Poetry.

[FOR THE CHRONICLE.]

ON THE DEATH OF LORD RAGLAN.

Peace to his soul, a giant mind
[illegible]
That eagle eye, that proudly gleamed
O'er warriors stern, is closed and cold.
No more the Clarion Bugle's call
Shall summon him to Battle Field,
No more the Banner proudly float
O'er him whom Death hath made to yield.
The Hero of a hundred fights
No more shall hear the glad applause,
But memory while it holds a seat,
Shall tell who fell in Freedom's cause.
And Raglan's name in British hearts
Is graven deep and will remain
While England's History has a page,
Or Freedom on the earth shall reign.
In foreign lands he sunk to rest,
And loyal hands have strewn his Bier,
The muffled drum, and martial strain,
Bespeak the tribute of a tear.
The roughest soldier of that host
"Reverses Arms," and sternly stands;
His bosom sending forth a sigh
For him, who gives no more commands.
And Albion's Queen sincerely grieves,
And meekly drops her jewel'd head,
But fervently puts up a prayer
In reverence, for her Hero dead.
The sculptur'd urn shall speak his fame,
And unborn millions read with pride,
How great, how good, was Raglan's name
How brave he fought, how calm he died.

BE KIND TO THE WIDOW AND ORPHAN.

BY MRS. SARAH T. BOLTON.

Be kind to the widow—her hopes are crushed,
The light of her spirit is flown,
The dear voice that ever consoled her is hushed,
Her pathway is dreamy and lone.

Be kind to the widow—the rainbow that cast,
Its beautiful hues on life's stream,
Has vanished away, and the joys of the past
Are nothing to her but a dream.

Be kind to the widow, for sorrows and fears,
Have stolen the light from her brow,
Her cheeks once so lovely are faded with tears,
Her heart is all desolate now.

Be kind to the widow who toils through long hours
Alone by her cheerless hearth,
Whilst others are wreathing gay garlands of flowers
And winging the moments with mirth.

Be kind to the orphan, and teach him to meet,
With firmness the storms he must brave—
The heart that to his, once responsively beat,
Sleeps now in the night of the grave.

Be kind to the orphan—he cannot forget
The dear ones who loved him of yore,
And far from the home and the hearth where they met,
He weeps that they meet never more.

Be kind to the orphan, for many a lure,
Will tempt him to wander astray;
O! teach him that virtue alone will endure
When life with this dream fades away.

Be kind to the orphan, the lone one apart,
Bowed down by the chastening rod—
O! guide his young footsteps, and teach his young heart,
To trust in the promise of God.

VARIETY.

Miss Leslie on Slang.—"There is no wit," says the author of the behavior book, "in a lady to speak of taking a 'snooze' instead of a nap—in saying of a man whose dress is getting old that he looks 'seedy'—or in alluding to a diverting incident, to say that it is 'rich.' All slang words are detestable from the lips of ladies. We have little tolerance for young ladies who having neither wit nor humor set up for both, and having nothing of the right stock to go upon, substitute coarseness and impertinence, not to say impudence, and try to excite laughter and attract the gentlemen by talking slang. Where do they get it? From low newspapers or vulgar books? Surely not from low companions. We have heard one of these ladies when her colar chanced to be pinned wrong, say that it was put on drunk—also that her bonnet was drunk when it crooked upon her head. When disconcerted she was 'floored.' Sometimes she 'did things on the sly.' She talked of a certain great vocalist 'singing like a beast.' She believed it smart to use these vile expressions. It is true, when at parties she always had half a dozen gentlemen about her; their curiosity being excited to know what she would say next. And yet she was a woman of many good qualities, and who boasted of having always 'lived in society.'"

The Heart.—A modern writer thus beautifully treats of that "harp of a thousand strings," the human heart.

What an odd thing experience is! now turning over so rapidly the book of life, now writing so much on a single leaf. We hear of the head turning grey in a single night—the same change passes over the heart. Affection is the tyrant of a woman, and only bids her to the banquet to suspend a cutting sword over her head, which a word, a look, may call down to inflict the wound that strikes to the death, or heals but with a scar. Could we fling back the veil which nature and society alike draw over her feelings, how much of sorrow—unexpected because unexpressed—would be found! how many a young and beating heart would show disappointment graven on the inmost core! what a history of vain hopes, gentle endeavors, and anxieties and mortifications, laid bare! There is one phrase continually occurring in conversation—"O, a woman never marries the man to whom she was first attached!" How often—how lightly is this said! how little thought given to the world of suffering it involves! Checked by circumstances—abandoned from necessity, the early enthusiasm which youth brings, but leaves not."

Object of Salt in the Sea.—Professor Chapman, University College, Toronto, has published an interesting paper on the object of sea water being salt, and after giving his objections to the usually received opinions, he urges the theory that the object is to regulate evaporation. If any temporary cause renders the amount the saline matter in the sea above its normal value, evaporation goes on more and more slowly. If this value be depreciated by the addition of fresh water in undue excess, the evaporating power is the more and more increased. He gives the results of various experiments in reference to evaporation on weighed quantities of ordinary rain water, and water holding in solution 26 per cent. of salt. The excess of loss of the rain water compared with the salt solution was, the first twenty-four hours, 0,04 per cent; at the close of forty-eight hours, 0,16 per cent., so on in increasing ratio.

