MR. BHEEM ROY.

Entertains a Crowded Audience in Temperance Hall,

TELLING OF HIS CONVERSION TO CHRISTIANITY.

And Missionary Work He Proposes to do.

A very large audience gathered at the Temperance Hall Sunday afternoon to listen to an address from Bheem Roy, the caste Brahmin now visiting the city. Every available seat was ccupied, and a large number were compelled to stand. H. C. Creed presided, and in introducing the speaker of the afternoon, referred to his conversion to Christianity some six years ago, and explained the object of his visit.

Mr. Roy, whose head was adorned with a Hindoo turban, then came forward, and delivered a very interesting and instructive address, which was listened to with breathless interest. He said it was a rare thing for the people of Canada to see a man from India. There were several of his people travelling in the United States, but they were not Christians. He had simply come here out of curiosity and wanted to find out something about the great Canadian institutions in order to tell his people about them. He thought it would be a good thing for the Canadian people to hear something about the institutions of India, where they had sent so many of their missionaries. The speaker then went on and traced the origin of the Hindoos. He said that when Columbus made his first voyage to the western world, he found it was the western portion of India, so he named it the West Indies; therefore we were of the same origin. He then spoke of the wonderful fertility of the land in India, and said it was possible to raise three crops a year, while in this country only one could be grown. The people had accumulated great wealth, but other nations came in and plundered them. To-day England received a revenue of £300,000,000 sterling, and in commerce nearly twice that amount. And yet in the face of all this the majority of the people are poor and living from hand to mouth, and don't know how well off they really are. Before they had termed themselves Hindoos, three successive immigrations had gone from the banks of the Ganges on account of persecution, just as the Puritans had gone to Boston. A great many in India do not know how one-half the world differs from the other half, because of the lack of the glorious gospel. They were not able to enjoy civilization like the people in this country.

He thought the civilization that we enjoyed was the accumulation of the past. To-say there is a great undertaking on foot to found an eastern empire, and he thought that English rule in India would cease in twenty-five years. India is going to become a powerful country. The missionaries who have gone there, are doing good work at a great sacrifice; but a greater sacrifice is yet to be made, in order to convert India. He then went on to speak of the custom which prevailed among the people in his native land, of the fathers handing down to their posterity whatever trade or profession they themselves had followed, and there was no alternative for the descendants, but to accept it. This law would have to be blotted out, and it could only be done by abolishing the caste system.

Mr. Roy then gave an interesting description of the marriage customs of India. He said they did not either eat, drink or marry there as they do here. When a man has a marriageable daughter, he summons people from all directions, and the girl goes out and puts a necklace of flowers on the neck of the man she selects. The speaker explained that girls married there when they were fifteen and sixteen; they did not wait until they were thirty or thirty-five, as they would then be old maids. He himself had been engaged when five years of age, married when six, and a widower at seven. When a child is born, if a boy, the parents receive the congratlations of friends and relatives. But if the child happened to be a girl it was just the opposite. A great deal of superstition exists, even among the high castes in reference to this matter. The Hindoos would rather have one son and be as poor as Job's turkey, than have a daughter and possess all the money in the world. That is their superstition.

The speaker then went on to tell of the restrictions that were placed on a married woman. She must not sass anyone, particularly her husband. She waits on her husband, and must call him master. Women are not allowed to do any shopping, and when they go out, they must veil their faces. Woman's condition in India is degrading, and the speaker thought that it could never be elevated except by themselves.

Mr. Roy, after some further remarks along this line, said they were not allowed to kill cows in India, only in places where the British government have absolute control. If a man kills a cow accidentally, he is sure to be hung. It would be far better for him to kill his grandmother than to kill a cow. There is a belief among the inhabitants that people trans-migrate back to dogs, cats, snakes, etc. When he went back to India, he was going to kill all the snakes he met, and if his grandmother had no more sense than to turn into a snake, he would kill her too.

Mr. Roy then gave an account of the circumstances that led up to his conversion, the same as recorded in Saturday's HERALD. He said he intended going back to labor among the high caste Hindoos, whom the missionaries could not reach. If his plans were carried out, teeming multitudes would be converted. The Lord had always been good to him. He was drowned twice, and rescued. Once he was carried off by wolves, and he had been twice bitten by snakes, but had always pulled through. He believed he had a mission from God to go back and preach the gospel to his countrymen. He had come here for the purpose of killing two birds with one stone, to see the country and to raise funds to pay his way back to India. He required $350, and $326 of this was required to pay his passage.

