SIR HENRY MORGAN, BUCCANEER

By CYRUS TOWNSEND BRADY,

Author of "The Southerners," "For Love of Country," "The Grip of Honor," Etc.

COPYRIGHT, 1905, BY G. W. DILLINGHAM COMPANY

The news of the long wished for downfall of the tyrant had been spread abroad and formed the one topic of conversation in Port Royal and the vicinity that day. Now the work of the day was over, and, as usual, the Blue Anchor tavern was crowded with men from the frigate and other shipping in the harbor, mingling with others from the purlieus of the town. Fumes of rum and spirits pervaded the tobacco smoked barroom, which served as the main parlor of the inn. It was yet early in the evening, but the crowd, inflamed with liquor, was already in uproarious mood. Over in a corner a young Englishman was singing in a rich, deep voice a new song by a famous poet of London town:

"Let us sing and be merry, dance, joke and rejoice,
With claret and sherry, theorbo and voice!
The changeable world to our joy is unjust,
All treasure's uncertain.
Then down with your dust;
In frolics dispose your pounds, shillings and pence,
For we shall be nothing a hundred years hence.

"We'll sport and be free with Frank, Betty and Dolly,
Have lobsters and oysters to cure melancholy;
Fish dinners will make a man spring like a flea.
Dame Venus, love's lady,
Was born of the sea;
With her and with Bacchus we'll tickle the sense,
For we shall be past it a hundred years hence."

It was a popular song evidently, for the whole assembly joined in the chorus:

"In frolics dispose your pounds, shillings and pence,
For we shall be nothing a hundred years hence."

They roared it out in the deep bass voices of the sea, marking the time by hammering in unison upon the oaken tables with their pewter mugs and flagons. The sentiment seemed to suit the company, if the zest with which they sang be any criterion. Care was taken to insure a sufficient pause, too, after the chorus between each of the two verses, to permit the drinking—after all the essential part of the evening's entertainment—to be performed without hindrance.

There was one man, however, from the post of honor which he occupied at the head of the table evidently held in high consideration among the habitues of the inn, who did not join in the singing. He was a little man, who made up for his shortness of stature by breadth of shoulder and length of arm. There was an ugly black patch over his left eye. No one had ever seen him without that patch since the day of the assault on the fort at Chagres. An Indian arrow had pierced his eye on that eventful day. Men told how he had gone to the surgeon requesting him to pull it out, and when the young doctor, who had been but a short time with the buccaneers, shrank from jerking the barb out in view of the awful pain which would attend his action, and hesitated, reluctant, the wounded man had deliberately torn out the arrow and, with oaths and curses for the other's cowardice, had bound up the wound himself with strips torn from his shirt and resumed the fighting. His courage there, and before and after, although he was an illiterate person and could neither read nor write, had caused him to be appointed boatswain of the ship that had carried Morgan's flag, and he had followed his leader for many years with a blind devotion that risked all and stuck at nothing to be of service to him.

It had been many years since Master Benjamin Hornigold, coming down from bleak New England because he found his natural bent of mind out of harmony with the habits and customs of his Puritan ancestors, had drifted into buccaneering under the flag of his chief. He was an old man now, but those who felt the force of his mighty arms were convinced that age had not withered him to any appreciable degree.

Aside from Morgan, Hornigold had loved but one human creature, his younger brother, a man of somewhat different stamp, who had been graduated from Harvard college, but, impelled by some wild strain in his blood and by the example of his brother, had joined the buccaneers.

There were many men of gentle blood who were well acquainted with the polite learning of the day among these sea rovers from time to time, and it is related that on that same Panama excursion when "from the silent peak in Darien" they beheld for the first time after their tremendous march the glittering expanse of the south seas, with white Panama in its green trees before them, the old cry of the famous Ten Thousand, "Thalatta! Thalatta! The sea! The sea!" had burst from many lips.

All his learning and refinement of manner had not prevented young Ebenezer Hornigold from being as bad at heart as his brother, which is saying a great deal, and because he was younger, more reckless, less prudent, than he of riper years, he had incautiously put himself in the power of Morgan and had been hanged with short shrift. Benjamin, standing upon the outskirts of the crowd jesting and roaring around the foot of the gibbet, with a grief and rage in his heart at his impotency, presently found himself hating his old captain with a fierceness proportioned to his devotion in the past, for he had appealed for mercy personally to Morgan by the memory of his former services and had been sternly repulsed and coldly dismissed with a warning that he should look to his own future conduct lest, following in the course of his brother, he should find himself with his neck in the noose.

Morgan, colossal in his conceit and careless in his courage, thought not to inquire, or, if he gave the subject any consideration at all, dismissed it from his mind as of little moment, as to what was the subsequent state of Hornigold's feelings. Hornigold could have killed Morgan on numberless occasions, but a consuming desire for a more adequate revenge than mere death had taken hold of him, and he deferred action until he could contrive some means by which to strike him in a way that he conceived would glut his obsession of inexpiable hatred.

Hornigold had reformed—outwardly, that is—and was now engaged in the useful and innocent business of piloting ships into the harbor, also steering their crews, after the anchors were down, into the Blue Anchor tavern, in which place his voice and will were supreme. He had heard, for Lord Carlingford had made no secret of his orders, that his old master was to be arrested and sent back to England. The news which would have brought joy to a lesser villain, in that it meant punishment, filled him with dismay, for such was the peculiarity of his hatred that he wanted the punishment to come directly from him—through his agency, that is. He desired it to be of such character that it should be neither speedy nor easy, and he lusted most of all that Morgan should know in his last hours—which Hornigold prayed Satan might be long ones—to whom he was indebted for it all.

