WAS FATALLY HURT BY FALLING FROM TEAM

Teamster Crushed Under a Heavy Wagon for Hours Dies from Result.

VICTIM CARRIED MONEY

Alfred Moore Had Over $900 of His Savings in a Belt Around Him When Found.

Fredericton, N. B., Nov. 28—As a result of internal injuries caused by falling from a team on a tote road leading from Williamsburg to Nappadoggan Lake, Alfred Moore, teamster, in the employ of the Toronto Construction Company, died at the Victoria Hospital this afternoon.

The accident, which was of a most unusual nature, happened a week ago Saturday night when Moore was making his last trip of the season. He had left Williamsburg in the afternoon with a two horse team loaded with supplies for the camp. When he had covered about half of the six mile trail, he started to cross a mud hole, when the wheels of the wagon went down into a deep cut, causing it to upset.

Moore endeavored to save himself by jumping, but was caught and pinned down by one of the heavy wheels in about eight inches of mud and had the horses not remained perfectly still his life would have been crushed out by the wheels of the wagon.

All alone in the deep woods, with darkness coming on, it is not hard to picture the terrible situation which confronted him.

But for the action of W. C. Smith Company's energetic foreman, at Nappadoggan, the poor fellow would have perished where he fell. When he failed to reach camp at the usual hour Smith became uneasy and sent two men out on the trail to look for Moore. They penetrated the woods for a distance of two miles and failing to meet Moore returned to camp and reported. Smith however, was not satisfied. He had ascertained by telephone that Moore had left Williamsburg with his team and he was now positive that an accident had befallen, him. He immediately dispatched another searching party and told them that they must find Moore. They took lanterns along with them and came upon Moore and his team, four miles from the camp.

When his clothing was removed a belt containing over $900, representing his savings, was found on his body. On Monday he was removed by train to McGivney's and thence to Victoria Hospital here.

EMPLOYES WERE PUT OUT ON THE STREET

New England Company Ejecting its Striking Employees From the Homes Owned by the Company--- Over Two Thousand Effected.

THE CITY IS CALLED UPON TO PROVIDE HABITATION

Ludlow, Mass., Nov. 27—In fulfilment of their announced intention of compelling strikers and their families to leave the dwellings owned by the company, officials of the Ludlow Mfg. Association to-day began having writs of ejectment served. Fifteen company houses were emptied of their contents early this forenoon, and the occupants ordered to seek shelter elsewhere. The strikers who left the company's jute and hemp products mills late in September, as a protest against a new system of work which they claimed meant lower wages for them, announced to-day that they intended to appeal to the town officials to provide habitations for the families turned out of the company's buildings. The town authorities have not yet indicated how they will meet this appeal.

There was no interference with the work of the officers in emptying the houses to-day, but the strikers evidently were in a sullen mood and the town authorities and company officials had made elaborate preparations to guard against a possible disturbance.

Three hundred men, including all the deputy sheriffs of Hampden county, were stationed about the mills today as guards.

Of the 2,800 employes who went on strike, about 600 have returned. Some portions of the plant are being operated but the greater part of it is shut down.

The company will have a number of families ejected from its houses each day until all are relieved. Practically all the employes live in the company's dwellings.

OVER SCORE OF JAPS MET THEIR DEATH IN WRECK

Accident Occurred on the Canadian Northern Near Vancouver.

THE TRAIN CREW ESCAPED

Locomotive and Flat Cars Crashed Down on Box Car, and Victims Had no Chance of Escape.

Vancouver, B. C., Nov. 28—Between twenty and thirty Japanese were killed today between Vancouver and New Westminster, when a work train on the Great Northern went through a fill-in.

No white men were killed. The engineer and fireman jumped in time to save themselves.

The Japs were all in a box car behind the locomotive and there was no escape for them. It had been raining heavily for several days, and the water loosened the earth at the base of the culvert. The locomotive had just crossed when a pull was felt from behind and looking back the engineer saw the whole fill-in going. He and the fireman jumped just in time.

The locomotive tumbled backward on the car containing the Japs, cutting it in two and mangling the bodies of the victims horribly. From the other side eight flat cars piled themselves in a heap on the car in which the men were riding, driving it into the embankment.

The bodies and pieces of bodies of seventeen men have been taken from the wreckage and others can be seen protruding.

The Owl express from Seattle to Vancouver would have passed over the fill-in but was held up at New Westminster to allow the track to be cleared.

SEEK MAN HOW AS[illegible] MURDERED [illegible] F GLOVER

The Hattie LeBlanc Mystery Is Still Unsolved But Bullets Found in Body Do Not Fit Revolver Which Glover Said She Used.

IT IS NOW CLAIMED BY MANY SHE WAS A DUPE

Waltham, Mass., Nov. 27—The legal procedure in the investigation of the murder of Clarence Glover in his laundry in this city, reached the inquest stage to-day. For a week the state and local officials have been using every effort to clear up the mystery which has enveloped the case. They have arrested Hattie LeBlanc, a domestic in the Glover family, who was accused of the murder by Glover just before he died. The authorities, however, have found too many inconsistencies to support Glover's statement.

One of the most striking is that the bullets recovered don't fit the revolver which Glover claimed the young woman used in shooting him. For the past few days the police have been looking in the direction of some man, the identity of whom they have not discovered or refuse to disclose, as the possible perpetrator of the crime.

The inquest to-day was held in the hope of bringing out further evidence, and District Attorney Higgins, who conducted it, summoned before Judge Lace, the inquest official, several members of the Glover and LeBlanc families, as well as physicians who attended the dying man and with whom Glover had close business connections.

The inquest proceedings were quiet.

A special despatch to the Times says that it looks now as if Hattie LeBlanc was the dupe of the real murderer and that there was a deep plot back of it all.

Oxford, N. S., Swept By Bad Fire

Amherst, N. S., Nov. 26—The enterprising manufacturing town of Oxford was visited early this morning by a most disastrous fire, which destroyed five buildings in the centre of the business portion of the town, entailing a loss of probably thirty thousand dollars. The fire, the origin of which is not yet known, started in W. R. Slade's large building on Main street, occupied by the Oxford Clothing Co., large wholesale manufacturers of men's and women's clothing. This, with all its contents, are a total loss. The fire quickly spread to the following buildings, which were, with most of their contents, totally destroyed: A. S. McIntosh, drug store; Peter stone building, occupied by J. E. Hill, boot and shoes, jewelry and confectionery; Alexander Ross, tailoring establishment; H. S. Smiths, stone dwelling, barns and warehouses.

A young man, son of Rev. Mr. Baylie, the Episcopal clergyman, had his arm broken while assisting at the fire.

The conservative estimate of the loss, so far as ascertained is:

J. E Hills, from $1,200 to $1,500; no insurance.

Oxford Clothing Co., $10,000 to $15,000; partially covered.

Alex. Ross, $2,000 to $3,000; with $1,100 insurance.

A. S. McIntosh's drug store and stock, $3,000 to $4,000; partially insured.

It was only by the almost superhuman efforts of the firemen that the town was saved.

Ira Henderson, dry goods, and Dr. Gillis, druggist, removed all their stock, while R. S. Thompson, postmaster, had every thing in connection with the office ready to be removed when the fire was got under control.
