PIE-EATING FOR ODD REASONS.

(Youth's Companion.)
School teachers sometimes ask their pupils queer questions, if one may believe a story told by the youngest member of the Withington family. His mother one morning discovered a shortage in her supply of pies, baked the day before, and her suspicions fell upon Johnny.

"Johnny," she said, "do you know what became of that cherry pie that was on the second shelf in the pantry?"

"Yes, ma'am," he replied, "I ate it. But I had to."

"You had to?" exclaimed his astonished mother, "What do you mean, child?"

"The teacher asked yesterday if any of us could tell her how many stones there are in a cherry pie, and I couldn't find out without eating the whole pie, could I? There's just a hundred and forty-two."

NOT A PLEASANT REPLY.

(London Tit-Bits.)
Some time ago a man presented himself before the Liverpool magistrates with the following tale:

"My name is Patrick O'Connor, and I live at — street, and I keeps hens in my cellar, but the water pipes is burst, and my hens are all drowned."

"Well, my good man, we can do nothing for you; you had better apply to the water company," was all the advice he got.

A few days later the same man appeared with precisely the same tale.

"You were here a few days ago, and we advised you to go to the water company. Did you do so?"

"I did, yer honors."

"And what did they say to you?"

"They told me to kape ducks!"

PLUCKY OLD MAN.

George Dimmock of Salt Lake City, is distinguished in part by the fact that although he is seventy-nine years old, he is yet single, is poor, merry and free, and believes that he is as good physically and mentally as any man on earth.

The venerable Dimmock, whose face is as an open book, is out with an odd challenge, which, epitomized, is as follows:

He is willing to enter into a contest with any white Christian in the United States, England, Ireland, Scotland or Wales, to run, walk, sing or talk for two hours, or to run and walk one hour and talk for another hour.

Mr. Dimmock has the confidence of his fellow-citizens, and if a match is arranged will have plenty of pecuniary backing.

The officers are: President, John R. Gould of Augusta; treasurer, W. G. Boothby of Augusta.

A GOLF STORY.

Introducing the Woman Who Was Not Athletic.

There was once a woman who wore high heeled shoes and a tight corset. Both these are highly injurious and inartistic to the last degree. One day she went out to the links with a sensible friend who wore a sweater and man-fashioned shoes. There they met two men playing golf.

"I fear I shall only be in your way," said the woman who was not athletic. I cannot play the game at all. I do not know a caddy from a bunker, nor a foursome from a tee."

"Not at all. I will describe the game to you," said the men.

"Oh, thank you, but one will be quite enough," she replied, and she selected the best looking and the other went out after the sensible friend.

"May I carry your parasol?" said he when they had started.

"If you will be so good," she answered, "It is very foolish, I know, but my skin is so absurdly thin, and the sun blisters it so."

The sensible friend came up just behind, and mopping her face, she said, "You are too ridiculous. A rose-colored parasol on the links! You are keeping him from playing, too. He will get out of practice."

"Oh, I hope not," said the woman who was not athletic.

"Do not be alarmed," said the man, "It is all right."

"Moreover, I saw him help you over a fence," said the sensible friend, as she waded through a muddy brook.

"That game is out of date," said the woman who was not athletic.

"I am spolling everything," she said softly. "Let me go home, and then you can play."

"But then you could not learn the game," said he, sitting down under a kind of artificial watershed and watching the rose-colored reflection of her parasol.

"Is this a bunker?" she asked.

"Yes," he replied; "its purpose is to shield people who wish to be alone from observation."

"Oh!" said she. "Then what is a hazard?"

"Well," he replied, "This is sometimes called a hazard, too, because there is a chance that some one may come by after all."

"Oh!" said she. "Then over that wall behind that big rock is one of the best bunkers on the links isn't it?"

"It is, indeed," he replied. "You pick up the game very rapidly, come over here, and I will explain it further to you."

"You are so good," she said, as he lifted her over the wall.

"Not at all," he replied politely. Some time afterward the sensible friend, who was engaged in wallowing through some underbrush and falling into a world in search of her ball, passed by them on the return course, and seeing them seated against the wall, noted their somewhat unoriginal attitudes. She was surprised.

This teaches us that you need not teach an old dog new tricks.—From "Fishes of the Fair," by Josephine Dodge Daskam.

A "ROAST" FOR TORONTO.

(Ottawa Citizen.) Toronto is looking for an appropriate name for its new hotel. The Hamilton Spectator suggests "The Pig and Whistle," but that has been rejected as too coarse. "The Pig City," from another source, was obviously indelicate and aroused the sensitive resentment of the populace. We rather think the Gadarene would look nice outlined in electric lights against a dusky sky, besides embodying a genteel reference to local characteristics.
