., B. Sc., of the St. John grammar school, in a paper entitled: Do existing methods of teaching as applied in our schools develop, as they should, the ability of pupils to think, pointed out many inaccuracies in teaching, and exemplified them by blackboard illustrations, the results of his experience and observation, criticizing severely the principle of "cram" as opposed to logical reasoning. Mr. Cox's excellent and exhaustive paper was much appreciated by the institute, eliciting favorable comment from Dr. Harrison, Principal Mullin, Messrs. Montgomery, Foster, Henderson, Kay, Creed, Palmer, G. A. Inch.

The report of the committee on grading was referred back to the original committee, with Messrs. March, Steeves and Henderson to report at a subsequent session.

After roll call at the afternoon session the nominating committee reported the result of the election of the elective members of the executive committee. Those elected were: Messrs. Britain, Hay, Cox, Foster, Parlee, March, Sutherland, Oulton, Misses Gilmore, and Tibbits.

J. F. Rogers, principal of the model school at Fredericton, read an excellent paper, discussing the necessity of unity in the teaching of arithmetic. The following basic principles were established: The effect of position with regard to the point, illustrated by objects, as high as 3,000, as low as three-thousandths; developing multiplication from addition, and division from substraction; reduction following naturally from the decimal system of notation; fractions and ratio following from division; in division the word measure used for divisor; least common multiple and highest common factor taught; the unitary method applied to all practical questions. Nearly all solutions can be reached by an application of these seven principles:

1. Multiplying the given number by another and dividing by the same does not change the value of the given number.
2. Multiplying both dividend and divisor by the same number does not alter the value of the quotient.
3. Multiplying the dividend increases the quotient.
4. Multiplying the divisor decreases.
5. Dividing both dividend and divisor by the same number does not altar the value of the quotient.
6. Dividing the dividend decreases the quotient.
7. Dividing the divisor increases the quotient.

By means of simple objects and blackboard illustrations the subject was handled admirably.

Mr. Rogers' paper was discussed by Messrs. Barry, Parlee, and Supt. Inch.

Mr. Meagher also read a paper on arithmetic.

J. B. Oakes, formerly an inspector of schools in this province, now of Wolfville, N. S., being present was invited to the platform by Supt. Inch and briefly addressed the teachers assembled.

On motion of Inspector Carter the consideration of the subject of grading was postponed until a future session of the institute.

A large number of teachers availed themselves of the kind offer of the Fredericton teachers and enjoyed a moonlight excursion down the river.

Friday morning's session opened at 9 o'clock. After some discussion Inspector Carter moved, and Mr. Parlee seconded, the following amendment:

Resolved, that the government be requested to so amend the act that any member of the institute may be elected a representative to the senate.

The amendment was almost unanimously adopted.

The election of a representative to the senate was then proceeded with, and James M. Palmer was elected.

The report of the committee upon text books was submitted by the chairman, Berton C. Foster. The committee had not arrived at a conclusion in regard to all the text books but suggested the following changes: Recommended that a standing committee on text books be appointed and report from time to time, when thought necessary. That Sangster's arithmetic be struck off the list of prescribed texts.

The elementary arithmetic was unsatisfactory and suggested that Kirklands & Scott's be substituted and supplemented by Hamblin Smith's in the 7th and 8th grades. As Todhunter's elementary algebra did not meet the requirements in teaching, that Smith's algebra be authorized.

In book keeping that Gage & Co's standard book-keeping with blanks be authorized. Several other changes were also suggested, the principal ones, however, are here mentioned.

Mr. Town strongly objected to so frequent changes in the text book.

Mr. Parlee thought Hamblin Smith's arithmetic too difficult for pupils in 7th and 8th grades.

The total enrollment of members was 232.

CUMBERLAND BAY.

JUNE 24.—Work has fairly begun on our bridge, and we hope soon to have a structure of which the village may justly be proud.