At the close of Mr. Roy's address, the chairman thanked the audience for their very attentive hearing, and hoped they would nobly respond to the appeal for aid.

While the collection was being taken up, Mr. Roy entertained the audience by speaking and singing in his native tongue.

The benediction from Rev. Dr. Brecken brought the meeting to a close.

A HERALD representative had an interesting talk with him Saturday morning. He said he left India in February, 1889, and went to England with the intention of studying law at Oxford University. He arrived there in March, too late to begin his studies for that term. He had heard of some of the great wonders of the new world, such as the great lakes, Niagara falls, the Brooklyn bridge, and having some leisure time on his hands, he decided to make a trip to this country. While travelling about the United States he fell in with one of his own countrymen, who had become converted to Christianity. This had the effect of lengthening his visit somewhat, and a year later, through the influence of his friend, he was converted.

Since that time, Mr. Roy has been a student at Peddie Institute, Hightstown, New Jersey, and also at Colgate University, at Hamilton, New York, where he learned the English language, science, history, and a little theology, and also how to appreciate our Christian civilization. He claims to be thoroughly modernized, and thinks he is more of a Yankee now than a Brahmin. Mr. Roy intends returning to India next May, with the hope of finding some means of Christianizing his people by wholesale. He expects to go from England under the auspices of the English Foreign Missionary Society. The object of his present tour is to raise funds to pay his passage to India in case the Society failed to accept him.

Mr. Roy is the son of a nobleman in North-West India, and previous to his conversion enjoyed an income of £1,000 sterling. His father ownes 12,000 acres of land, and he would have inherited it, being the only son. But because he adopted the Christian religion, his father has ostracized him. He did not feel badly over this, however, but thought if he was able to lift his people out of darkness into light, God would give him his reward.

THE LATE WILLIAM BARRY.

A Tribute to His Memory From Memramcook College.

A writer to the Moncton Times, who dates his letter from Memramcook College, says of Wm. Barry the young Fredericton man, whose death occurred so suddenly the other day at that institution: "The faculty and students were much affected by his untimely death. "Will" Barry was one of the best gymnasium athletes that ever went through here. He was nearly 6 feet tall and weighed nearly 200 lbs. His health seemed to be robust, and nobody suspected the tragedy which happened this day a week ago. On Sunday last the Rev. Father Girard paid many high tributes to the memory of our departed friend. He was a model student, led a model life, and though he was taken from among us by so sudden a death, still he was not unprepared, for two days before he had received absolution at the foot of his confessor, and the next morning received Holy Communion with the most saintly disposition. To his widowed mother, and his grieving brother, do the faculty and students of St. Joseph's tender their most heart-felt sympathies and condolences."

REV. FATHER MACRAE.

The Casket, a Roman Catholic weekly published at Antigonish, the residence of Bishop Cameron, in its issue of yesterday has the following in the course of an article on Father Macrae; "He was deprived of his pastoral charge at Lake Ainslie, C. B., in the summer of 1894 for conduct which, in the judgment of the ordinary, unfitted him to have the charge of souls until such time as he should have given evidence of amendment, and last April he quitted the diocese.

As regards the alleged testimonial from Biship Cameron, his lordship authorizes us to state that the paper furnished to Father Macrae in April was simply a written formula granting leave of absence from the diocese for a certain time. This formula as quoted in the Sun contains the words usually found in such documents: "Nay, indeed, that though art approved for piety and other meritorious virtues."

His Lordship distinctly affirms that this recommendatory clause was purposely omitted from the letter he gave Father Macrae in April last, for the reason that he could not conscientiously recommend him to the other bishops as a priest in good standing, though he declared him to be free from ecclesiastical censure.

In October last Father Macrae applied once more for a parish in this diocese, but was refused.

NARROW ESCAPE.

Alfred Cropley Had a Close Call Saturday Afternoon.

