MR. TARTE'S FRIENDS.

The Montreal Witness has given offence to Mr. Bourassa. It has advocated the sending of a third Canadian contingent to South Africa. Les Debats, a violently anti-British Sunday paper, published in Montreal, and which is said to express the views of Mr. Bourassa, has attacked the Witness and declared that Canada has neither men nor money to fight women and children, plunder towns and burn farms. The same paper calls on the French-Canadians to withhold their money from Father Lacombe, the Northwest missionary because English is taught in the schools in the west. In fact it is stated that Les Debats and Le Pioneer continue week after week to publish articles intended to inflame the prejudices of French-Canadians against England and English-speaking Canadians. This is a kind of Sunday work that may well attract the attention of more than the members of the League of Day Alliance in this British colony.

TIRED OF FREE TRADE.

The London Times advocates the re-implication of a duty on wheat. It also published in an issue a letter from Sir Bernhard Samuelson, an old liberal and free trader, who advocates a tariff for revenue. He suggests a general duty of ten per cent on imported manufactures, and 71-2 per cent on articles of food and drink which are now exempt from taxation, while raw materials should be left untouched.

"No doubt," says the Times, "under arrangements of this kind it would be easier to make compact and concessions in dealing with the colonies and foreign countries, and the reasons in favor of such a system are greatly strengthened by the development in modern policy of trusts, which possess the power of flooding the British market for a time at least, with goods which are sold below cost price in order to cheapen production and maintain remunerative trade in their home markets."

HON. MR. POSTER SPEAKS.

The following observations made by Hon. Geo. E. Foster at a political meeting in Ontario last Saturday will be read with interest by the forgers of the Rothesay lists:

"You are not free in this province," said Mr. Foster. "If a man attempting to enter the polling booth and deposit his ballot in the interests of the country were met by a bludgeon or an armed soldier, there would be a revolution. Does it matter whether it is an armed soldier sent by the government to do it, or whether it is the means and methods of the machine, put on at the instance of the government and carried out by the government which fairly defeats the will of the elector? Does it make any difference? If you met the soldier you would see the gleam of the bayonet and hear the sound of the bullet, but it is the silly, insidious, secret mechanism you do not see, and if you are a partisan you will not believe it if it is told you. You don't see it and you don't rise in revolution. There is a wrong to be made right in this country of ours. (Cheers.) I don't care whether it is the employer who puts force on his employee or the dealer with his insidious temptations of pelf or money, or the thief who steals the ballot, or the incendiary who burns it. The one is just as bad as the other."

THE POPE AND HALL CAINE.

The delay of Pope Leo XIII. to put Hall Caine's novel, "The Eternal City," upon the Index Expurgatorius is thus commented upon by a writer in the New York Times:—Pope Leo XIII. evidently has no intention of placing "The Eternal City" upon the Index Expurgatorius. Several conclusions may be drawn from this fact. In a recent edict of the Vatican the Holy Father expressed the wish "to soften the severity of the ancient rules heretofore governing the Congregation of the Index." This may have saved Mr. Caine's novel from becoming notorious among Catholic readers. Or, it may be that the Pope, who of late years has become an eager student of the philosophy of fame, has come to the conclusion that the prohibition upon which the "Index" was founded nowadays works contrary to intention, and that the aforesaid congregation has it within its power to arouse curiosity in quarters which otherwise might never hear of the novel.

A plan to spread knowledge in the Southern States is being discussed in New York city. The central idea of the scheme, says a recent letter, is that energetic efforts shall be instituted in the South at once for the spread of educational propaganda among the people of that section. The purpose will be to interest the Southern people of the minds of those not possessing it a zeal for knowledge. To accomplish this to be circulated, and missionary work of a progressive character is to be undertaken. In carrying out the designs of this new organization it is planned to expend the sum of $40,000 annually for two years.

CHINESE-GOING ON THE WANE.

Poster Declares That Multitudes Spend Sunday in Recreation.

