THE FARMER'S COLUMN.

Something of Interest For the Men Who Till the Soil.

A silo undoubtedly is a valuable adjunct to the modern dairy, but it is not indispensable. The cost of construction, the comparatively short time of usefulness before replacing it with a new one becomes necessary, and the uncertainty to the inexperienced builder of ensilage being properly preserved, deter many farmers from building one.

That corn stalks are the most valuable of all forage crops for the food of milch cows is more clearly demonstrated with every passing year. After an experience covering a period of fifteen years in feeding cows for the production of a maximum amount of butter at a minimum cost, I have no hesitation in saying that corn fodder, either as ensilage or dry, is pre-eminently my first choice. A load of well cured corn stalks is equal to a load of the best clover hay better producer, while the cost is not nearly so great whether grown or purchased. Some dairymen prefer to know just how much grain their cows are getting at a ration. This can be positively known only by feeding it separately.

Out stalks are much preferable to uncut. The convenience of feeding, and handling the refuse, aside from the fact that they are cut more closely, recommends the cut feed sufficiently to pay for the extra expense of drying. A second hand horsepower may be bought for a few dollars and will do the work of furnishing cutting power for years. I gave the lips of her first-born lingers there today, though the dial of Time has tolled off fifty years. It kept those lips from other pressure, 'gainst the sides of a wine-press; it stayed them and protected them from poison and deceitful speech; it hovered lightly to wreath his lips in smiles, when the world held back her own; and he will carry that kiss back to his giver, as pure and sweet as when he took it, standing with one foot resting on the old stage-step, bathed in the glory of a country sunrise.

The kiss of mother eyes brightened the unknown way that has led many a man to fame and fortune, but, Oh, how empty is Fame—just Fame! Get back to the old country home—the home of childhood's happy days with its rest and peace and quiet; its life lessons; its healthful ways; its beauty.

Be content, you who live among the beauties and the sublimes of Nature; where green grass grows, and birds sing; where the air is pure, and sunshine reaches you,—where God lives.

GRANNY COMES HANDY.

The pork was fried, and like a navy, it floated in a gulf of gravy. The family gathers round the board, With bread and butter freely stored; The coffee's poured—the fire is poked, When little Bill comes tearing in, And shouts 'The cook has made a din. He yells, "The brindle cow's choked!"

All hands forsake the breakfast table, And rush pell-mell towards the stable, Granddad, father, mother, too, All join the sudden bull-brawl; Even Johnny's wife, with vague alarms, Comes with her baby in her arms; And even Nellie, warmly clothed, With cheeks as round as purple plums, About the fire she comes to see, To see the brindle cow that's choked.

For breath the panting victim labors, And till the smoke is cleared away, They come in swarms, they stand and stare And still the brindle gasps for air. Mr. Bledsoe doffs his vest; He takes a chew—"I think it's best To shove that blasted turnip down!" Then old man Coogan from a brown— "I've your cow's head in my hand, Fresh beef is what you must expect," While Limber Jimmy (such a gumchuck), Would fire a shot from 'neath her stomach, And make her jump—and Tommy, pale, Suggests that someone twist her tail.

A big discussion is opened, The fierce dispute swells to a shout, "Twas, 'Push it down!'" "No pull it out!" And still the brindle cow is choked.

Then Granny Hopkins takes some stuff From out a box that's labelled "snuff," She blows it in the brindle's nose, (It seems to multiply her woes), She blinks her eyes and then she wheezes, She hunches her back and then she sneezes, And thro' her form there runs a spasm, When filled with misery is her cup, She calmly coughs the turnip up, She smiles as if she had but joked, Then chews her end of straw and hay, All in the good, old-fashioned way, As if she never had been choked.

The country couldn't do without A good old granny round about, She doesn't make much fuss, but then, She knows far more than half the men. Has someone's baby just been born? Has Cowslip got the hollow horn? Is something wrong with sheep or ox? Has Tommy got the chicken pox? From her no dread disease is hid, In cow or calf, in cold or kid, Her life with usefulness is yoked, For tho' she's grey, and tho' she's old, She's worth her very weight in gold, When crot or cow or kid is choked.