An accident which came very near having very disastrons results, occurred at Hunt's drug store, three o'clock Saturday afternoon. Alfred Cropley, a son of Major Cropley, one of Mr. Hunt's clerks, was in the act of lighting a spirit lamp on a table in the back store, when a large bottle from which he had just filled the lamp, upset and took fire.

Young Cropley, without thinking, stooped over and undertook to suppress the flames by blowing into the mouth of the bottle. This action caused the blaze to flare up quickly and some of the burning spirits was blown into his face.

Wilson Lodge, a fellow clerk, who was also in teh back store when the accident occurred, with great presence of mind, grabbed an overcoat, and throwing it around Cropley's head, succeeded in smothering the flames.

Dr. McLearn was at once summoned and found the young man quite badly burned about the head and face. After dressing the wounds he had him conveyed to his home on Brunswick street.

EFFECTS OF THE FLOOD.

Roads, Bridges and Culverts Damaged by Tuesday Night's Great Rain.

Our Keswick correspondent writes: The recent rain made terrible havoc with the roads and bridges in this locality. Mill creek bridge is carried away. The C. P. R. culvert at Pugh's Crossing was partly carried away. The water came with such force when it struck the highway bridge at that place, that it damaged it considerably. The road in places is washed out five and six feet deep and from fifteen to twenty feet in length. The back road, better known as the McGibbon road, is impassable, and unless the government comes to the assistance of the people in that locality, they will be put to considerable inconvenience. One of the ratepayers in that district told your reporter last evening that it would take more than one year statute labor to put the road in shape again, to say nothing about the large culverts.

The Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor of St. Paul's church held their first regular meeting in the old kirk Friday evening. Upwards of eighty young people were in attendance, and quite a number were admitted to active membership. The society is starting out under very favorable auspices, and the prospects for the future are bright. The regular weekly meeting is to be held every Friday evening.

John Wisely, who lives with his son, Mr. James C. Wisely, at the lower limits of the city, is a remarkably sprightly man for his years. He will be 93 years old next August, but is in possesson of all his faculties, and is out every fine day and able to walk to the river, quite a distance from his home. Mr. Wisely was born in Derry, Ireland, and has been a resident of New Brunswick for 64 years, living all that time within fifteen miles of his present residence.

A despatch from Woodstock says it is now conclusively proved that the logs floating by that town last week were from the Aroostook woods. It appears the booms at the falls broke. Geo. Dunn of Houlton, the owner of the logs, says there were between 1,500,000 and 2,000,000 logs in the boom, and he thinks one half the number has been carried away. There is no hope of saving any. The ice is now running in the river thick.

Saturday, while Johnny Howell, a thirteen year old boy, who lives with his aunt, Mrs. Hallett, was playing foot-ball, near the St. Dunstan's church, he tripped and fell against the iron railing in front of the church, striking his forehead on a sharp point and cutting a gash two inches long, just over his eye. The little fellow was badly stunned, and when carried into Thos. B. Roberts', St. John street, fainted away. Dr. Serry was summoned, and found it necessary to put in several stitches to close up the wound.

The provincial board of health met Friday night at the residence of the chairman, Dr. Wm. Bayard, St. John. There were present besides the chairman, Drs. Coburn and Coulthard of Fredericton, Hon. The board declined to take any action with regard to the Woodstock sewerage question.

In the University extension lecture course at St. John Friday night, Prof. Downing spoke on Telegraphs and Telephones. The lecturer explaned the action of the phone and gave much valuable information concerning it. He also gave a brief history of telegraphy, explained the instruments in use in telegraph offices, relay, sounder key, etc, and referred to the codes which are in vogue in many offices. Prof. Downing also spoke of cables, told how they were laid, how breaks were discovered, and other information concerning cables and telegraphy in general.

SERIOUS RUNAWAY ACCIDENT.

Young McGeehan of this City Was the Victim.

A horse owned by S. H. Logan clerk in Oak Hall in this city, and driven by Geo. McGeehan, ran away on the 28th ult, a short distance beyond Marysville and did considerable damage. Young McGeehan had borrowed the rig to drive out to Stanley Crossing.

