

WELCOMED.

Lord and Lady Aberdeen Accorded a Hearty Reception in Fredericton.

The Ball, Agricultural Conference, State Dinner and Torchlight Procession

A Most Successful Demonstration from End to End.

When the evening train from St. John having on board His Excellency the Governor General and Lady Aberdeen and their staff rolled into the C. P. R. depot at 8.30 o'clock Wednesday evening, the depot and grounds was one dense mass of humanity, present to accord Fredericton's welcome to the distinguished visitors.

The Mayor and Corporation of the City of Fredericton, on behalf of themselves and the citizens of said City, have the pleasure of cordially welcoming Your Excellency and Lady Aberdeen to our city.

Your family name, as representative of Her Majesty, is very familiar to us, as previous to the confederation of these Provinces, your illustrious uncle then the Honorable Arthur Hamilton Gordon, as Lieutenant-Governor of this Province, resided at Government House in this City for a number of years and during such residence his personal interest in the Militia and general affairs of this Province, and his literary labors, work descriptive of his "Wilderness" journey, first made opportunities to speak of the excellence of its products, and of the noble manhood of its men and women who give their best services to advance its interests.

We assure your Excellency that the subjects of Her Majesty the Queen in this City and Province, are always pleased at an opportunity of expressing their confidence and attachment to Great Britain, and will rejoice in the cheerfulness in the support any satisfactory measures that may be promoted to the closer union of the colonies and mother country.

We pray that the Almighty in His wisdom may long spare Your Excellency and Lady Aberdeen in your career of usefulness and Christian labor, and that during the remainder of your term in our Dominion, you and your family may enjoy such continued happiness and prosperity, as shall leave the kindest and most favorable memories of Canada, and your residence therein.

Your Excellency, who was most enthusiastically received, said: "Your Honor, Mr. Mayor, Ladies and Gentlemen: I have the honor to receive from you a most interesting and handsomely illuminated address full of loyalty and the courteous hospitality of the city and the citizens of Fredericton. You have been good enough, Mr. Mayor, to say in the address that the name of my family is not unfamiliar here. I can truly say in response that, while to know something of the Province of New Brunswick and of the city of Fredericton is a matter of ordinary general education, yet as regards myself no part of the Dominion of Canada—no city that Dominion—is so familiar or has been so long familiar to me as the Province of New Brunswick and the city of Fredericton. (Applause.)"

At 9 a. m. Thursday, Their Excellencies took a special train for Marsville, and were accompanied by Lieut. Governor Fraser, Attorney General Blair, Prov. Secy. Mitchell, Hon. H. R. Emmerson, A. T. Dunn, C. H. LaBrosse, Capt. H. M. Campbell, and His Excellency's two aides-de-camp. Arriving at Marsville, they visited the residence of Alexander Gibson, who was presented to Their Excellencies. They then visited the Methodist church, Mr. Gibson and C. H. LaBrosse accompanying the party, and the choir singing a hymn as they entered the building. After inspecting the church, they drove over the Nashwaak river to the cotton mill, through which they were shown by Mr. Hart. Lord and Lady Aberdeen expressed themselves as very much pleased with their reception. Leaving Marsville they drove to Fredericton and paid a visit to the University of New Brunswick, where they were received by Chancellor Harrison, Professor and Mrs. Bridges and Professor, Mrs. and Miss Bailey. They were shown through the University building, the museum, the observatory, gymnasium and other buildings. They next visited Christ Church Cathedral, where His Lordship Bishop Kingston received them. Their next visit was to the Provincial Normal School, where Dr. Inch and Principal Mullin were waiting to receive them and showed them through the building. Lady Aberdeen then left the party and drove to Victoria Hospital, while the remainder of the party drove home to lunch.

The Agricultural Conference. Crowds of people commenced to gather on Parliament Square soon after 1 o'clock Thursday afternoon, and during the afternoon there must have been fully 4,000 people, largely farmers and their wives, present at the great agricultural conference. When His Excellency and Lady Aberdeen arrived shortly after 2 o'clock, they were received on the large platform erected at the entrance to the Parliament buildings, by Governor Fraser, Premier Mitchell, Provincial Secretary and other members of the Local Government, Mayor Beckwith, the Aldermen and city officials, Prof. Robertson, and others. Their Excellencies were escorted to chairs at the front of the platform and as they made their appearance the Citizens' Band stationed on the stand opposite played the National Anthem, the Mayor proposed three cheers for Their Excellencies, and which were given with a will.

