

NEWS ABOUT TOWN

Social, Personal and General Occurrences of the Week.

CRISP AND TO THE POINT.

W. H. Carlin made a business trip to Montreal this week.

Mrs. Wm. Lemont is in Charlottetown, visiting her daughter, Mrs. Johnston.

J. Fred. Hume, M.P. of Nelson, B. C., has sold out his general store to his clerks.

Mrs. A. J. Logie, of Chatham, is here visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Campbell.

The Lewis and Stanley exhibitions were held on Wednesday, and both were successful.

D. Holland, of Moncton, has secured the contract for roofing the parliament buildings with Spahn.

The steamer Aberdeen will resume her trips to Woodstock next week if the river is sufficiently high.

John McCann, well known for many years as an employe at Ald. Golding's lively stable, died Sunday night.

Miss Marie Lugin, of Boston, who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. W. P. Flewelling, returned to Boston today.

Mr. and Mrs. John J. Weddell entertained the Methodist Normal school students at their residence Thursday evening.

The Fredericton Keely Institute have purchased the exclusive rights for the use of the Keely medicines in the Maritime Provinces.

The young ladies of the U. N. B. entertained the members of the football class at a reception at the University on Thursday evening.

Lieut. George Goodridge Fraser, whose death is reported from India, was a son of the late Dr. Fraser of this city, and a nephew of the late W. H. Needham.

Mrs. McLeod, mother of Mrs. Dr. Sharp and Mrs. H. H. Pitts, died at the latter's home yesterday, aged seventy-four. She belonged to Springfield, Kings Co.

Mrs. James Tibbitts left yesterday to spend the winter with friends in California. She expects to join a party at Boston which will be with her to her journey's end.

His Lordship the Bishop of Fredericton, is expected at Benton, Carleton Co., on the 22d inst., when the rite of confirmation will be given to a number of candidates in St. Mary's Church.

Some unknown person broke a window in the Methodist church Thursday night, and obtained an entrance, but there was nothing there that suited his taste and he left without booty.

Mrs. Belle M. Taylor & Co., the St. Mary's milliners, will have their opening day next Wednesday, Oct. 17th, and no doubt the ladies of that locality will swarm the place to see the latest styles.

Mr. and Mrs. T. Carleton Allen left for Boston this morning, and before returning Mr. Allen will consult an ear and throat specialist for a trouble from which he has been suffering for some time.

WANTED—A capable girl to do general housework; small family; good wages. Must come well recommended.

Miss Frank J. Morrison, Oct. 13. Charlotte Street, Fredericton.

Hon. A. F. Randolph, Rev. Dr. Saunders, H. C. Creed and D. W. Estabrook have been appointed a committee by the Baptist congregation to arrange the program for induction of Rev. J. S. Dredman on the 24th inst.

Mrs. J. C. Miller, Miss D. Sadie Wiley, Miss Jennie Cooper and Miss Bessie McNally were thrown from a carriage on Brunswick street Wednesday afternoon, but all escaped injury except Mrs. Miller, who was badly bruised.

The Carleton Circuit court, Judge VanWart presiding, opens at Woodstock on Tuesday next and on the docket will be the criminal libel suit brought by Registrar Leighton against J. H. Crockett, of the Fredericton Gleaser.

The St. Stephen curlers have decided to enter the maritime association this year and take part in the bonspiel to be held at Leighton against J. H. Crockett, of the Fredericton Gleaser.

Inspector Carter knows a good thing when he sees it. At the Charlotte county teachers' institute meeting last week he read to the teachers assembled, a recent editorial from THE HERALD, containing advice to parents in relation to the public schools.

Chas. Perry, charged by Mrs. Margaret Eastman with attempt at rape has been sent up for trial at the next Sunbury Circuit Court, which meets next Tuesday at Burton.

In the preliminary examination Chas. E. Duffy appeared for the Crown and Geo. F. Gregory, Q. C., for the prisoner.

Judge Wedderburn was among the guests at the Queen's when he looks just as jaunty as when fighting the Fraser-Wedderburn government battles in the legislature fifteen years ago. The Judge enjoys farming with the dispensing of justice and has a charming home at Hampton.