When he was returning home in the afternoon, one of the traces became unfastened. He got out to replace it, and as he was doing so, the horse, which had been used very little the past month, and was consequently feeling good, took fright and started down the road at a lively clip. The young man was knocked down by the forward wheel of the cart, and was very badly cut about the head and face, and had his arm and leg considerably bruised. He was taken into a house near by, where his wounds were dressed, and he was able to return home in the train. The horse was captured by Sanford Pond, a mile beyond Marysville.

The road cart and harness were badly damaged, but the animal was uninjured. The injuries received by McGeehan are quite serious, and will probably confine him to the house for some days.

A LADY'S SUGGESTION.

On the Agitation to secure the Appointment of one of sex to the Board of School Trustees.

To the Editor of the Daily Herald:

SIR,—At the anniversary of the W. C. T. U. the other evening, the suggestion was made, that a woman be appointed as a member of the school board in this city. That is surely a fitting suggestion, and notwithstanding the opposition of The Herald, I firmly believe that one member at least of the school board should be a woman.

At another time, Mr. Editor, I may point out certain reasons, which to me seem conclusive, why a woman should be a member; but, at present, in view of the memorial now being circulated, I wish to point out the propriety of such appointment being made by the city council, rather than by the government.

Women are political nonentities from a provincial standpoint, the legislature not permitting them to vote in elections for its members; but in civic matiers they have a voice, and where responsibility is, there should representation be.

I, therefore, submit to the city council the proposition, that when they, this year, elect a school trustee, that that trustee be a woman; and, in passing, I would concur in the excellence of the choice made in the memorial.

A WOMAN (not new.)

Fredericton, Nov. 28, 1895.

MAUGERVILLE'S POSTMASTER.

F. P. Shields gets the Position, and was Installed this Morning.

Post office Inspector King has caused F. P. Shields to be appointed to the position of postmaster at Maugerville. He received his commission yesterday and formally took charge of the office this morning. A large majority of the residents of the postal district had agreed upon another gentleman for the position, but their nominee did not suit George A. Treadwell, Mr. Wilmot's lieutenant, and so they will have to take a back seat for the present.

Mr. Shields' name was forwarded to Ottawa some weeks ago by Mr. Wilmot at the instance of Mr. Treadwell, but the people of Maugerville interested in the appointment, kicked up such a row that the Tory M. P. was obliged to ask for a stay of proceedings. He then placed the matter in the hands of Post office Inspector King. Mr. Treadwell was not to be side tracked in this manner, however. He at once hied himself off to St. John, and had an interview with the Post office Inspector, with the above result.

TEN GENEROUS MEN

Who Will Be Remembered Kindly by the Normal School Students and the 71st Battalion Band.

Ten well known gentlemen have very generously bought the entire gallery of the City Hall for the evening of the 71st Batt. band concert, Dec. 12th, and presented it to the students of the Normal School. No doubt the students will thoroughly appreciate the kindness, and the Band is to be congratulated on starting off with such a handsome sale. The generous donors are: Governor Fraser, Mayor Vanwart, Hon. A. F. Randolph, Jas. T. Sharkey, F. B. Edgecombe, Willard Kitchen, Ald. Lemont, J. F. McMurray, John J. Weddall and Col. Alexander for the officers of the 71st Batt.

The concert promises to be a great success. A fine lot of musical talent has been engaged, including Morton Harrison of St. John, Miss Alma Gibson of Marysville, Mr. W. Adams in his popular character songs, and others whose names will be published later.

WEDDED AT DOAKTOWN.

A Prosperous Young Queens Co. Farmer Takes Unto Himself a Wife.

J. Isaac Palmer on enterprising young farmer of Hampstead, Queens County, was married at Doaktown on Wednesday, to Miss Rolla M. Crocker, daughter of Robert Crocker of that place. The ceremony was performed in the Methodist church by Rev. J. C. Clements, and was witnessed by a large gathering of spectators.

The bridegroom was supported by Frank N. Ogilvie, and Miss Millie M. Betts acted as bridesmaid. After the ceremony the bridal party repaired to the residence of the bride's father, where a sumptuous wedding repast was served. The bride was the recepient of a large number of valuable wedding presents.

DEATH SEEMED PREFERABLE.

To the Agonizing Pain.