COMPOSTING MANURE.

There is very little said in the papers now-days about composting manure. Years ago the practice was general. The idea is becoming prevalent that it is little good, and that the cheaper, easier method of drawing on manure as fast as made and spreading it on the land is nearly as good. It is argued that manure must ferment some time, and in the soil there is little chance of its fertilizing properties escaping. But there is no doubt that the best method is having it ready for use early in the season. If manure is applied late in spring fermented, it is often past midsummer before the crop gets full benefit from it. Small spring grains, on the ground covered in spring with wholly unfermented manure rarely receive much benefit. The value of the manure is mainly seen in an extra growth of weeds following the grain crop. If the practice of daily drawing out and spreading is pursued, the manure should be at least plied for a few days, especially in the winter season, to induce fermentation.

Whether it pays to pile the manure and give it time to heat before applying depends on the kind of crop, the land, and whether the farmer can afford to wait a year for returns rather than put in a little extra labor and get them the same season. For a crop of ensilage and fodder corn, plowing under the coarse manure in the spring is a good enough practice. The manure under the furrow keeps it warm, at first by holding up the soil and allowing the warm sun to circulate through it. Sooner the air has its effect on the manure, and it begins to decompose, giving off more heat as it does so. The constant cultivation that the corn crop needs, and its long season for growth stimulates this fermentation, and mixes the manure through the soil. But for potatoes, vegetables and spring grains the manure is best partly composted. It does not need to be decomposed to vegetable mold, but if allowed to heat several days and then turned and let get warm again, its immediate effect is enormously increased. It also produces greater effect in the end, for the greater firmness of composted manure enables the farmer to distribute it evenly over a larger surface.

THE NEWS IN QUEENS.

A Caribou Hunt.

On November 19, 1894, a party of five comprising Bradford Currier, Charley Coy, Joe Salbato, Louis Salbato, and Melvin Currier, left the village of Upper Gagetown to shoot a caribou. The party were under the care of the well-known guide, Louis Salbato, who in former days used to act as guide for the officers in the army, stationed at Fredericton. His record is that he or his party never returned empty handed. Two days were occupied in getting on the grounds, forty miles had to be travelled ere they reached the hunting grounds. They made a camp for the horses and pitched a canvas tent in the midst of a clump of trees, for themselves. The first day's hunting they shot some caribou, and saw the tracks of caribou, the next day they shot two caribou. The next day they hunted them to camp and started home, which place they reached in time to cross on the ice.

The heads are to be mounted. The party notwithstanding the cold and rain, had a glorious time. Melvin Currier, accompanied by the guide, intends making another trip to the same grounds in a short time.

Allen Currier has not returned from from Houlton, Maine.

A basket social is to be held by the young ladies of Upper Gagetown on Christmas night in the temperance hall.

Macdonald's Point.

Dec. 5. A very charming wedding occurred here on Nov. 13th, at the residence of Nehemiah Macdonald, when Miss Mina E. Macdonald, his eldest daughter, was united in marriage to Mr. Norman H. Worden, merchant, of St. John, and son of Mr. Geo. Worden of Wickham. The officiating minister was Rev. A. B. Macdonald, uncle of the bride. The bride wore a handsome dress of white crepon silk and lace, and carried a handsome bouquet of pink, cream, and white roses. There was about ninety guests present, and the gifts were many and very costly.

FISHERY PROTECTION.

Mr. Loggie's Report of the Past Season on the S. W. Miramichi.