M. B. Dixon, barrister of St. John, acting for John B. Gunter, insurance agent, of this city, has issued a writ against Hon. A. F. Randolph, John W. Spurdin, H. C. Creed, Havelock Coy, John T. Clark, B. A. Everett and Judson Estabrook, claiming $10,000 damages for wrongful expulsion from the Baptist church of this city.

W. H. Murray, the well known lumberman, who is a Kingslayer man, living in St. John, did a generous act for the ladies who got up Thursday night's concert. He paid the car fare of the Y. M. C. A. orchestra from St. John to Fredericton and return, over twenty dollars, and is entitled to the ladies' sincerest thanks. The members of the orchestra charged nothing for their services.

A and fatality occurred at Burton, Sunbury County, during the thunder and lightning storm Thursday afternoon. The electric fluid struck a barn and house belonging to Thomas Lyons, and his nephew, a twelve year old son, of James Fell, of Shirley Settlement, who was in the house at the time, was instantly killed. The house and barn were both badly shattered.

Thomas Bolter of Carleton Place has big potatoes. He had some at the Stanley fair Wednesday, and John Boyle of this city who went up to take in the show and to shake his feet at the Stanley ball, was so struck with Mr. Bolter's potatoes that he brought a peck of them home and has them at J. Boyle & Sons meat market, King St. They are black kidneys, and twenty-five of them weigh twenty-four pounds. They are some potatoes sure.

J. A. Leaman & Co., the leading butchers and pork packers of Halifax, paid John Edgewood & Sons a great compliment when they ordered two delivery wagons from the latter firm. There are lots of carriage manufacturers in Halifax, but when Leaman & Co. wanted the best article to be had, they came to Fredericton. The wagons—two beauties they are with all the modern attachments—were shipped this week and will open the eyes of the Halifax people.

The York County Rifle Association held their annual rifle match Saturday, but the weather was unfavorable for shooting and most of the scores were small. Sgt. Duncan won first place with 86 points, Major Loggie was second with 85, P. Burns third with 80, R. T. Mack fourth with 71, Corporal Stewart Campbell, of the Flatfords, fifth with 68 and Surgeon Bridges sixth with 65. Lieut. Hawthorn and P. Massie have killed so many partridges this season (in their minds) that their aim at the target was not as steady as usual. They scored respectively 46 and 39, and P. Leek brought up the rear with 32.

A MUSICAL WONDER.

Little Six-year-old Olivia Murray Plays the Violin Like a Professional.

The concert in the city hall Thursday evening under the auspices of the Women's Aid Association of St. Peter's church, Kingslear, revealed to the Fredericton public a musical prodigy in the person of a little Miss Olivia Murray, the six-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ranney Murray, Kingslear. Only a year ago the child's musical genius was discovered by J. Fraser Gregory, who has taught her in the meantime to play the violin with remarkable correctness and ability. She reads quite difficult music readily and can play also by ear. Thursday evening she appeared in two numbers and was enthusiastically encouraged, her performance arousing the astonishment and admiration of the audience. It is nothing more than the truth to say that the child plays as well as any amateur ever heard on the city hall stage, and with continued training she will win her way to the highest standard of professional violinists.

The concert as a whole was a great success and the program included several selections by the Y. M. C. A. orchestra. The first was a vocal solo by Mrs. Black, one each by Miss Macdonald, niece of Rev. Canon Roberts, and A. E. Massie, Miss Murray's violin selection, a piano solo by Miss Radcliff of Boston, and a quartette by A. E. Massie, A. E. Tibbitts, Frank Cooper and Gerald McGrath. All the numbers were enjoyed and very heartily enjoyed. The accompanist was Miss Perkins. At the conclusion of the program Rev. Mr. Montgomery of Spring Hill, returned the thanks of the promoters to the ladies and gentlemen who took part, and to the audience for their generous patronage.

CONDUCTOR YOUAMAN'S DEATH.