Mrs. Roadhouse, of Williscroft P. O Ont., writes; "I have used Dr. Agnew's cure for the heart since last fall, having taken in all nine bottles, and I now feel entirely like another woman. I am 54 years old, and have been troubled with heart disease for more than twenty years, sometimes for five hours at a time suffering such agony that death seemed preferable to the pain. The cold sweat would stand out in great beads upon my face. The Heart Cure gave me relief from almost the first dose and has proved a great blessing.

"You are at liberty to publish this letter if you this by so doing any good may be accomplished."

Sold by W. H. Carten, C. H. Burchill and J. M. Wiley.

It is rumored, says the Sun, that Rev. W. W. Lodge will be continued in the Marysville pastorate for a fifth year. The law of the church will not allow him to stay longer, R.R. C. I. MINSTRELS.

Gave A Very Creditable and Amusing Performance.

The R. R. C. I. fully demonstrated by their performance in the city hall Friday evening, that they would not suffer a great deal from a comparison with many of the travelling combinations that visit the city. The audience which greeted them, while not overly large, was an appreciative one. Prominent among those present were the officers of the Royal Regiment in uniform.

The costumes worn by the gentlemen who composed the circle, were equal to those usually displayed by ministrel troups and quite up to date. Byers, Clinton, Naufft s, Paschke, McNeil, and Baugh, as end men, and Taylor as interlocutor, did very creditable work, but some of their jokes lacked that snap and vim in their delivery which is necessary in a case of this kind in order to please an audience.

The singing was of a high order, the choruses being exceptionally well rendered. The solos by Clinton, Taylor, Byers and Baugh were well received, and each had to respond to an encore.

The Checker-board avenue quartette, composed of Clinton, Paschke, Baugh and Morash, with their harmonicas, banjo, and autoharp, brought down the house.

Ned. Byers' stump speech was certainly the feature of the performcnce, and provoked no end of amusement. He was arrayed in female attire, and spoke from the standpoint of a colored lady. He banged the table repeatedly with a delapidated old umberella, and his antics and gestures were of a very amusing nature, and reminded one of Mr. Pitts, in the legislature.

Percy Gunn gave a marvellous exhibition of club swinging for one of his years, and called forth frequent outbursts of applause.

The physical drill with arms, by Paschke Ross and McCush was performed with great precision and regularity, and for an encore they went through the bayonet exercise with the regularity of clock work.

Naufft s and McNeil gave a very clever exhibition of clog dancing.

The performance concluded with an amusing side splitting farce entitled a Slippery Day.

Miss Perkins' orchestra was in attendance and furnished some excellent music.

TREADWELL WRITES A LETTER.

But Neglects to Explain His Personal Interest in Postmaster Shields' Appointment.

Geo. A. Treadwell, Mr. Wilmot's chief advisor in Sunbury County, publishes a letter in the Gleaner, in which he seeks to defend himself and his friend for the appointment of F. P. Shields as postmaster of Maugerville, but he does not mention his personal interest in Shields getting the office. THE HERALD understands that Treadwell occupies the important position of ferrying the mails from the river bank to the steamers, for which he receives in return free transport on the steamers, for himself and his near relatives. If Mr. Sewell had been appointed postmaster, Mr. Treadwell would have lost his job, hence his intense desire to secure it for r. Shields, to the inconvenience of the great body of the Maugerville people. The new postmaster, we are informed, runs on the boats all summer, and in the winter works for his friend and patron Treadwell, and how he is going to run the post office too, puzzles the Maugerville people. The tacit agreement of Mr. Wilmot to Shilds' appointment, has offended a great many of his former friends in the district, but he sets such value on the great political influence of Treadwell, that he no doubt feels the result of his election in Maugerville will not be seriously changed from the past. In this, however, Mr. Wilmot will be very grievously deceived.

Logs go to Sea.

(Chatham World.)

Mr. Hutchison had about two million feet of logs hung up in Renous River. He built blocks and stretched a boom, to prevent their coming down with the fall freshet or with the ice in the spring, but part of them got away and ran out on Thursday. It is thought that the boom has not broken, but that the rear of the drive has floated around the flanks of the defence. The estimates of the quantity or lost logs vary from 300,000 to 1,500,000. The logs cannot be saved, but will go to sea.

