JOHN MARVEN,

HEALTH OR SICKNESS!

CHOOSE BETWEEN THEM.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS

The blood furnishes the material of every bone, muscle, gland and fibre in the human frame. When pure, it secures health to every organ it necessarily produces disease. HOLLOWAY'S PILLS operate directly upon the elements of the stream of life, neutralizing the principle of disease, and thus radically curing the malady, whether located in the nerves, the stomach, the liver, the bowels, the muscles, the skin, the brain, or any other part of the system.

USED THROUGHOUT THE WORLD.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS are equally efficacious in complaints common to the whole human race and in disorders peculiar to certain climates and localities.

ALARMING DISORDERS.

Dyspepsia, and derangement of the liver, the source of infirmity and suffering, and the cause of innumerable deaths, yield to these curatives, in all cases, however aggravated, acting as a mild purgative, alterative and tonic; they relieve the bowels, purify the fluids, and invigorate the system and the constitution at the same time.

GENERAL WEAKNESS—NERVOUS COMPLAINTS.

When all stimulants fail, the renovating and bracing properties of these Pills give firmness to the shaking nerves and enfeebled muscles of the victim of general debility.

DELICATE FEMALES.

All irregularities and ailments incident to the delicate and sensitive organs of the sex are removed or prevented by a few doses of these mild, but infallible alteratives. No mother who regards her own or her children's health should fail to have them within her reach.

SCIENTIFIC ENDORSEMENTS.

The London "Lancet," the London "Medical Review," and the most eminent of the faculty in Great Britain, France and Germany, have eulogized the Pills and their inventor.

Holloway's Pills are the best remedy known in the world for the following diseases:

Asthma	Female Complaints	Piles
Bowel Complaints	Fevers	Stone and Gravel
Coughs	Headaches	Secondary
Colds	Indigestion	Symptoms
Chest Diseases	Influenza	Venereal Affections
Costiveness	Inflamation	Worms, of all kinds.
Dyspepsia	Iudward Weakness
Diarrhœa	Liver Complaints
Dropsy
Debility
Fever and Ague	Lowness of spirits

A MEDICAL REVOLUTION!

THE WORLD UNANIMOUS.

THE GREAT COUNTER IRRITANT!

The virus of disease often makes its way to the internal organs through the pores of the skin. This penetrating Ointment, melting under the hand as it is rubbed in, is absorbed through the same channels, and, reaching the seat of inflammation, promptly and invariably subdues it, whether located in the kidneys, the liver, the lungs, or any other important organ. It penetrates the surface to the interior, through the countless tubes that communicate with the skin as summer rain passes into the fevered earth diffusing its cool and regenerating influence.

SKIN DISEASES & GLANDULAR SWELLINGS.

Every species of exterior irritation is quickly relieved by the anti-inflamatory action of this Ointment. Angry Eruptions, such as SALT RHEUM, ERYSIPELAS, TETTER, RINGWORM, SCALD HEAD, NETTLE RASH, SCURVY (or Itch) &c., die out, to return no more under its application. Hospital experience in all parts of the world proves its infallibility in diseases of the skin, the muscles the joints and the glands.

ULCERS, SORES, AND TUMORS.

The effect of this derivated external remedy upon scrofula, and other virulent ulcers and sores, is almost miraculous. It first discharges the poison which produces suppuration and proud flesh, and thus the cures which its healing properties afterward complete are safe as well as permanent.

WOUNDS, BRUISES, BURNS, AND SCALDS

In cases of the fracture of the bones, injuries caused by steam explosions, BRUISES, BURNS, SCALDS, RHEUMATISM, STIFFNESS OF THE JOINTS, and contraction of the sinews, it is employed and warmly recommended by the faculty. This marvellous remedy has been introduced by its inventor in person into all the leading Hospitals of Europe, and no private household should be without it.

UNDENIABLE TESTIMONY.

The Medical Staff of the French and English Armies in the Crimea have officially signed their approval of Holloway's Ointment, as the most reliable dressing for sabre cuts, stabs, and gun-shot wounds. It is also used by the surgeons of the Allied Navies.

Both the Ointment and Pills should be used in the following cases:

Bunions,	Rheumatism,	Sore Throats,
Burns,	Ringworm,	Sores of all kinds
Capped hands,	Salt Rheum,	Sprains,
Chilblains,	Scalds,	Stiff Joints
Fistula,	Skin Diseases	Tetter,
Gout,	Swelled	Ulcers,
Lumbago,	Glands,	Venereal Sores,
Meteorial	Sore Legs,	Wounds of all
Eurptions,	Sore Breasts,	kinds.
Piles,	Sore Heads,

Sold at the Manufactories of Professor Holloway, 80, Maiden Lane, New York, and 244 Strand, London, by all respectable Druggists and Dealers in Medicine throughout the United States and the civilized world, in pots, at 25 cents, 62½ cents, and 1$ each.

A TALE OF THE SOUTH.

