THE TURKS OF THE PRESENT DAY.
The Constantinople correspondent of the Chronicle gives the following description of the capital, and of the manners and customs of the modern Turks.

Burnt Wood.
An Englishman, Sir Wm. Barker, has invented a new process for the preparation of wood so as to enable it to resist decay.

THE QUEEN'S DAUGHTER.
The same evening Dolores was installed at the palace of La Granja, Antonio, alleging business as a pretext for not accompanying her, had embraced her affectionately, promising to return.
