FROM RURAL DISTRICTS.

Interesting and Spicy Gossip from Our Active Correspondents.

GLEANNING FROM YORK.

Cloverdale.

MARCH 28.—The weather is all that could be wished for, and the roads are in fine condition. The people in general are busy, hauling logs to the mill, getting wood, moving and visiting.

Mr. and Mrs. William Hill, of Millville, paid the place a short visit, but being in a hurry, they did not call on many of their friends.

Jason Herrington and family have moved into T. Foster's house.

Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Jones and Mrs. C. Jones, who have been spending a few days with friends at Keswick, have returned home.

Alex. Hoyt and Mr. Hazleton, of Lower Queensbury, is visiting her, the guests of Mr. and Mrs. George Palmer.

Miss Lottie Wallace is taking music lessons of Miss Annie Shaw, of Carlisle.

It seems as if the young of this district have learning enough, as we don't hear anything of a school.

Mrs. C. Wallace, who had the misfortune to break her arm some time ago, is improving.

Temple.

MARCH 28.—W. H. Patterson and sons have been busy engaged the last week in moving their steam saw mill from Charley Lake and locating it on the farm they have recently purchased from Asa Dyer.

Moses Hillman and family who have been keeping boarding house in Woodstock the last year, have tired of town life and returned to their farm in this vicinity.

Mrs. Elbridge Hagerman, who has been ill of consumption for a length of time, died on the 16th inst., loved and respected by all. She was twenty-six years of age. She leaves a husband and three young children. Her funeral was attended by Rev. C. Phillips.

The bridge that has been in course of construction the past winter over the Asa Dyer creek, is now finished and the builders, Robert Logan & Sons, have moved back to their home in St. Marys.

SUNBURY JOTTINGS.

Sheffield.

MARCH 28.—A social was held at the residence of Frederick B. Jewett last Thursday evening. There was a large attendance and a pleasant evening was spent by all. Proceeds amounted to $19.

Rev. Joseph Barker and Mrs. Barker spent last week with friends here. Mr. Barker occupied the pulpit of the Congregational church Sabbath afternoon.

Mrs. Isaac Stephenson is very ill. Since her father's death, several weeks ago, she has been in a melancholy state. Little hopes are entertained of her recovery.

Mrs. C. B. Barker is a little better the last four days.

Sheffield Union Lodge received two new members the last night of the meeting. Several young men of the place have made quite extensive preparations for honey-making, but so far the season has been very poor.

GIANT GILBERT DEAD.

He was Seven Feet Six Tall, and was Known to All Circus-goers.

"Colonel" James Gilbert, the giant of Barnum, Forepaugh, and all the other big shows of the country, died recently in New York. Gilbert stood seven feet six inches in his stockings and was big in proportion. He was a Mexican, born in Chihuahua not quite thirty-five years ago, the only child of parents, who were short even for the small sized Mexicans. His rapid growth used to be to his parents a source of wonder mingled with dismay, for by the time he was ten years old he was too big to wear his father's cast-off clothes, and when he was fifteen it took twice as much cloth to make a suit of clothes for him as it did for his father. When he was twenty-one years he had attained his full growth, and an agent of Barnum's circus found him and brought him to New York, where the show was playing.

His success was instantaneous. Dubbed Colonel and put into a beautiful uniform and armed with a huge sword, he would stalk through the streets, followed invariably by a crowd. His services were in demand in all parts of the country and money came easily. He made his home in Scranton, and he became a member of the uniformed ranks of the Knights of Pythias. He travelled with all sorts of shows, big and little, always maintaining the success he had made at the beginning.

Two years ago, while in Sioux Falls, Minn., he met and married Miss Emma Mossman, who made a good mate for him as she was nearly seven feet tall.

At the close of an engagement in the South with a circus the Colonel and his wife came to New York and went to live at 267 Elizabeth street. On account of the hard times, he found that the only engagement he could get was as a "Dahomey" giant at a Bowery museum. The Colonel was a sick man then, for he had been caught in a Minnesota blizzard the year before and had been badly frozen, but the effects of which he had never recovered. But he had to live, and so, in spite of the distaste the work inspired in him, he backed himself up and at regular intervals gave his war-cry and whirled his war club about his head as the natives of Dahomey are supposed to do. Last week he resumed his original role at an up-town museum, but it was hard work, he was so ill. His once massive frame had wasted away so there was little left but skin and bone.