Almost Instantly Killed by Falling from a Canada Eastern Train.

Edward Youaman, one of the most popular conductors on the Canada Eastern railway, met his death almost instantly this side of Blackville, Tuesday afternoon. The exact cause of his fatal fall will never be known; but the circumstances show that it was entirely accidental, and that no blame can be attached to anybody. The deceased had charge of a special train which carried Alex. Gibson and Supt. Hoban to Blackville, and it was on the return trip that he met his death. He was not a strong man, and it is said he was subject to fainting spells. It is supposed that while standing on the car platform he was seized with one of these, and losing his hold he fell from the rapidly travelling train, receiving such injuries as resulted in almost immediate death. The only eyewitness of Youaman's fall was the section man, who saw the unfortunate fellow as he struck the ground. The only wound was on the neck which was considerably swollen, and one side of the face was bruised. An inquest was held at Doaktown and the jury returned a verdict of accidental death, and that no blame was attached to anyone.

The remains were brought to the Albion hotel in this city, where the deceased was buried, and the funeral took place Thursday afternoon with interment at Marysville. The Organ of the city and Marysville headed by the Marysville band, escorted the remains to the grave. The services at the hotel were conducted by Rev. F. D. Davidson, of Gibson, and at the cemetery by Rev. W. W. Lodge. A very large number of people were present to pay their last tribute of respect to the deceased.

Conductor Youaman is highly spoken of by everybody enjoying his acquaintance. With the higher officials of the road and the employes generally, he was esteemed for his many kindly qualities, and by the patrons of the railway for the courtesy and contact with him, he was regarded with confidence and esteem. He belonged to Gibson, but both father and mother are dead. He was thirty years old and unmarried.

Mr. Wilmot's Generosity.

Some weeks ago, a member of the Fredericton cricket club interviewed Mr. Fenwick, who is carrying out E. H. Wilmot's wishes in beautifying Wilmot Park, and inquired if Mr. Wilmot would likely consent to the club preparing a cricket ground in the park. Mr. Fenwick kindly laid the matter before Mr. Wilmot, and the answer promptly came through the former gentleman, that if the club would select the ground they desired, Mr. Wilmot would consider the matter. A committee was appointed, the site selected and a formal proposition in writing was submitted to Mr. Wilmot through Mr. Fenwick. The club expected to pay for the improvements themselves, but Mr. Wilmot's generosity has willed it otherwise, and next season, through his kindness and the good offices of Mr. Fenwick, the Fredericton cricketers will have one of the finest grounds in the province.

The following letters in reply to the club's proposition, have been received by the members of the club committee, who was delegated to correspond with Mr. Fenwick in the matter. Fredericton, Oct. 8, 1894. L. C. MACKENZIE. Dear Sir,—I enclose for the information of the club, Mr. Wilmot's reply, which I hope will prove to be satisfactory. Mr. Dunlap will make a good job of it. Yours faithfully, G. E. FENWICK.

Friday, Oct. 5, 1894. DEAR MR. FENWICK: I cheerfully give permission to the Fredericton Cricket Club to prepare a plot of ground for their use, in Wilmot Park, upon condition that a statement of the expense incurred in doing the necessary work, be submitted for payment on my behalf. Yours faithfully, E. H. WILMOT.

It is needless to add that the club has accepted Mr. Wilmot's kind offer, and feel under the deepest obligation to him for his generosity.

They Had Bad Weather.

The Baptist bazaar was held in the curling rink Wednesday afternoon and evening, while the elements outside behaved as badly as possible. The rain fell in torrents, preventing a large attendance, but it gave an alleged was a chance to unload that bald headed chestnut about the Baptists hitting lots of water. This was an occasion, however, when the ladies of the church would have preferred fine weather. They made a beautiful display of useful and fancy work, and the tea and refreshment tables looked very tempting. They were well served also, and a gentleman remarked in the hearing of THE HERALD that he had no idea there were so many pretty girls and handsome married women in the Baptist church. While the receipts were not as satisfactory as the ladies hoped for, considering the weather they were fairly remunerative.

Local Government Appointments.