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—Rev. Dr. Rainford, in the year book of St. George's church, says: "There is a steady though slow falling away in the attendance of our Sunday evening congregations." This lowering of interest in Sunday services Dr. Rainford traces to a general change in Sunday observance, of which he writes: "Multitudes of men—good men and good citizens—who used to come to church more or less regularly, now spend Sunday in outdoor recreation of one sort or another. There has been a lamentable increase of social entertainment on Sunday, and this among a class that have absolutely no excuse for making this misuse of the Lord's day, for they have plenty of leisure the other six days of the week to entertain as much as they choose. By using the seventh day for such purposes, they overlook their servants and they add to the strain and stress of life. They generally neglect their children, if they have any, and, consciously or unconsciously, they take away somewhat from the repose and quiet of the day—a repose and quiet that are more needed by our best generations than ever before."

To meet these unfavorable conditions Dr. Rainford urges improvement in church organization and the employment of every possible means to reach the young and hold them.

KNOCKED OUT BY LANKY BOB.

Jack McAuliffe, Loser of Impromptu Battle Fought With "Fitz."

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—Lanky "Bob" Fitzsimmons and "Jack" McAuliffe fought to a finish Tuesday night in the billiard room at Supper's hotel in Bath Beach. The fight was not advertised, and there were neither gloves nor gate receipts. McAuliffe was put to sleep in the first round, which lasted about 90 seconds.

The trouble began, it is said, during a game of pool. McAuliffe, it is said, was railing at Fitzsimmons, and among other things told him he could not remember the year he landed at Caven Garden. Fitzsimmons lost his temper and retorted by telling McAuliffe that he could not whip one side of a yellow dog and that he was the cheapest kind of a "hooking game fighter." This was too much for McAuliffe, who delivered a right swing with his billiard cue. Fitz got in an uppercut with a beer bottle, which happened to be within reach, and which proved to be a most effective weapon at short range. McAuliffe is still under a physician's care.

THE J. B. VANDUSEN LOST.

The schooner J. B. Vandusen was wrecked and sunk off Cape Cod on Monday. Her crew were taken off by the schooner Ann Laurie Lockwood. The J. B. Vandusen attained considerable notoriety two years ago in connection with the murder of her master, Captain George A. Baisley by Elmer Maxwell, of Sackville, one of the crew. The murder took place in the Bay of Fundy, while the vessel was on a passage from St. John, N. B., to Boston, November 11, 1899. Maxwell was arrested a few days afterwards and brought to this city. The following May he was tried in the United States circuit court and convicted on the charge of manslaughter. He was sentenced May 19, 1900, to eight years in the state prison at Thomaston and fined $1. Maxwell set up a plea of self-defense, which was not accepted by the court. He was taken to Thomaston on the day that the sentence was imposed.

SCHOONERS IN TROUBLE.

The woodboat Comrade, owned by C. T. White and commanded by Fred. Tuttle, was Wednesday night driven against a breakwater, and somewhat disabled. She drifted in the mouth of the harbor, where she now lies in a perilous position. The Comrade is loaded with lumber from Apple River for St. John.

The schooner Annie E. Rickerson, which arrived here on Wednesday, struck on Gull Rock bar, near Westport, Tuesday morning, and was abandoned. She was rescued by Capt. Colin Thompson, who with a crew of Westport men, brought her to St. John. She was yesterday put on the blocks. Capt. Thompson arranged with the captain of the vessel to take the Rickerson to a place of safety for $500, and this is the claim he makes for bringing her here.

DEATH OF MAJOR ANDERSON.

CALAIS, Nov. 13.—Major Orrin H. Anderson, who was well known in this city and in Milltown where he formerly resided, died at an early hour Wednesday morning at his home in Red Beach at the ripe age of 79 years. Major Anderson was born in the province of New Brunswick, but came to Maine at an early age, taking up his residence in Calais or Milltown, in the year 1831 when the Civil war was begun and Maine was called upon for volunteers for the defence of the union. Orrin H. Anderson was among those who responded and he was assigned to Company A, First Maine Light Artillery. In July, 1865, he was honorably discharged after a continuous service of nearly four years, and again took up his residence in Milltown, engaging in the occupation of wheelwright.

REV. J. W. FALCONER.

Of Rev. J. W. Falconer, of Truro, who has been called to Fort Massey church, Halifax, the Recorder says:—"Rev. J. W. Falconer is well known as a brilliant preacher, a faithful pastor, and a young man who has already reached a high position in the councils of the church by reason of his acknowledged scholarly attainments. He has travelled quite extensively, and pursued his arts and theological training in the country, Edinburgh and Germany. He has been a settled pastor now for some eight or nine years. Rev. Professor Falconer, of the Presbyterian college Halifax, is a brother, their father being Rev. A. Falconer, of Pictou, and formerly of Halifax and Dartmouth."