The Civic Address. His Worship then advanced, surrounded by the Aldermen, and read the civic address to Their Excellencies, as follows: To His Excellency The Right Honorable Sir John Campbell Hamilton Gordon, Governor General of Canada. May it please your Excellency: The Mayor and Corporation of the City of Fredericton, on behalf of themselves and the citizens of said City, have the pleasure of cordially welcoming Your Excellency and Lady Aberdeen to our city.

Your family name, as representative of Her Majesty, is very familiar to us, as previous to the confederation of these Provinces, your illustrious uncle then the Honorable Arthur Hamilton Gordon, as Lieutenant-Governor of this Province, resided at Government House in this City for a number of years and during such residence his personal interest in the Militia and general affairs of this Province, and his literary labors, work descriptive of his "Wilderness" journey, first made opportunities to speak of the excellence of its products, and of the noble manhood of its men and women who give their best services to advance its interests.

We assure your Excellency that the subjects of Her Majesty the Queen in this City and Province, are always pleased at an opportunity of expressing their confidence and attachment to Great Britain, and will rejoice in the cheerfulness in the support any satisfactory measures that may be promoted to the closer union of the colonies and mother country.

We pray that the Almighty in His wisdom may long spare Your Excellency and Lady Aberdeen in your career of usefulness and Christian labor, and that during the remainder of your term in our Dominion, you and your family may enjoy such continued happiness and prosperity, as shall leave the kindest and most favorable memories of Canada, and your residence therein.

Your Excellency, who was most enthusiastically received, said: "Your Honor, Mr. Mayor, Ladies and Gentlemen: I have the honor to receive from you a most interesting and handsomely illuminated address full of loyalty and the courteous hospitality of the city and the citizens of Fredericton. You have been good enough, Mr. Mayor, to say in the address that the name of my family is not unfamiliar here. I can truly say in response that, while to know something of the Province of New Brunswick and of the city of Fredericton is a matter of ordinary general education, yet as regards myself no part of the Dominion of Canada—no city that Dominion—is so familiar or has been so long familiar to me as the Province of New Brunswick and the city of Fredericton. (Applause.)"

At 9 a. m. Thursday, Their Excellencies took a special train for Marsville, and were accompanied by Lieut. Governor Fraser, Attorney General Blair, Prov. Secy. Mitchell, Hon. H. R. Emmerson, A. T. Dunn, C. H. LaBrosse, Capt. H. M. Campbell, and His Excellency's two aides-de-camp. Arriving at Marsville, they visited the residence of Alexander Gibson, who was presented to Their Excellencies. They then visited the Methodist church, Mr. Gibson and C. H. LaBrosse accompanying the party, and the choir singing a hymn as they entered the building. After inspecting the church, they drove over the Nashwaak river to the cotton mill, through which they were shown by Mr. Hart. Lord and Lady Aberdeen expressed themselves as very much pleased with their reception. Leaving Marsville they drove to Fredericton and paid a visit to the University of New Brunswick, where they were received by Chancellor Harrison, Professor and Mrs. Bridges and Professor, Mrs. and population. May I also say that that experienced lawyer, Philip Smith, who as a matter of official business had to follow his steps, made this remark: "I have had officially and from a legal point of view to make a microscopical examination of this young man's life from the ages of 24 to 28, and all that I can say is that the more I have seen of his life the more I admire his character." (Applause.)

Allow me, Mr. Mayor, in conclusion, to say that it is no mere phrase or complimentary utterance when I assure you that we desire with all concerned in offering most hearty and sincere wishes for the increasing success and prosperity of the community of which you are the chief and worthy civic dignity. (Loud applause.)

The Aldermen, Civic Officials, and members of the Central Committee were then presented to Their Excellencies as follows: Ald. Moore, Ald. Rosborough, Ald. Gilman, Ald. Anderson, The City Clerk, A. S. Murray, Hon. P. Thompson, B. Edgewood, Sheriff Sterling, J. W. McCready, James S. Neill.

