FRANCE AND THE HIERARCHY

The bill abolishing the provisions of Napoleon's famous Concordat, and definitely separating church and state in France, passed by the French chamber of deputies Tuesday night, is the end of one long and bitter struggle and the beginning of another.

Under the Concordat signed by Pius VII and Napoleon the Catholic church was made a part of the state, in that all church edifices were government property and the clergy were paid directly by the government.

hand, Norway has in its mountains a system of impregnable fortresses which increase its defensive capabilities five-fold and make certain that any war would be a long one.

MIDSUMMER SONG

Dawnings of lodge and amethyst eyes; Soft from the south wind with laughter of leaves;

Dapple on cheek of the apple and plum; Honey-bees droning a die-away hum;

Darling of dragon-fly, flutter of moth; Berley in windrow and wheat in the swath;

Moonlight and moonlight all glamour and gleam; Hillside and hillside a thrall to the capture the rapture before the days close!

CLINTON SCOLLARD.
