PRESBYTERIAN GARDEN PARTY.

The Mission Band of the Fairville Presbyterian church held a successful garden party on the church grounds last evening. There were games of interest to hundreds of people observing her on piers, pleasure boats and passing ferry boats, a cloud of steam suddenly burst from a point just forward of the smokstack, out of which the spectators were horrified to see bodies and human fragments hurled high in the air and scattered over the surrounding water.

ROAR AS OF THUNDER. The outburst was accompanied by a roar as of thunder and a shock that rocked vessels near by. In an instant the air was filled with shrieks of pain from the wounded, which could be heard ashore, and with flying fragments of human beings and pieces of the ship's superstructure. The next moment bleeding sailors were fighting, crippled in the water, against deafening waves, and a few had been picked up and taken on board.

A HORRIBLE SIGHT. Most horrible sight met those who approached. In the water men with bloodied faces were struggling, hand-capped by injuries; others on deck covered with blood and grim, some dead, some wounded frightfully, others fighting to rescue comrades who were yet below.

Round 9—Sullivan came up fresh and began bringing in the fight to Britt. He put a hard right to Britt's jaw and sent his head back. Britt returned the courtesy in kind. Sullivan got Britt on the ropes and swung his right, but missed. An exchange of right swings ended the round.

40 KILLED AND 100 HURT IN U. S. WARSHIP EXPLOSION.

Boiler on American Gunboat Blew Up With Awful Results—Everybody on Board More or Less Injured.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., July 21.—One officer and 29 members of the crew of the U. S. gunboat Bennington were killed, and nearly 100 sailors were injured, by the explosion of a boiler on the ship, which occurred at 10 o'clock this morning. The explosion, which disabled the warship in San Diego harbor. Fifteen sailors are missing. There were more than 250 men aboard when the accident occurred, and many were hurried or forced to jump into the sea by the terrific explosion, which lifted part of the deck and compelled the beaching of the ship.

STEAM WAS UP. Steam was up and everything was in readiness for the departure of the Bennington when the starboard forward boiler exploded with a deafening roar. The explosion was terrific. People standing on shore saw a huge cloud of steam rise above the Bennington. Columns of water were forced high in the air. A dozen or more men were blown overboard by the force of the blast. Captain Westworth, who was looking at the Bennington when the disaster occurred, says he saw human bodies hurled over 100 feet upwards. The air was clouded with vapor, which enveloped the ship. When the haze cleared away only a few men could be seen on the decks, while a number were foundering in the water. A boat was lowered from the vessel's side and most of the men in the water were picked up and taken on board.

On board the Bennington were presented terrible scenes. The force of the explosion had torn a great hole in the starboard side of the ship and the vessel was already commencing to list. A section of the upper deck was carried away from stem to stern. Blood and wreckage were strewn over the entire ship, after cabin and that part of the ship adjacent to the exploded boiler resembling a charnal house.

ATTENDING THE WOUNDED. Within a short time a score of physicians were attending the wounded. Most of the dead and injured were taken ashore, where the undertakers and physicians were assembled. The bodies of many of the men taken from the wrecked interior of the ship were mutilated almost beyond recognition. The faces of many were covered with blood and ashes. Some bodies may never be identified. Temporary quarters ashore were arranged.

George Garrett, in company with three other men, was bringing a row boat down from Indiantown yesterday, when they met a tug taking a small raft of logs through the straits. They seized the chance for a tow, and passed the bridges safely, but when just at the big eddy at the rock they saw a schooner close upon them. The rowboat turned over and filled. The rowboat turned over and filled. The rowboat turned over and filled. The rowboat turned over and filled.

FAKE MEETING IN FAIRVILLE. Handbills calling an indignation meeting of the Fairville and Lancaster ratepayers for last night in the Orange hall, been assiduously placed under the doors of the houses in that part of the town, but when the eventful time arrived last evening, it was found to be the work of a practical joker, as the hall had not been engaged by anyone. A crowd gathered and C. Taylor, Jr., opened the hall door and let them in, but as there was no one present who was indignant enough to start the meeting the crowd soon melted. All the same the crowd turning up showed there are some grounds for the handbill being circulated.

THE LUDLOW A SUCCESS. The Ludlow was given her official trial trip yesterday afternoon and there proved a great success. The boat proceeded beyond Partridge Island, down nearly to Negro Head, about six miles from the city. She was driven at about ten knots an hour. After the boat docked at Long wharf before going ashore the passengers assembled in one of the cabins and were entertained for an hour or more with brief speeches from those connected with the building of the boat.