Mayor Beckwith, with a few complimentary remarks then introduced Professor Robertson who said: "In the province of New Brunswick which has agricultural resources so vast, it is fitting that a large gathering and that of the best people should come together to give emphasis of the importance of the agricultural calling. A gathering like this will put into the hands of many of the followers of that occupation a new conception of its dignity. People elsewhere take us in Canada at our estimate of ourselves. When we think of ourselves and speak of ourselves as a few folk who are hewers of wood and drawers of water only, then we are not doing justice to the public opinion of the world. A gathering like this will put new heart and new encouragement into the labors of the farmers and make other esteem us as those who are discharging the highest duties of good citizenship. I am very much gratified indeed to have the honor of saying before this large assemblage how much I esteem the great help which His Excellency, the Earl of Aberdeen, has given to the agricultural interest of Canada already. He has everywhere, on all fitting occasions, taken pains to emphasize his faith in the future greatness of this country. His made opportunities to speak of the excellence of its products, and of the noble manhood of its men and women who give their best services to advance its interests. The Countess of Aberdeen requires no praise and no introduction where the English language is spoken; her name is everywhere the synonym of beneficent work—a benediction in the homes of the people. I am sure I voice your sentiments when I say that as Canadian citizens we rejoice to welcome to our gathering, it will be an occasion that will call the attention of the world, wherever newspapers are read, to the attractions of New Brunswick—to its fertile soil—to its grand scenery—to its salubrious climate and advanced civilization, its school-houses and churches and every thing needed to make life comfortable and happy. I hope and believe this gathering will render you and all the people of this province a wider and more lasting service than any we expect when it was first proposed to be held. I will detain you longer at this moment, beyond again expressing my satisfaction at this highly representative meeting, and will now call upon the President of the Provincial Farmers' and Dairy-men's Association to read an address from that body."

The Farmers' Address. Mr. West then read the following address: To His Excellency the Right Honorable John Campbell Gordon, Earl of Aberdeen, etc., etc., Governor General of Canada. May it please Your Excellency—On behalf of the members of the Farmers' and Dairy-men's Association of this Province, we desire to convey to you and to the Countess of Aberdeen our heartfelt and most welcome wishes to our province. We are glad on this occasion to give expression to our loyalty and attachment to our most gracious Sovereign and beloved Queen, and to do so through so worthy a representative, and to be able to do so with it our welcome to one who has in a practical manner shown himself a friend to the development of this Province.

We feel in common with our brethren in the west that we have a country of large extent and rich in natural resources, which are as yet in some cases scarcely prospectively developed, and we would be glad to have with us our friends the water in greater numbers than we have realized. Through the kindness of His Honor the Lieutenant Governor, and several members of the Government of this Province, we have already had an opportunity of seeing several of the sights and of the chief institutions of the city with much profit as well as much pleasure to ourselves. Not only so but we have had an opportunity of visiting that most interesting and remarkable locality, Marsville, which I venture to say, furnishes an example of enterprise and of successful energy, of which not only New Brunswick but Canada may be proud.

Mr. Mayor, I will refer for a moment longer to those allusions which the address contains to the fact that: The Name of Gordon. You are not unknown in Fredericton. You have referred to my uncle who, in consequence of his long services as a colonial administrator, commencing his career in this Province, has been recognized by Her Most Gracious Majesty as deserving of a peerage. Therefore he is now known as Lord Gordon, and you know he, but expect Sir Arthur Gordon will remain the more familiar title here. You have referred in terms of warm appreciation to his residence in New Brunswick, of which he retains and always will retain, a most pleasing recollection. As you know he was privileged to take some part—perhaps not an inconsiderable part—in matters of great moment affecting the welfare not only of this Province, but of the Dominion as a whole.

But Your Honor, Mr. Mayor and Gentlemen, there is another tie which exists between our family and Fredericton of even a closer and dearer nature. I believe there are not a few here who have recollections, and I think kindly recollections, of my late brother, whose name I have the honor to bear. He was here as Lord Haddo, and you can easily understand that it is a matter of touching interest to me to find that his name also is remembered with those kindly feelings to which I have referred. To that also I can testify my appreciation. I desire now, even after this lapse of time, to testify to his hearty appreciation regarding the great kindness which he received while a visitor in Fredericton. May I say also, knowing as I do, that they are not few here who remember him in this way, that we cannot doubt that had he been spared, the experience which he gained in his travels on this continent would have been used for the benefit of his fellowmen, and more especially of that particular class in which he took a most profound interest. I refer to our sea-faring services which Mr. Robertson has been enabled to render in this most important matter. I venture to congratulate the Government of the Dominion of Canada on their discretion in selecting a man so admirably fitted for the important work which he has undertaken, namely, to encourage, to stimulate and to instruct in reference to the great dairy industry. Now, I think one reason why Professor Robertson has thus far had a much success and it is a reason reflecting credit upon the farmers as well as upon himself, is this—that it is clearly manifest to them that his work is not only practical, but is also thoroughly sound and disinterested in its character as regards himself. I do not mean that he is here as a volunteer or an amateur, but that he has no axe to grind of his own. (Great laughter) and therefore you have more confidence in him. Farmers, like all practical people, are a little on the alert in this matter. I remember once in my county, Aberdeenshire, I got a gentleman to come around and give lectures on dairying. Well, he was a pretty good lecturer—not equal to Professor Robertson, by any means, but I noticed that the farmers were not impressed—he did not seem to catch on, as we say, very much. I found afterwards one reason for this. He brought with him various utensils, churns, butter-makers, separators, etc., but on each of these he had his own name, and the farmers said, "Oh yes, we see what it is he wants us to do. He wants us to buy these utensils and thus make a good profit for himself," so they did not think that quite the correct way of proceeding. This man, however, a passing illustration. What I want to refer to is the great scope for your skill and industry which exists in the further development of this great and important industry, in a department which has been sometimes referred to and comprised in the minor products of farming, but is more strictly regarded as a distinct branch of the industry. It is a branch which has been sometimes referred to and comprised in the minor products of farming, but is more strictly regarded as a distinct branch of the industry. It is a branch which has been sometimes referred to and comprised in the minor products of farming, but is more strictly regarded as a distinct branch of the industry.