TO THE ANGLERS OF THE S. W. MIRAMICHI: Gentlemen,—I now beg leave to submit my annual report of the protection of the South West Miramichi for the season just passed, and on doing so have much pleasure in congratulating the owners of these fishing territories on the results obtained. Following up the work of the previous year I was enabled to take advantage of the weak points which could only be learned by experience and observation. Protection began about the middle of the month of June, and the guardians were kept on till 15th November although it was not contemplated they should remain later than 1st November, but on account of a very mild and open season I thought it advisable to run no risks in encouraging anglers to clean out the river and to take so much more pains and expense to protect. The same number of guardians were placed on the river as last season and every encouragement was extended to us by the Fisheries Department at Ottawa. To Inspector Miles the anglers of the South West will always owe a debt of gratitude. He not only encouraged the work as an officer of the Department, but was ever ready to further any steps taken by myself for the welfare of the river. His overseer, Robert Orr, spent a large part of his time on the river and to him and Head Guardian McDonald a large part of the success depends. Our men were all sworn in and appointed special Dominion guardians and worked in concert with Departmental officers. The following are the stretches from Boileston to the Forks of the South West, a distance of 47 miles, and names of guardians:

No. 1, Boileston to Tug Pond, 9 miles, x Joseph Norrad, Wm. Palmer.

No. 2, Tug Pond to Burnt Hill, 14 miles, x Robert McKay, x Edward Mann.

No. 3, Burnt Hill to McKel Brook, 9 miles, x Silas Standish, x Wm Green & Robert Mann.

No. 4, McKel Brook to Forks, 14 miles, x North Branch, x Donald McKay, x Harvey Scott.

Those marked with an x (excepting the latter, who was in our employ until August) were maintained under the expense of the anglers, the remainder being officers under the pay of the Dominion Government.

If these guardians two were paid by the Burnt Hill and Clear Water clubs through the management of A. T. Wood of Boston, an angler who has always had the welfare of the river at heart. One guardian was in the employ of the Rocky Beach club; one paid by Messrs. Harry and Charles Beckwith and J. H. Blair, and the remaining two by F. Standish of Montreal. The total amount paid guardians was $754.28.

Little if any poaching was reported during the season, which probably speaks for the vigilance of the officers. The guardians stationed at the Forks were subjected to considerable annoyance from settlers in that section and it was the intention of the club to prosecute these offenders, but from a lack of magistrates in that vicinity were prevented at the time from laying the necessary information. Steps should yet be taken to punish these people who openly defy the law.

Through arrangement with the Government an applied placed 100,000 salmon fry in the river. These fry were planted in the river in front of the settlement and obtained from the Newcastle hatchery; but the anglers is expressed by experienced opinion like Messrs. Phair and Han-

NEWS OF THE WEEK.

Events of Interest Provincial and General.

Montreal is agitating for a World's Fair in 1896.

At Knowlton, Ontario, a man named Weber, who has lately been despondent, drank a quantity of coal oil, and died.

Miss Josephine Brand, of Lawrenceburg, Ind., was robbed of $10,500 in cash on the streets of Cincinnati just before dark the other night.

While excavating at the entrance to Franklin Park in Roxbury, Mass., six 244 men were fatally injured by an explosion of dynamite.

Some of the extreme Radicals of the Whiteparty in Newfoundland propose to memorialize the Queen for the removal of Governor O'Brien.

The Liberals of Winnipeg are preparing for the general elections. It is understood that Joseph Martin will not again contest Winnipeg, but will be succeeded by Isaac Campbell.

The $100,000 stolen from the Occidental Bank of Salvador, as noted in THE HERALD has recently been recovered, and two Germans have been imprisoned, charged with the crime.

A bill to incorporate the Canadian Order of Foresters as a benefit society, will be introduced in parliament next session. It is proposed to have the head office in Brantford, Ontario.

The British Columbia Legislature at present in session has dispensed with the custom of having prayers before proceeding to business, and an opposition paper suggests that the government is past praying for.

There is a continued decline of the public revenue at Ottawa, and as the total expenditure on account of consolidated fund has been increased, the deficit for the year will, from the present outlook, amount to $500,000.

W. W. Randall, a Baltimore hod carrier has become insane by carrying the hod. The heavy weight constantly affected the shoulder nerves; this was communicated to his brain; the result is insanity in a dangerous form.

An official list of members-elect to the 54th U. S. Congress, gives the Republicans 244 members, the Democrats 104, and the populists 6. In the present Congress there are 213 Democrats, 123 Republicans and 12 Populist members.