REV. W. O. RAYMOND'S LECTURE

On Early English Settlements in New Brunswick.

The period covered by Rev. W. O. Raymond's fourth lecture in the New Brunswick history course began at the end of the French regime and ended with the close of the revolutionary war. Mr. Raymond dealt principally with the colonies on the St. John river and at its mouth, though he made brief reference to the trading operations on the Miramichi, the Swansco colony at Sackville, the German settlement at Chapeau, and Owens edifice at Campbellville. The greater part of the lecture was devoted to an account of the life and times of Messrs. Simonds, Hazen and White, early traders and settlers at Fortland Point. Those who have read Mr. Raymond's interesting papers in the early numbers of the New Brunswick Magazine will have a fair idea of the operations which he described in his interesting talk last evening.

Dr. Alward presided and the attendance was even larger than on previous evenings. It was announced that the remaining lectures of the course would be postponed for a time, as circumstances have arisen which may for the present interfere with Mr. Raymond's regular engagements.

COURT LOYALIST ANNIVERSARY.

The eighteenth anniversary of Court Loyalist, I. O. E., one of the largest and most active courts in the jurisdiction, was celebrated in royal style last evening by a hearty supper of officers and other stands served in their rooms after the regular meeting. Court Deputy W. J. S. Myles presided, and after an opening address by E. T. Chapman, H. C. E., gave a brief historical sketch of the court, after which Dr. Grey gave an interesting account of its foundation. During the evening brief addresses were given by Bros. Thomas McSweeney, D. Oram, Frank Siddons, Samuel Thorne, James Andrews and others. A number of copies added to the enjoyment of the evening, among the contributors being Bro. W. J. Cox and J. Kemp.

RAMBLES THROUGH LONDON.

Before a large audience in the vestry of German street Baptist church, last evening, a lecture on Rambles through London was given by Mrs. S. McC. Black. The address consisted of a series of graphic descriptions of the varied scenes of natural and historic interest in the world's metropolis, as viewed by Mrs. Black during her trip abroad last summer. Her descriptions, cleverly given, were enlivened by numerous anecdotes from the speaker's experiences, and were illustrated by lime light views exhibited by Mr. Farron. The whole lecture was one of intense interest, and was heard with eager attention throughout.

NO POLITICIAN NEED APPLY.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—President Roosevelt Thursday announced that in making civil appointments in the insular possessions of the United States he would adhere to the principles of the civil service. He declared this policy to Clinton Rodgers Woodruff, of Philadelphia, of the National Civil Service Reform league. Mr. Woodruff is chairman of the committee on dependencies and called to ascertain what the president's policy would be. President Roosevelt told him in the most emphatic manner that absolutely no appointments in the insular possessions would be dictated or controlled by political considerations.

SIBILLA.

Sibilla attracted the largest audience of the week to the Opera House last night. Aside from the popularity of the play, the fact that the members of the Neptune Rowing Club were to attend added greatly to the attractiveness of the evening's performance. The performance went with a splendid snap and go that was more lively and up-to-date than any since the opening. In the fourth act the Neptune Rowing Club boys presented Mr. Averill with a banner. Mr. Ritchie marched to the footlights with the shield, which was worn in the club's colors, their crest in the centre, and elaborately decorated.

CITY CORNET BAND FAIR.

The City Cornet Band fair attracted a much larger audience last evening than has been present any evening since the opening. The principal attraction, however, was the steamboat, which has been a big money winner. The management, however, are not perfectly satisfied with the business, and it is quite possible that they may close the fair tonight. They seem to think that the "smallpox" has killed their business. It is very certain that the attendance is not what it should be.

PORTLANDS STEAMSHIP BUSINESS.

(Portland Press.)
The information was given out yesterday that the Thomson line which has been scheduled for one boat a week from Portland during this winter would run only one steamship every two weeks. This change is due to the lack of freight and the very low rates for carrying and will mean the loss of considerable work at this port from now until next spring. This decrease is not a discrimination against the city as low rates and small freights are at present the rule all over the country.

Don't forget that it is time to send in your Union Blend Tea keys.