Broken Up the Total Results of the farming industry. Everyone knows there has been a depressing fall in the price of milk and butter, and there has been no corresponding fall in the matter of dairy, and I will, as an illustration of this, venture to speak of the testimony of the farmers of Oxford and Leeds. I think Mr. Robertson will tell you that the farmers have been forming a profitable thing. Gentlemen, what can be done in Ontario can be done in New Brunswick, where the farmers are not inferior to those in any other part of the Dominion in enterprise and industry. (Loud Applause.) Not only in Canada, but in the old country we find this illustrated and proved. In the county of Ayrshire, Scotland, which you know is a great dairying county, not only have the prices of dairy products been maintained, but the value of those farms that chiefly depend on that industry, has been maintained. Rents have not only not fallen, but have gone up. You may say, that is because they have good markets, but the fact is that the prices of other farming products have gone down, while the output of the dairy has risen in value. Farmers are chary of new fangled inventions or theories. They want a thing put to the test before they will adopt it, and they are quite right. Some farmers who have indulged in speculation as regards new machines, etc., have sometimes found that a little more caution would have been desirable. The Provincial Secretary this morning told me an anecdote and as I have the privilege of speaking first I will take advantage of it instead of leaving the story for him. A worthy Scotch farmer was anxious to improve his land and make it more valuable, though he would try a kind of new manure, which had been more advertised than analyzed perhaps. He said, "John, the time is coming when a man will be able to get his best potatoes from a fertile acre of land." "Well," said John, "I'm thinking when that time comes you will be able to put the crop in the other hand there is."

A Very Excellent Proverb, which says that "the proof of the pudding is in the eating." Prof. Robertson's theories have been put to the test of experience and proved to be based upon scientific principles. We want the farmers of this country not to go into rash speculations, but to make further proof of their theories by the use of the most valuable. Look at the little kingdom of Denmark—the extraordinary increase in its dairy products of recent years, and the high price obtained for its butter. True, they have certain advantages before them, but the sugar bonnet of that country they can get cheap, good food, but on the other hand their climate is no better than yours, perhaps not as good in many respects.

Again, we have this co-operative principle in factories, which has not only been found successful in Denmark, but in Ireland where Lady Aberdeen could tell you of many thriving creameries which, at the great pains taken, turn out nothing but the very best article and thus the high price is maintained. After all it is simply a matter of taking sufficient care. By the co-operative system the highest standard of quality is secured. No man likes to be condemned for sending inferior milk, as it is tested at the factory. The co-operative dairyman may be subject to another difficulty we have observed in Scotland. Where the farmer's wife takes her butter to the merchant's shop to sell it the merchant says: "I will give you six pence for that pound of butter." "Why," said she, "you gave my neighbor, who is a better butter." The good lady does not like that; does not appreciate it, and therefore the price is lowered to a dead level, which neither suits the farmer nor the consumer. The advantage which you secure from these factories is that while the best possible article is produced the highest price is obtained.

Prof. Robertson spoke of the Dignity of the Profession of the farmer. That I think we ought to keep in view, so that the families of the farmers—the children of the farmers—may feel that they should be respected, so that there will be profit in the profession to those of them who take to it, not thinking it necessary to go out of farming and into something else more fashionable or attractive. A gentleman traveling in England found a companion who was most interesting and intelligent. "May I ask what your profession is?" "Oh," he said, "I have no profession, I am only a farmer." "Only a farmer? What finer profession can you have? What would this country be without its farming profession?" (Applause.) We must get up to the dignity of the profession; give our whole energy to it. I am told that in this Province, owing to a desire to fill up the whole time, it is the practice of many of the farmers to take a turn at some other industry, for instance lumbering. The consequence is that those left at home have to do their best to feed the cattle, and the cattle are not always as well fed as they should be; consequently when the farmer comes back from the lumber woods he hears of the death, it may be, of two or three of the