St. John's, Newfoundland, has a big financial crisis. The only two banks in the city, the Commercial and the Union, have closed their doors and ten prominent business firms are ruined. Premier Goodridge's firm is among those which have failed.

Talmage's Brooklyn Tabernacle has been sold under foreclosure proceedings by the sheriff. The proceedings were instituted by Charles T. Wills, who held a second mortgage on the property. Wills bought the property in for $73,300, $10,000 over the amount due to Russell Sage, who holds the first mortgage.

The chopped and hacked body of a man was found in a shipping case, in a car between 63rd and 64th streets, Chicago, on Saturday. The body has been identified as that of A. D. Barnes, of 168, 37th street. Robbery is ascribed as the motive for the crime. When last seen he had a watch and thirty dollars in his pocket.

Archbishop Ireland, of St. Paul, when asked what the present status was before the Roman Catholic church of certain so-called secret societies such as the Sons of Temperance, Oddfellows and Knights of Pythias, said that the question of whether Roman Catholics could belong to them or not was now being considered by the authorities at Rome, and that a decision would probably soon be given, but that meanwhile Roman Catholics would do well not to seek membership in those societies.

In the election held on the 7th inst., for a member of parliament to represent the North Lindsey, Mr. Briggs division of Lincolnshire, England, Richardson, Conservative was elected, polling 4577 to 4300 votes, polled by Rev. J. H. Liberal opposition. This Conservative victory causes much excitement in London. There is no doubt that the result of this election following so soon after the victory of the Hon. Charles Maule Ramsay, Conservative in Forfarshire, will greatly weaken the Rosebery government.

To enable Gov. Atkinson to appoint Miss Helen Borthwick assistant State Librarian, some of the Georgia legislators sought to pass an enabling act. A bitter debate debate arose, and the measure was defeated by a pronounced vote. The character of the opposition was indicated in the speech of Mr. Harrison of Quitman. He protested against the passage of the resolution in the names of the mothers, sisters, and daughters of the South. He thought that the character of Southern women was the brightest spot in the South's bright history, and he protested against doing anything to dim its brightness.

There was a terrible drowning accident at Littleton, Iowa, Sunday. Two children, George and Hanna Cook, went skating on a mill pond, and falling to return within a reasonable time, the mother became alarmed and went in search of them, but could not find them. She returned to town about dusk and gave the alarm. A crowd gathered about the pond and many of the people ventured on the ice. It suddenly broke through, precipitating 12 persons into the water; of the twelve in the darkness of coming night, seven were rescued. The bodies of five others in addition to the corp of the two children were found Monday under the ice, some distance from the scene of the drowning.

Montreal is excited over a wedding that did not take place. It was announced for December 5th. The groom was to have been William Johnson, a young hardware merchant, assistant secretary of the First Baptist church Sunday School, and generally a popular and well-known man. The lady he was to have married is Miss Lillie Pagels, daughter of a cigar manufacturer. About a year ago, Johnson commenced to pay regular visits to the Pagels residence; they became engaged and the wedding day was fixed, but the betrothal was broken. Now, at the age of 30, she has entered into a matrimonial contract with a man who is thirty years her senior, but who is a well-to-do man. If these guardians two were paid by the Burnt Hill and Clear Water clubs through the management of A. T. Wood of Boston, an angler who has always had the welfare of the river at heart. One guardian was in the employ of the Rocky Beach club; one paid by Messrs. Harry and Charles Beckwith and J. H. Blair, and the remaining two by F. Standish of Montreal. The total amount paid guardians was $754.28.

Little if any poaching was reported during the season, which probably speaks for the vigilance of the officers. The guardians stationed at the Forks were subjected to considerable annoyance from settlers in that section and it was the intention of the club to prosecute these offenders, but from a lack of magistrates in that vicinity were prevented at the time from laying the necessary information. Steps should yet be taken to punish these people who openly defy the law.

