Yerxa was a member of the preliminary park committee, and from its beginning has been the president of the park committee.

His Devotion to the Park Idea is well known, and his labors in this direction have been, and still are, untiring.

Mr. Yerxa was born in 1847, in York county, New Brunswick. His family were land owners and farmers, and were among the original settlers of that part of the province, having migrated from the Hudson River valley during the Revolutionary war.

When 19 years of age he left home, came to Boston, and obtained employment in the grocery business of C. D. Cobb and Brothers. In four years he was admitted as a partner. In 1871 he joined the firm of Cobb, Bates & Yerxa was organized at its present location, and the success attending this enterprise from its beginning is well known.

Mr. Yerxa is director in the Faneuil Hall bank and also in the Mercantile Loan and Trust Co. He is a member of the Cambridge Citizens' Trade Association, and represents that body in the State Board of Trade. He is a member of the North Avenue Baptist church. He also holds membership in the Colonial club Cambridge club, the Newtown club and the Library Hall association.

THE REPAIRS TO ST. PAULS. Was done for $1200. The interior of the Church to be Painted at Once.

A meeting of the trustees of St. Paul's Church was held Friday for the purpose of receiving the report of the building committee who had charge of the work of repairing the tower of the church. All except three of the trustees were in attendance.

The building committee reported that the total cost of the repairs made to the tower, including the painting and decorating of the interior of the church. These gentlemen offered to do the work throughout for the sum of $440, which is a remarkably low figure. They have a very wide reputation for this class of work and are now engaged in painting the interior of the new Globe house at Halifax, and have also engaged to repair the interior of St. Mary's Cathedral at that place. They were anxious to introduce their work in this city, and this account of their offering to do the work at such a low figure. The trustees decided to accept the offer and have the work commenced at once. The interior of the church is to be repainted throughout. The walls and ceiling are to be finished in oil and colors, when a most agreeable and pleasing appearance. The pews are also to be repainted.

The trustees were so well satisfied with the good judgment shown by the building committee in making the repairs to the tower, and the economical and durable manner in which the work was done, that they decided to leave the work of repainting the interior of the church in their hands.

It will thus be seen that the total cost of repainting the tower, including the painting of the interior will not exceed $2000, while the first estimate which the trustees received for doing the work of repainting the tower alone was $3000.

The committee, after all repairs are completed will have a snug balance of $1000 to return to the trustees of St. Paul's working bank who so kindly placed $3000 at their disposal with which to carry on the work.

A Pertinent Enquiry. To the Editor of the Daily Herald: DEAR SIR,—Why Mr. Hunter in this city should give so much attention to Christian Science, seems to be a pertinent question.

It is an evil, it is one so many would like to see removed, but it is not so much to do as to see a revival called for. It is a short revival called for. It is a short revival called for. It is a short revival called for.

The Cambridge, Mass. Chronicle, under the head of majority possibilities, has the following appreciative sketch of Mr. Yerxa: "Last in the Chronicle's alphabetical list of majority possibilities is Henry D. Yerxa, president of the park commission. This gentleman's well known interest in good city government, and his active participation in the public affairs of Cambridge during the recent years, has naturally led many citizens to regard him as a possible future mayor.

Few men are better qualified, both by natural talent, and by training in commercial and municipal business matters, to fill the mayor's office with credit to the city and himself. It has not been the Chronicle's purpose in this series of articles on majority possibilities to compare the merits of the various names mentioned to the advantage or disadvantage of any particular individual, but rather to point out the special qualifications possessed by each.

An administration of the city affairs by Mr. Yerxa would be characterized by an extraordinary attention to details and great energy in pushing the work of the various departments. Mr. Yerxa's capacity for careful and forceful work has been the marvel of the business world in which he has moved for a score or more of years, and those who know him best are most impressed with his administrative ability. His success in business was won, not by adventurous speculation, but by the application of sound business principles the same as should be applied in our city affairs. The great grocery house of Cobb, Bates & Yerxa, in which Mr. Yerxa is one of the moving spirits, is a remarkable exhibition of the genius for organization which this gentleman possesses. Like all successful organizers of large enterprises of a permanent nature, Mr. Yerxa has the quick discernment to see and use the abilities of other men. He has gathered a force of unusually bright and active business men around him, and to these men he has communicated his own enthusiasm and business methods.

Mr. Yerxa's first active participation in city affairs was in the Richard H. Dana campaign, although he had during Mayor Montague's administration, served as a member of the common council. His service in the council was limited to six weeks, for at the expiration of that time poor health required an extended trip abroad. In all the Bancroft campaigns, Mr. Yerxa has been a prominent figure and he has labored equally hard for the success of the no-license cause. Upon questions of municipal policy, whenever proper, he has not only made known his opinions, but has advocated his views with an enthusiasm and frankness which is notable even in Cambridge, where freedom of thought and speech in public affairs prevail to an unusual extent. Mr.

THEIR FAREWELL.

The Evangelists took Leave of Fredericton Last Week.

Addresses by several City Clergymen.

The Methodist choir commenced to fill before six Thursday night, and long before the opening of the Evangelists' farewell meeting, which opened at 7.30, even the isles were blocked. There must have been 1,000 people present.