Mrs. Burns, relict of the late Thomas Burns, died at her home King street, west end, Sunday morning. Deceased had been a sufferer from cancer of the stomach for nine or ten years, and it was the direct cause of her death. She was 83 years old, and her husband has been dead many years. The funeral will take place at 10 a. m. to-morrow from St. Dunstan's church, interment at the Hermitage. The funeral arrangements are in the hands of J. D. Hanlon.

Bheem Roy, the high caste Brahmin, who is now in the city, met a gentleman here in the person of Edwin Ashford whom he was able to converse with in his own tongue. Mr. Ashford spent eight years in India as a soldier in Her Majesty's 15th regiment, and learned to speak the Hindoo language quite fluently.

A NOTED DELEGATE.

Who Addressed a Meeting In This City Tuesday Evening.

Mr. Eugene Stock, delegate of the Church Missionary Society, will address a meeting to-morrow evening at 8 o'clock in the Church Hall in this city.

Mr. Eugene Stock was born on Feb. 6, 1836, in London. Before giving himself up to church work he obtained a thorough business training, which is of great use to him now in his arrangements of facts, and in his mastery of the history of missions and of the organization of the C. M. S Mr. Stock attended the evening classes at King's College, was a superintendent at St. Thomas's, Barnsbury, London, and was for a time editor of the Church Sunday School Magazine. He is of Sunday School lessons, which have been used by schools in this city. Mr. Stock has done much in the editorial chair to raise the C. M. S. publications to be easily the first in the world. He has managed to create an ever-growing circle of people who read them, and has made missionary reports and papers much brighter and interesting.

His open-eyed zeal has led him to initiate and give the chief impulse to these various organizations—the Younger Clery Union, the Ladies' Union, and the Day Workers' Union—by which the C. M. S. has obtained such a tremendous hold upon London. He too is the originator of the now world-wide "Gleaners' Union" and the Lay Workers' Union.

He has been in touch with most phases of the church life of the last forty years He has repeatedly been elected a member of the London Diocesan Conference and of the House of Laymen. One of his latest and most effective activities has been the generation of unprecedented missionary enthusiasm at the Keswick conventions. Twelve years ago there was no distinctively missionary meetings at Keswick Through his influence and the missionary meeting is now one of the most wonderful of that wonderful gathering. From Kewick many men and women have gone away with the firm resolve by God's help to enter the foreign missionary field.

All this has been Changed,

Three years ago Mr. Stock and the lately martyred Rev. Robert W. Stewart travelled through Australia and New Zealand to organize an Australian Church Missionary Association, in affiliation with the C. M. S. at home. It is for a similar purpose that Mr. Stock and his confrere, Mr. Grubb, have now come to Canada.

Mr. Stock married a daughter of Capt. Mann, R. N. About twelve years ago she died. Her two sister and Mr. Stock's sister, Miss Sarah Geraldine Stock, have given in the various departments of his editorial work.

Mr. Stock has a prodigious fund of endurance and power of sustained work. It is said that he has the Gladstonion faculty of doing two things at once. He attends the committee meetings in Salisbury Square, busily writing the letters of his huge correspondence, yet watching every turn of the debate, and able to speak at the opportune moment. After a hard day's committee work or office work he continues to labor far on into the night. He is a man of rather short stature, fresh complexion, with close-trimmed gray beard.

A Successsul Hunt.

One of the caribou heads was unusually large. Mr. Bodkin has had large experience in hunting big game in all parts of the world, and has passed through many exciting adventures.

Hailed From Fredericton.

The Yarmouth Times says that Sambo an old and well known horse which originally came from Fredericton, was chloroformed by his owner last week. As a trotter on roads and on the ice, says the Times, Sambo won a front rank, and became the acknowledged superior of any horse in the county. Years rolled on and he was sold out of the county and, when twenty years of age, won his first track record, at Kentville, in we believe, 2.41, and made quite a fortunate pot of money for his owner. Sambo was twenty four years old.

A LIBERAL RALLY.

Hon. Messrs. Davies, Fielding and Longley

Opened the Liberal Campaign at Amherst Last Night.