The heat at Adelaide, South Australia, was recently so intense for seven days that apples were actually roasted on the trees by the fierce rays of the sun, as perfectly as though they had been in a furnace.

The Subscriber having been appointed Agent to the above Company for New-Brunswick, begs to announce that he is prepared to receive Proposals for FIRE AND LIFE ASSURANCE. The large Capital of the Company, and the number and influence of its Proprietors, enable it to rank with the most eligible Offices, either in America or Europe, with respect to the advantages offered to the Public.

FIRE BRANCH.

Persons Assured by this Company are not subject to any covenants or calls to make good losses which may happen to themselves or others, nor do they depend on any uncertain fund or contribution, the Capital Stock of this Company being an unquestionable security to the Assured in case of Loss or Damage by Fire.

LIFE BRANCH.

In addition to the more customary methods of Insurance, the Company likewise Assures Lives on any of the following contingencies:—

For the terms of One Year, Seven Years, or any other definite period.

For the whole continuance of Life.—The Premiums to cease, after a limited number of Annual Payments.

For Two Joint Lives.—The sum assured to be paid on the death of either.

On the longest of Two or Three Lives.—The sum assured to be payable at the death of the last survivor; or,

The Survivorships.—To secure the payment of the sum assured, if a life A die before another life B.

For a sum to be payable at age 60, or at death.

Premiums on Credit.—A portion of the Premium on Credit. Assurances may be effected in various ways, not enumerated, to meet the convenience of parties.

The important advantages afforded by the Company in the Life Branch will include the following, viz:—

The Guarantee of an ample Capital, and Exemption of the Assured from liability of Partnership.

Moderate Premiums.

Large Participation of Profits by the Assured amounting to Two-thirds of its net amount, which may be applied at the option of the party effecting the Assurance:—1st. By the immediate payment of the sum so apportioned.—2nd. By an equivalent increase of the sum assured.

Small Charge for Management.—The expenses of the Office being borne in due proportion by the two Branches.

Prompt Settlement of Claims.

Policies lapsed by non-payment of the Premium may be renewed within three months, by paying the premium, with a fine of 10s. per cent., on the production of evidence to the satisfaction of the Directors of the good health of the life assured.

The Company will always be prepared to Purchase the Policies of this Office at their equitable value or will grant a New Policy in lieu thereof without any further payment of Premium, for a sum to be agreed on.

Extra Premiums, suitable to special circumstances, will be accepted to enable a party possessing a Policy on the life of another to guard against the possibility of its being vitiated by the Life departing beyond limits, or by any other cause.

Thirty Days are allowed for the Payment of Premiums after the day on which they respectively [illegible]

Additional Advantages offered to Lives Assured with this Company at St. John, N. B.

I.—RESIDENCE.—Persons assured for the whole term of life will have permission, without the payment of extra Premium, to reside in any part of Europe, or in any place in North America to the north of 38 degrees of North Latitude, but not to the westward of the Mississippi River.

II.—VOYAGES.—They will also, if not seafaring by profession, be allowed, without any extra charge—

To cross and re-cross the Atlantic Ocean, in steamers or first class sailing-vessels;

To pass from any part of Europe to any other, or from any part of North America to another, within the limits above specified; also,

To pass to and from, but not to reside in any place which shall not be further south than 33 degrees of North Latitude, but not to the westward of the Mississippi River.

ASTONISHING CURE OF GENERAL DEBILITY AND LIVER COMPLAINT.

Copy of a Letter from James Reeves, of Charlotte Town, Prince Edward's Island, dated 17th Nov. 1854.

To Professor Holloway.

Sir,—I am happy to say that your Pills have restored me to health after suffering for nine years from the most intense general debility and languor, my liver and bowels were also much deranged for the whole of that time. I tried many medicines, but they were no good to me, until I had recourse to your Pills, by taking which and following the printed directions for seven weeks I was cured, after every other means failed to the astonishment of my neighbours, acquaintances and friends. I shall ever feel grateful to you for this astonishing restoration to health, and will recommend your Pills to all sufferers, feeling it my duty to do so.

I remain, Sir, your humble servant,

The improved land is under good cedar fence, and an excellent pasturage. There is on the Farm a large quantity of white and grey Oak Timber, and also a good chance for cordwood; there is also an excellent privilege for fishing, and in what is called the Key-Hole, there is a good situation for a steam Saw-Mill or Ship-Yard. There is a Church, Meeting House, School House, and Steam Flour Mill, all within half a mile, and a good road passing through the Farm. The Property is so situated that it would make two farms. It will be disposed of on liberal terms. For further particulars apply to the subscriber on the premises.