The platform contained Messrs. Hunter and Crosley, Revs. F. C. Hartley, J. D. Freeman, Dr. McLeod, E. Bell, J. Sellars, Tippet and Lodge.

After the choir had sung an opening hymn, Mr. Crosley rendered "The Rescue," and Rev. J. D. Freeman made a pleasant speech, announcing the final collection. Other hymns followed from the choir, and Mr. Crosley sang "Come unto me."

Mr. Hunter told of his visits to the sick yesterday. The poor fellows, though not able to come to the meetings knew all about them. They had been reading the splendid reports in the newspapers. He publicly thanked Mr. Tennant, who provided a handsome team for them. "God bless the men who have gone to do the work, and any chariots in heaven give him one to drive, when he gets there."

Mr. Hunter introduced Dr. McLeod, who spoke of the great interest he had felt in these meetings. His heart had been for the visit of the Evangelists, and the conversion of many persons. For himself he had felt quickened in spirit. He prayed God to bless those dear brethren wherever they may go. They had come to Fredericton with God's blessing, and the people had been greatly blessed. To the converts he said that the gracious God would keep them in all their enterprises.

Rev. Mr. Tippet said he knew all about the Evangelists; he had the misfortune to have them under his roof, (laughter) he paid a tribute to their faithfulness and he believed that many who had been in the habit of attending church at Halifax, had been brought to the Saviour. Speaking to the boys he asked them never to take a backward step. He prayed that the Evangelists may continue to be blessed.

Mr. Hunter remarked that Mr. Tippet would never be content to remain in the paragon without a woman in it, after Mrs. Hunter left.

Rev. J. D. Freeman said we all are rejoicing that we have got into a warm religious latitude and we are going to stay there. He thanked God for the souls that have been brought into the sunshine of His presence. These meetings have been a blessing to him it had brought him into contact with other church workers. He had made more acquaintances too than he could under ordinary circumstances in five years, and he felt that he knew all most every man and woman in Fredericton. He asked for the support of the people in the future, when the Evangelists have left.

Rev. Dr. Brecken said last winter when engaged in special meetings he had often prayed that night or Blucher would come, that Hunter and Crosley or millenium would come. He believed thoroughly in Evangelists, they all specialists and are filled with the Holy Spirit. We will follow our brothers with our prayers, may God bless them. Mr. Hunter said he would like to hear from some of the laymen who had been so warm and sympathetic. He mentioned J. W. Weddall, Dr. Barbour, C. F. Kitchin, Samson, and others.

Rev. Mr. Hartley who was introduced as a Presbyterian brother, said he liked the Presbyterians as well as any other denomination and he liked the Presbyterian minister in this city just as well as he liked any other minister in the city. He had made more acquaintances too than he knew him better than any other minister in the city. He spoke of the impetus the Evangelists visit had given to his Free Baptist Church. He had never in all his life received so many blessings as from the visiting brothers, in hearing their addresses and in social converse with them. He had been blessed personally, his people had been blessed, and the city had been blessed. Let all praise praise the Lord.

Mr. Hunter said he held a note in his hand from a Halifax commercial traveller, who came into the meeting last night in a friendly and, in a converted man. You ask why God is with us? All over this land, there are hundreds of thousands praying for all His children, and they are saved and unsaved, to pray for them in their future work. The whole congregation stood up and promised their prayers.

Mr. Crosley said he had learned to love the people of Fredericton, and he believed he had a home here. He spoke of the success of the meetings, and paid a high compliment to the accompanists, Mrs. Hogg and Miss Perkins. He asked the older Christians to encourage the young converts, and for all to stand by their pastors.

After a hymn by the choir, Mr. Hunter said a few words of farewell. The people in the west don't know you. You are a big hearted people down here, and we have learned to love you. A few words of thanks you have been so good to Mrs. Hunter, and the children, they hate to leave. There has been a great change in the town, even the post office has new boxes. I've hurt any of your feelings, come up to the station to-morrow and I'll forgive you. We thank the people, we thank the pastor, and you will see nothing for it. We thank the newspapers, the HERALD and others, they have gone all over the country, into the homes of the people, doing great good. God bless the newspaper men: if they are not converted they deserve to be; they have done so much good. We thank the choir for their attendance night after night, God bless them. Mr. Hunter spoke very feelingly of the attachment he and Mr. Crosley had formed for the people of Fredericton, and spoke words of comfort and cheer to the new converts. He then shook hands individually with the clergymen on the platform, saying words of farewell to each. To the congregation farewell faithful friends, God bless you.

After a short prayer by Mr. Hunter, the meeting closed with the hymn, "Shall we gather at the river?"

The enquiry meeting afterwards was packed to the doors.

William Haney was taken to the provincial lunatic asylum Saturday a.m. by Constables Hawthorn and Ekdout.

Nov. 11.—The very fine warm weather of Nov. 12 was enjoyed by all, and some of our farmers took advantage of it and finished up their fall plowing.

For Eighteen Months Unable to Lie Down in Bed—A Toronto Junction Citizen's Awful Experience With Heart Disease.

L. J. Law, Toronto Junction, Ont.: "I consider it my duty to give to the public my experience with Dr. Agnew's Cure for the Heart. I have been sorely troubled with heart disease and unable to lie down in bed for eighteen months owing to another spell and palpitation. Each night I would have to be propped up by pillows in order to