Through arrangement with the Government an applied placed 100,000 salmon fry in the river. These fry were planted in the river in front of the settlement and obtained from the Newcastle hatchery; but the anglers is expressed by experienced opinion like Messrs. Phair and Han-

THE NEWS IN QUEENS.

A Caribou Hunt.

On November 19, 1894, a party of five comprising Bradford Currier, Charley Coy, Joe Salbato, Louis Salbato, and Melvin Currier, left the village of Upper Gagetown to shoot a caribou. The party were under the care of the well-known guide, Louis Salbato, who in former days used to act as guide for the officers in the army, stationed at Fredericton. His record is that he or his party never returned empty handed. Two days were occupied in getting on the grounds, forty miles had to be travelled ere they reached the hunting grounds. They made a camp for the horses and pitched a canvas tent in the midst of a clump of trees, for themselves. The first day's hunting they shot some caribou, and saw the tracks of caribou, the next day they shot two caribou. The next day they hunted them to camp and started home, which place they reached in time to cross on the ice.

The heads are to be mounted. The party notwithstanding the cold and rain, had a glorious time. Melvin Currier, accompanied by the guide, intends making another trip to the same grounds in a short time.

Allen Currier has not returned from from Houlton, Maine.

A basket social is to be held by the young ladies of Upper Gagetown on Christmas night in the temperance hall.

Macdonald's Point.

Dec. 5. A very charming wedding occurred here on Nov. 13th, at the residence of Nehemiah Macdonald, when Miss Mina E. Macdonald, his eldest daughter, was united in marriage to Mr. Norman H. Worden, merchant, of St. John, and son of Mr. Geo. Worden of Wickham. The officiating minister was Rev. A. B. Macdonald, uncle of the bride. The bride wore a handsome dress of white crepon silk and lace, and carried a handsome bouquet of pink, cream, and white roses. There was about ninety guests present, and the gifts were many and very costly.

Byron McKell of the schooner Comrade, is home for the winter.

Miss Ida Wright has gone to St. John to attend the marriage of her cousin, Miss Teania Oils of the North End.

JOTTINGS FROM CARLETON.

South New Bridge.

Dec. 4.—We have had quite a little snow storm but not enough to make the roads very dry.

Frank Freeman of Jacktown, is going to commence sawing lumber next week.

Mr. McDougall of Woodstock, has finished yarding bark and is waiting for more snow to commence hauling.

Miss Mary McDade of this place, spent Sunday with friends in Woodstock.

We wish to learn that our former teacher, Miss Maggie Tracy of Woodstock, has secured our school for the winter.

Mrs. Luke Lawson of Grannell, is very ill.

FISHERY PROTECTION.

Mr. Loggie's Report of the Past Season on the S. W. Miramichi.

TO THE ANGLERS OF THE S. W. MIRAMICHI: Gentlemen,—I now beg leave to submit my annual report of the protection of the South West Miramichi for the season just passed, and on doing so have much pleasure in congratulating the owners of these fishing territories on the results obtained. Following up the work of the previous year I was enabled to take advantage of the weak points which could only be learned by experience and observation. Protection began about the middle of the month of June, and the guardians were kept on till 15th November although it was not contemplated they should remain later than 1st November, but on account of a very mild and open season I thought it advisable to run no risks in encouraging anglers to clean out the river and to take so much more pains and expense to protect. The same number of guardians were placed on the river as last season and every encouragement was extended to us by the Fisheries Department at Ottawa. To Inspector Miles the anglers of the South West will always owe a debt of gratitude. He not only encouraged the work as an officer of the Department, but was ever ready to further any steps taken by myself for the welfare of the river. His overseer, Robert Orr, spent a large part of his time on the river and to him and Head Guardian McDonald a large part of the success depends. Our men were all sworn in and appointed special Dominion guardians and worked in concert with Departmental officers. The following are the stretches from Boileston to the Forks of the South West, a distance of 47 miles, and names of guardians:

No. 1, Boileston to Tug Pond, 9 miles, x Joseph Norrad, Wm. Palmer.

No. 2, Tug Pond to Burnt Hill,
