THE SAILOR BOY'S GRAVE.

Bright, bright where the sailor boy's dreams in life's morning,
When hope with its fairy forms gilded the way,
And a thousand sweet visions of happiness dawning,
Were spreading their shadows throughout the [illegible]

Quick, quick beat his heart at the buoyants bark's motion,
For his childhood's first dream—his first love—
Where the foam-crested waves of the wide spreading ocean,
With the sun and the sea-bird above.

Soon, soon were his hopes and his fairy dreams banish'd,
Not long did they gladden his sight;
For he sickened, and quickly the light of life vanish'd
Till it wan'd into death's gloomy night.
They buried him then in the shroud they had made him,
'Neath his childhood's first dream—his first love—
And sea-shells are scattered around where they laid him,
With the sun and the sea-bird above.

No flowers in beauty, no stone tells his story;
No dirge, save the wind and the wave;
No tablet of fame, and no emblem of glory,
Are found near the sailor-boy's grave.
Yet his head rests in peace on his coral rock pillow,
'Neath his childhood's first dream—his first love—
And the sun, and the sea-bird, and foam-crested billow,
All sparkle in splendour above.

THE BRIGHT LITTLE GIRL.

BY RAE BROWN.

Her blue eyes they beam and they twinkle,
Her lips have made smiling more fair;
On cheek and on brow there's no wrinkle,
But thousands of curls in her hair.

She's little—you don't wish her taller;
Just half through the teens in her age;
And baby or lady to call her,
Were something to puzzle a sage!

Her walk is far better than dancing;
She speaks as another might sing;
And all by innocent chancing,
Like lambkins and birds in the spring.

Unskil'd in the airs of the city,
She's perfect in natural grace,
She's gentle and truthful, and witty,
And ne'er spends a thought on her face.

Her face, with the fine glow that's in it,
As fresh as an apple-tree bloom—
And O! when she come in a minute,
Like sunbeams she brightens the room.

As taking in mind as in feature,
How many will sigh for her sake!
I wonder, the sweet little creature,
What sort of a wife she would make.

VARIETY.

The Desert of Sahara.—The Sahara is by no means the monotonous sea of sand which we commonly figure to ourselves. Its surface is varied by many natural features but none of sufficient magnitude to constitute distant districts. "The desert is habitable flafi, or unhabitable, khala; bushy, haisha, or wooded, ghaba; stony, serir, or covered with enormous rocks, warr. If it forms an elevated plateau, it is called djebel, in opposition to the maritime plain, sahel." But everywhere it has the same climate, the same absence of rain, the same fierce vicissitudes of heat and cold, the same fearful simoon, or khamsin, rendering life scarcely supportable in the spring, until the violet etesians from the Mediterranean drive it back in summer and autumn, refreshing the desert with their cold, but powerless to bring with them their moisture, which remains precipitated on the summits of the Atlas.

The population is of course ground in the "oases," around the scanty springs of water which here and there come to the surface. What reservoirs supply these slender and yet never-failing sources, in a region with a surface nearly as large as Europe, no moisture whatever falls in ordinary seasons! The question is a curious one.—Richardson is the only traveller (so far as we remember) who refers it to the extraordinary deluge of rain which falls in particular spots, at intervals often of nine or ten seasons. He mentions one case where such a phenomena followed fifty rainless years, and which he conceives was sufficient to store the subterranean receptacles for the wants of another similar period.

The toils and dangers of Sahara travelling and the strange phenomena of the desert, are familiar to us from many well-known narratives. A French author affects greatly to depreciate them, and to attribute much of the popular notions on this subject to the imagination of travellers.

The other day the conductor of a train on the New York, Railroad, discovered an Irishman in a car soon after starting, for Rome, and demanded his fare. Pat declared that he had no money. The conductor, after lecturing him, told him to leave at the first stopping place, not far distant. Accordingly Pat was one of the first to get off at the next station. But judge of the conductor's surprise and wrath, to find him aboard when fairly underway. "Did I not tell you to get off?" "And sure, I did." "Why, then, are you here again?" "And sure did'nt you say "all aboard."

EPITAPH FOR AN INFANT.

The sweetest buds are those that die in Spring!
They touch the world with beauty and are gone
Ere ruder breaths than those of God have touched
Their gentle hearts and scattered their perfume!
Ye unseen fingers of delicious air!
Sprinkle the blossoms of this sunny May
Upon a little new-made grave that holds
A broken blossom, sweeter than them all!