A very enjoyable day was spent by the members of the Juvenile Temple on Wednesday last. In the early morning they drove to the Range where a picnic ground was in readiness for them. Both young and old enjoyed themselves, even the "bummers," who were really an addition to the party. A charming sale on Grand Lake was one enjoyable feature of the picnic.

Several of our young people are about to leave us. Miss Georgie Barton returns to Brooklyn, Mass., on Wednesday, the 28th. She will be accompanied by her sister Miss Lenora Barton.

The schools in this place will close for their summer vacation on Wednesday, June 28th. Public examinations will be held in both schools on that date.

C. Stewart's little boy is reported very low to-day.

Rev. R. W. J. Clements occupied the pulpit of the Methodist church on Sunday evening, 18th inst.

The camp meetings held at Cole's island were largely attended on Sunday, 25th inst.

The Baptist church is undergoing extensive repairs, preparatory for the reception of the new Baptist minister, who has received a call to the church.

The orangemen are preparing for a celebration on the 12th.

Rain is much needed and will be welcomed by the farmers of this vicinity.

[From an Occasional Correspondent.]

Pioneer Temple, No. 23, I. O. G. T., held their annual picnic at the range, June 21st. The morning rose clear and bright and about seven o'clock each member of the temple, carrying a basket laden with good things, might have been seen wending their way to the place of meeting. Fun and jollity were the order of the day, the chief topic of amusement being not templars, but two bummers who were also en route for the picnic grounds. At eight o'clock the teamster arrived and with flags waving and colors flying, the crowd started. After a two hours ride, they arrived at the grounds, which had been carefully prepared. After taking part in various games, dinner was spread, the chief courses consisting of baked beans and apple pot pie hot from the oven, besides smoked fish and numerous other delicacies, which were enjoyed not only by the young people, but as well by the old. After dinner the whole party went for a sail on the lake, where they enjoyed themselves until the call came for tea. After tea a procession was formed to march to the wharf to see the May Queen arrive, then back to the grounds where they amused themselves in various ways until six o'clock, when tired and happy with the day's enjoyment, they started for home, leaving behind them the best wishes for the prosperity of Mr. and Mrs. Conrad Miller and Mrs. D. McLean, whose generous hospitality promoted the enjoyment of all present. The day so full of enjoyment, we regret to say, ended unfavorably for one of the party, who preferring to make the third party in a single carriage, to returning in a double waggon with the rest of the templars, enjoyed the pleasure of a three mile walk.

We are glad to know that Mrs. William Clark, who has been ill for some time, is slowly recovering.

Work on the bridge here is being rapidly pushed forward, and we hope it will soon be ready for use.

The Baptist meeting house in this place is being repaired, but not before it was needed, as it has not been safe to occupy for some time.

DOAKTOWN.

JUNE 29.—Rain is greatly needed here as the crops are not looking as well as they should.

Miss Janie Ogilvie entertained a number of friends on Thursday evening last.

The public examination of the school district No. 4, was held last Friday. A number of visitors were present.

On Monday evening the ladies of the Presbyterian church held a very enjoyable and successful social in the hall over the school house. A short musical program was given, and about $30 was cleared. One pleasing feature of the entertainment was the presentation to Miss Janet Rossborough, who has resigned as teacher here, of a beautiful gold chain and address from her pupils. The address was as follows:

MISS ROSBOROUGH,

Dear Friend and Teacher,—We cannot allow you to go away from us without giving expression to our deep sorrow in parting from you. During the short time you have been with us you have endeared yourself to us both by your zeal for our progress in our studies and by your readiness to co-operate with us in our amusements and social gatherings.

You will kindly accept from us, your pupils, this little offering, as a token of the high place you hold in our affections, of our sympathy with you in your trials, and as a reminder that our best wishes for future prosperity and happiness shall ever be yours.

Signed on behalf of the school,

MAY I. FREEZE,
JESSIE J. MURRAY,
M. A. B. L. ELLIS.