This week's Royal Gazette contains the following appointments of local interest:

In the county of York—Robert S. Fairley, William McGirr, of Lower Pokok, Dominic DeGruy, Frank I. Morrison, and Willard Kitchen, to be Justices of the Peace.

In the county of Sunbury—Cecil McLean to be a Justice of the Peace.

William H. Harrison to be a commissioner of the parish of Sheffield civil court.

Miss Emma Estabrook to be division registrar of births, deaths and marriages, in room of T. O'Brien Turner, resigned.

In the county of Queens—William Brander, of Gagetown, and John P. Van-Bussirk, of Cambridge, as deputy sheriffs.

Principal Johnson, of the Bathurst Grammar school, has gone to Harvard to take an arts course, and is succeeded by L. P. Hetherington, who has been principal of the St. Mary's school since August. The St. Mary's trustees have not yet filled the vacancy.

TWELVE YEARS AT DORCHESTER.

Mount and Brown Convicted and Sentenced for Burning the Salvation Army Barracks.

THE HERALD last week told of the conviction of Brown for burning the Salvation Army barracks in this city. His accomplice, Jeff. Mount, was put on trial in the county court Tuesday and the trial closed Wednesday with a verdict of "guilty." The same witnesses were called against Mount as testified in Brown's case, but Brown himself, told a different story. When Brown found that he had been convicted, he evidently made up his mind that he would not go to Dorchester alone, so when he was put on the witness stand against Mount he turned Queen's evidence, and left the jury, if they believed his testimony, no other alternative than the conviction of Mount.

Brown's Evidence.

Brown testified that he was at the fire with Jefferson Mount. He was there when the fire was set. On Tuesday night he left the barracks at ten. Walked up and down the street. Was going down King street. He heard some one say "hey New York." He found it was Mount. Mount offered him a drink. He said he was going to burn the barracks. While they were talking the officers were talking in barracks. After they went out when Mount and he crossed the street. They went to the rear of the building and put up a ladder. Mount threw out the drum and broke the glass. He went to lower end of the platform on the right side. The fire started there. Brown was on the outside. There was whistling going on for signal purposes. The signals were arranged beforehand. Mount came out of the building and they walked towards the shed in the rear towards Brunswick street. They stood near a fence. Mount asked him about Jesse James and Buck and Jim. Buck was using and Jim got clear. The man whose name was caught was to stand the brunt of it. Mount went into the building the second time. He immediately returned and said that it was burning brightly. They ran to Brunswick street and down to the barracks. They struck the alarm at the Methodist church. Witness had one drink which Mount gave him. When Mount entered the building the first time witness was standing near the ladder. Mount thought the fire was going out so went back the second time. Witness had on dark clothes and straw hat with black band. He saw Mount throw the drum out and witness put it where it was afterwards found. The story he told on Friday was this. Mr. Van Wart then called Jefferson Mount to give evidence on his own behalf, which was practically the same as at Brown's trial. He knew nothing about the conversation between himself and Brown as heard by Chas. Wright. Brown's evidence is false and "Brown's liar or any other man that says so." He had not seen Brown since the previous Tuesday. He knew nothing about the events as given in Mrs. Howard's evidence. He was not one of the persons who saw Brown's evidence was absolutely false. He was trying to bring the witness into it to clear some one else.

Convicted and Sentenced.

After some further unimportant evidence the jury retired at 5 p. m. Tuesday. They were out two hours and returned with a verdict of "guilty."

Mount and Brown were arraigned for sentence at 3 p. m. Wednesday, and the court room was filled with people when Judge Steadman accompanied by Judge Vanwart took his seat on the bench, and J. H. Barry, for the crown, moved for sentence on the prisoners.

His Honor first addressed Brown, pointing out to him the serious crime of which he was now convicted, and sentenced him to twelve years imprisonment in Dorchester penitentiary.

In addressing Mount, Judge Steadman was visibly affected. He referred to the prisoner's former respectable life and to the bad associations which had led to his present sad state. He said that he was sorry for Mount's respectable mother, sister and friends, but he had no help for them. The law gave him the power to impose a life sentence on the prisoner, but he would not exercise his prerogative to the full extent. He then sentenced Mount to twelve years at Dorchester.