—T. B. A., author of "The Bells."

Ripe Tomatoe Pickles.—Select handsome sized tomatoes, wash them and prick them with a fork, lay them in dry salt 24 hours, then soak them in equal quantities of vinegar and water 24 hours; take them out and lay them down in a crock with sliced onions, first a layer of tomatoes, and then onions with cinnamon, cloves, and brown sugar, and then cover the whole with good cider vinegar.

'Now children,' said a schoolmaster, 'remember what I have told you. All the misery that afflicts the world, arose from the fact that Eve stole an apple and divided it with Adam.' 'What a pity it hadn't been our Sal,' exclaimed an urchin. 'She's such a stingy critter, that whenever she steals an apple, she eats the whole of it herself.'

Printers.—Lord Stanhope was a printer! Franklin was a Printer! Beranger the great French poet, was a printer! Thiers the great French historian, was a printer!

———"If a brilliant star
Were stricken from the dome of night,
A Printer's Press if planted there
Would fill the vacum to a hair,
And give perhaps, a better light."

An Apt Simile.—A Roman Catholic priest some time since, in Germany, on entering the pulpit took a walnut into it. He told the congregation that the shell was tasteless and valueless—that was Calvin's Church; the skin was nauseous, disagreeable and worthless—that was the Lutheran Church. He then said he would show them the holy Roman Apostolic church—he cracked the nut and found it rotten.

"Do you think I'll get justice done me?" said a culprit to his counsel.

"I don't think you will," replied the other, "for I see two men in the jury who are opposed to hanging."

There is a tree in South America whose fruit resembles roast beef in taste; the butter tree grows in Africa; and the bread tree is to be found in the South Sea Islands. A person once observed that if they could be grafted one to another, a sandwich tree might be produced.

FRIEND OF THE CANADIAN! HOLLOWAY'S PILLS.

EXTRAORDINARY CURE FOR ASTHMA!!

OF AN OLD LADY SEVENTY FIVE YEARS OF AGE.

Copy of a Letter from Mr. Thomas Weston, (Book Store,) Toronto, dated the 9th October, 1854.

To Professor Holloway, [illegible] you the extraordinary benefit an aged parent has derived from the use of your Pills. My mother was afflicted for upwards of four and twenty years with asthma and spitting of blood, it was quite agony to see her suffer and hear her cough; I have often declared that I would give all I possessed to have cured her; but although I paid a large sum for medicine and advice, it was all to no purpose. About three months ago, I thought perhaps your Pills might benefit her, at all events I resolved to give them a trial, which I did; the result was marvellous; by slow degrees my mother became better, and after preserving your remedies for nine weeks, she was perfectly cured, and now enjoys the best of health, although seventy five years old.

I remain, Sir, your obliged,
(Signed) THOMAS WESTON.

REMARKABLE CURE OF DROPSY!!

AFTER BEING TAPPED THREE TIMES.

Copy of a Letter from Anthony Smith, Esq. Halifax, Nova Scotia, dated 26th August, 1854.

To Professor Holloway,

Sir,—I desire to add my testimony to the value of your Pills, in cases of dropsy. For nine months I suffered the greatest torture with this distressing complaint; was tapped three times, and finally given up by the doctors; having become in appearance as a skeleton, and with no more strength in me than a child just born. It was then that I thought of trying your Pills, and immediately went for a quantity, and commenced using them. The result I can scarcely credit even now, although true it is. After using them for four weeks, I felt much better, and by persevering with them, at the expiration of two months, I was completely cured. I have since enjoyed the best of health.

I am, Sir, yours sincerely,
(Signed) ANTHONY SMITH.

ASTONISHING CURE OF GENERAL DEBILITY AND LIVER COMPLAINT.

Copy of a Letter from James Reeves, of Charlottetown, Prince Edwards Island, dated 17th Nov. 1854.

To Professor Holloway,

Sir,—I am happy to say that your Pills have restored me to health after suffering for nine years from the most intense general debility and languor, my liver and bowels were also much deranged for the whole of that time. I tried many medicines, but they were no good to me, until I had recourse to your Pills, by taking which and following the printed directions for seven weeks I was cured, after every other means failed to the astonishment of my neighbours, acquaintances and friends. I shall ever feel grateful to you for this astonishing restoration to health, and will recommend your Pills to all sufferers, feeling it my duty to do so.

I remain Sir, your humble servant,
(Signed) WILLIAM REEVES.