The Liberal campaign in the Maritime provinces was opened by Hon. Messrs. Davies, Fielding and Longley, at Amherst Nov. 28th, under most favorable auspices. The large Academy of Music was quite inadequate to accommodate the immense audience which sought admission. Hon. Wm. T. Pipes, Q. C., occupied the chair, and on the platform, besides the speakers and a number of ladies, were Hon. H. R. Emmerson, M. P. P., of Albert, N. B. and M. D. Pride, manager of the Amherst Boot and Shoe Company.

H. J. Logan, the Liberal candidate, was the first speaker, and was followed by who was received amid enthusiastic cheers on rising. He said it had been intimated to him that it was a piece of audacity for any one to venture to discuss the Liberal doctrine in this great Tory pocket borough. He declined to so regard it. Cumberland would come into line with the majority of the other constituencies in Nova Scotia and support the Liberal policy. He discussed the Manitoba schoo question, with great fulness, declaringl the policy of the Liberal party was to do full justice in the matter, but it was in the interests of all that the rights of the minority should be secured by friendly concessions and compromises rather than by adverse and disastrous methods of coercion. Mr. Laurier's policy was to secure, if possible, friendly action for Manitoba, but if this was impossible then a full investigation of the facts should be had and then he would base his action upon the information there obtained. He denounced the policy of high tariff, showing the injurious effects upon the country pointing out the advantages of the Liberal policy, and predicting the speedy overthrow of the present administration.

Attorney General Longley

was the next speaker, and was received with loud applause. He dealt more fully with the Liberal policy, and said it was not calculated to destroy the manufacturing industries, but rather to build up the great industrial industries of the country. The tariff in any case must secure incidental protection to the manufacturers. There was no objection to have them encouraged so that it would aid legitimate home industries, but what Liberals waged war against was the monopolies, combines and the privileges they enjoyed. These threatended the liberty of the country by the corrupt manner in which they are applied in debauching public opinion. He denounced the government for the extravagant and unbusiness like manner in which the administration had been carried on, instancing the franchise act case, which had cost one million, the McGreevy transaction by which $160,000 was boodled from the treasury, the Tay Canal which cost $476,000 which had no traffic, the total receipts being $135, the Curran bridge, estimated to cost $122,-000, had already cost $394,000, of which $200,000 was absolutely robbed from the treasury by swindling and fraudulent pay lists, but yet no one was brought to justice. In closing he paid a glowing eulogy to Mr. Logan, the Liberal candidate, and appealed to the men of Cumberland to rise to the occasion. He sat down amid deafening applause.

Premier Fielding

on rising, was accorded a most enthusiastic reception. In his pleasing and instructive manner he briefly reviewed the poilcy of the government to bring about the prosperity so glowingly pictured by the N. P. advocates but which failed to materialize in any particular. He showed that the high tariff or tax was against the consumer and in favor of the manufacturer and while he was not at enmity with the manufacturer, yet like the others, he was prepared to wage war against the combines and cited the great cotton, sugar, cordage and other monopolies as instances of the result of a high protective tariff. His handling of the Manitoba school question was most masterly and was interrupted frequently by applause. He regretted the lateness of the hour prevented his going more fully into other important matters.

In closing he referred to the Hon. Wilfred Laurier in glowing terms, and said that although of another religion, he was proud to be the follower of so great a man. The applause was deafening.

The meeting closed by singing the national anthem.

This evening a meeting at Parrsboro will be addressed by Messrs. Davies and Longley and Black, M. P. P.

The ladies, young and old of St. Paul's Church Saturday engaged in a charitable work, making up a couple of boxes to be sent to the poor Indian children of the North West missions. The enterprise was undertaken by the Women's Home and Missionary Society of the Church, and Clover Leaf Mission band, and they have many contributions. One box is being filled with toys, picture books and candies for the Indian children, and the other will be packed with good warm clothing for them and their parents. The gift when completed will be quite a valuable one, and no doubt will be deeply appreciated by the missionaries and their wards. It will make nobody poorer, and the unfortunate red children a great deal richer.

The Religious Revival.

Four persons were received into the Methodist church, and one was baptized at the morning service yesterday. At the F. C. Baptist two were baptized and three admitted to membership. Rev. Mr. Davidson administered the ordinance of baptism to six persons at the Gibson Baptist church, and gave the right hand of fellowship to nine others. Rev. Mr. Parsons, of the Gibson F. C.