So far as outward appearances went, neither of the prisoners were affected by the sentence, and as they were led off to jail by Deputy Sheriff Hawthorn and Constable Smith, they said good by to their friends.

The prisoners were taken to Dorchester Thursday by the Deputy Sheriff.

THE GAME OF FOOTBALL.

Notes and Incidents of the Sport as Played in Fredericton.

As a sport, football is booming in New Brunswick this autumn. There is a regular league including St. John, Sackville, Moncton and the University of N. B., and the final winner will carry off a $60 cup contributed by the four teams.

John Powers, a reporter for the Sun and a fearless player, is captain of the University team and he is backed up by some very active men—perhaps Armstrong and Markham are two of the best.

The town boys have organized a team primarily to give the University aggregation some practice, and the result has been a really played between them. The first ended in a draw, and the second on Wednesday afternoon resulted in a small advantage for the University, the latter according to the ruling of Prof. Davidson, the referee. The town team think they were unfairly treated, and say they won't play again with Mr. Davidson as referee. They of course do not impute to him malicious decisions against them, but they think he gives all the doubts to the University men. The HERALD confesses to a very slight knowledge of the game, and therefore does not express an opinion on the referee's ruling. Perhaps the fact that some of his decisions have been questioned will put the referee on his guard in future.

Football, according to Rugby rules, is a rough game, and it takes considerable courage, strength, activity and wind to successfully engage in it. Some lively scenes have already taken place between the City and University teams. An instance—an amusing instance of Wednesday's play is to the point. A big burly athletic member of the City team, with a broad Scotch accent, secured the ball and was making for the goal with a wonderful burst of speed, when he was intercepted by a University player of considerably smaller proportions. The latter lacked the opponent and the big fellow brushed him off as gently as possible, using his right arm for the service. The arm came in sudden contact with the University man's face and sent him sprawling on the grass.

While Scotty continued his run for the goal, a foul was claimed and THE HERALD thinks unjustly allowed, but that, however, is not to the point.

The two men in collision met at a later stage of the game and discussed in a friendly way how it happened. The University player claimed that his antagonist had used his fist and not his arm, which the city man very strenuously and truthfully denied. He did not play football with his fist, and then he gave U. N. B. some pointers on how to "take" a fellow.

"You are either mistaken, or you are telling an untruth," retorted the city player. But the University player would have his way. Finally, as a clincher to his side of the question, the big athletic fellow exclaimed, as he closed the argument, "man, if I had hit ye with my fist, ye would have been lying on the grass there yet!" The little fellow evidently felt the force of Scotty's remark, and looked happy in the thought that after all, he must have been associated with two of the persons who THE HERALD can aver. The big athletic fellow is a tower of strength to the city club, and his play wins the admiration of the spectators.

Next Wednesday afternoon, the teams will meet again at Seely's field, and the friends of both are looking forward with great interest to the game. The city team will be strengthened somewhat, and Capt. Harry McLeod expects that his men will win. So does Capt. Tom Powers, and one of them will be disappointed.

Joshua Simpkins.

Revo and Ford's sensational rural comedy drama, Joshua Simpkins, was given at the opera house Tuesday night says the Sun, to a large audience. It is the nearest approach to the Old Homestead ever seen in St. John, and runs very much on the same lines. The sawmill scene in the third act is a splendid piece of stage realism and was received with unbounded applause. Mr. Howard makes a capital Uncle Job, while Miss Marie Lester as Edie was very pleasing, her pert childish ways finding much favor with the audience. D. E. Porter's make-up as Samantha Twister was very funny, and he, or she, figured prominently in much of the ludicrous situations in which the play abounds. For those whose taste runs to rural drama, Joshua Simpkins is just what will please them. The band and orchestra is a great feature, and its music is well worth hearing.

Joshua Simpkins will be presented at the City Hall next Monday evening. Reserved seats at Penny's.