That the natural and the spiritual worlds lie in close proximity to each other, and that an intercourse, more or less frequent, is kept up between the inhabitants of each, has always been, and is now, almost every where, the creed of the million. The phenomena of prophetic dreams, apparitions and presentiments, and those kindred psychological mysteries which perplex the philosophy of the learned, appear to be so readily and satisfactorily explained by these assumptions of the popular faith, that not unfrequently even cultivated intellects yield it a credence to which it is not entitled from the force of the evidence, external as well as intrinsic, upon which it rests its claim to belief.

The traditions of all countries bear singular testimony to the universality of this faith in the reality of an intercourse between the world of matter and the world of spirit. This proves, at least, how widely diffused is the belief in the life after death, and may be accepted as a dim revelation of the immortality of the soul.

Poets have graced the marvels of this alleged spiritual intercourse with the amenities of creative fancy, and have thus contributed to strengthen and diffuse the faith which accepts them as true. They enter as a powerful element into the imaginative literature of the day, gaining by the balance additional influence over the minds and feelings of the masses. Even our boasted philosophy, by attempting and failing to solve the accredited indicia of the mystic communion, has multiplied the proselytes of the vulgar creed, and added plausibility to its pretensions by the admitted failure to explain the evidence adduced to prove its credibility.

The tenacity and the universality of the belief in the possibility and reality of an intercourse between the denizens of the visible and the invisible worlds, argue a foundation for it in the common and inexplicable instincts of humanity. It differs in development and manifestation, among civilized and barbarous people, as among cultivated and ignorant individuals, rather in form and degree than in essence. Among the uncivilized and the ignorant who, like children, are prone to indulge in the exaggerations of credulity, the belief develops itself in the grossest forms, and accepts even the explainable phenomena of nature as proofs of immediate supernatural interference. The more enlightened communities and individuals simply narrow the sphere of manifestation, but by no means, unless it be in a few exceptional instances of philosophic unbelief, ignore the reality of the interfusion of the activities of the spiritual among the organisms and events of the material world.—Thus, underlying alike the philosophy of the wise and the credulity of the vulgar, is the deep-seated ineradicable and immortal faith in the intercommunion between the dwellers in flesh and the inhabitants of the unseen world.

I am myself not at all superstitious. In the modern marvels of biology and spiritualism I have no faith. What are commonly called prophetic dreams, appear to me to be merely the native children of the somnolent brain, born with no higher claims to inspiration of origin than our waking thoughts and fancies. The same brain, I have always believed, weakened by disease, disordered by abnormal conditions of mind or body, or dulled by incipient somnolency, evokes from airy nothingness the forms of apparitions, and gives them "local habitation and a name." In like manner, in my philosophy, presentiments are but the subtler intuitions of the intellect, darting with prophetic foresight through the opaque mass of events impending circumstance, to the event hidden from the duller vision of the mind in its common and ordinary moods of activity and perception.

This is my creed. I cannot deny, however, that I am occasionally sorely perplexed by an apparently direct antagonism between my theory and facts which I know to be true, or which I accept as true on the relation of others. Now and then I meet, in the circle of my acquaintance, or in my travels by field and flood, with an instance of presentiment in which the event was so remarkably prefigured by the vision, or impending peril so manifestly averted by the precautionary measures induced by faith in the premonition, that even to my unbelief the presentiment seems little less than a spirit utterance from the other world. One of these I am about to record. I heard it related many years ago, in a quiet village in the interior of the State of Kentucky, by the person to whom the presentiment occurred.

Isaac Rolyat, the narrator, was quite an old man. He was the patriarch of the village in which he lived, and was universally respected and beloved for his intelligence, his piety, and the blameless purity of his life. For nearly a half century he had been a professor of religion, and was, at the time I saw him, a member of the Methodist Church. Notwithstanding his advanced age, his intellect was still strong and quick, with a decided predominance of the practical over the imaginative in its structure. He possessed a large fund of pioneer anecdotes, which he told with much skill and effect.

During one of my college vacations, I became a frequent guest at the house of the hospitable old man. He used to entertain me for hours with thrilling tales of border life. The manifest absence of all attempt at either exaggeration or display in his conversation, independent of the genuineness of his truthful character, made me credit his narratives of personal adventure as strictly true.

One evening our conversation chanced to turn upon the ghostly theme of apparitions, dreams, and presentiments.

"I have," said Mr. Rolyat, "a personal experience of my own upon the subject of presentiments so remarkable, that I became a firm believer in their reality, many years ago. The reflection and observation of subsequent life have confirmed my faith, and I shall die as I have lived, unashamed in the belief that a presentiment saved me from an untimely death."

I expressed what I really felt, an anxious desire to hear the particulars of his premonition. He readily consented to relate them, and I listened with thrilling interest to the following most remarkable narration:

"It was," said Mr. Rolyat, "some time in the year 1786 that I emigrated to Kentucky, which was at that time a frontier County of the State of Virginia. I was then quite a young man, and by profession a practical surveyor. I found at once