And, strange as it may seem, there was still a certain loyalty of a distorted, perverted kind in the man's breast. No matter what Morgan had done, no one else should punish him but himself. He would even have fought for his sometime chief, were it necessary, against the king or his law if need be. He was therefore very much disturbed over what he heard. Had it been possible he would have warned Morgan immediately of his purposed arrest, but he had been detained on the frigate by necessary duties from which he could find no means of escape until too late. He had, however, a high sense of Sir Henry's courage and address. He hoped and believed that he would not be taken by such men as Hawxherst and Bradley, but if he were Hornigold made up his mind to rescue him.

There was a little islet in the Caribbean just below Hispaniola in whose wooded interior still lurked some of the old time buccaneers, proscribed men, who from time to time did pirating in a small way on their own account—just enough to keep their hands in. If the worst came, Hornigold, who with his little pinnace had kept in touch with them secretly, could assemble them for the rescue of their old captain. Then the former governor, in his power and in their possession, could be disposed of at their leisure and pleasure. All these things had busied the man during the evening, and he sat even now in the midst of the revelry about him plunged in profound thought.

Unobserved himself, he had taken account of every man who was present. He knew all the habitues of the port and enjoyed a wide acquaintance among the seamen whose vessels frequented the harbor. He decided there were then in that room perhaps twenty men upon whom he could depend, proper inducement being offered, for almost any sort of service. Among these were five or six superior spirits whom he knew to be tried and true. There was young Teach, the singer of the evening, a drunken, dissolute vagabond who had been discharged from his last ship for insubordination and a quarrelsome attack upon one of his officers, for which he had narrowly escaped hanging as a mutineer. The man was as bold as a lion, though; he could be trusted. There, too, was Rock Brazilliano, a Portuguese half breed, and hobnobbing with him was Raveneau de Lussan, a Frenchman, prime seamen and bold fellows both. Farther down the table the huge Dutchman Velsers was nodding stupidly over his rum.

ANOTHER DICKER RE CARLETON LIGHT.

Committee Again Appointed to Confer With Company.

Increase of Pay Recommended for Chief of Police When City is Given Power of Appointment.

The regular monthly meeting of the Safety Board was held yesterday afternoon, with Ald. McArthur presiding. The Application of Chas. P. Baker, for re-lease of the school lot in Lancaster was not reported favorably upon by the sub-committee, but that only one-third be leased to him. The report was carried.

The contracts for coal were awarded to J. S. Gibbon and R. P. & W. F. Starr.

Ald. Bullock said a month's test of winter port coal from Queens County at the electric light station had been spoken of, but he saw that the report left it out. Ald. Macrae said the coal cost 20 cents per ton more than Reserve. The report was adopted.

The rock back of No. 2 station will not be cut away to provide more room, but a brick wall will be erected to facilitate matters.

Some opposed carrying out the recommendations.

Ald. Tilley wanted it done. The expenditure would not exceed $250.

Ald. Sproul said the repairs were absolutely necessary. The room was too small at present.

The chairman said the director should look into the room above and see if some repairs were not necessary there.

The report was left over until an estimate of the cost be prepared.

No. 1 salvage corps and fire police through W. E. Anderson requested that the warrants of J. P. Macaulay, Jas. Carlyle, S. K. Scovil, Harold Williams and Harry Irvine as members of the company be cancelled. Granted.

The salvage corps also brought up the question of new quarters. The members asked the matter be gone into by the council. New quarters are badly needed. The committee appointed to look into the matter did not report.

Ald. Holder said he and Ald. Sproul and the director had a look at the place. The men complained that all engine houses had to be closed at 11 o'clock, and they wanted a place where they would not be under these restrictions.

He thought all the members should go to bed at 9 o'clock if they wished to get proper sleep.

Ald. Macrae said the members of the fire station wanted to go to sleep early and they did not wish to be kept awake by the salvage corps staying there late. A separate building was the only solution said the alderman. A volunteer corps cannot be kept up unless the members are given a separate building.

The committee, Ald. Holder, Sproul, Tilley and the director will go fully into the matter.

It was recommended that a light be placed at the corner of Wright and Spruce streets. Ald. Bullock wanted the whole light question looked into.

Ald. Macrae moved Chief Clark's salary be increased to $1,500, the increase to go into force when the appointment of the chief is vested in the council.

To Ald. Frink the director said the contract with the Carleton Electric Light Co. expires a year from next September.

Ald. Frink said that if the city does not buy the plant the street railway may enter Carleton, and then the citizens will have a difficult time to get the right to manufacture light, heat and power in Carleton. If his information was correct, the Carleton electric light plant was grossly overvalued. The company is willing to have a new arbitration and valuation. He moved that a committee be appointed, having power to open up negotiations with the Carleton Electric Light Co. or D. W. Clark Co., with a view to obtaining possession, and to report; and to estimate the cost of installing a plant for 100 arclights.

Ald. Macrae seconded the motion, which was carried.

Ald. Frink, Macrae and Bullock, with the director and chairman, were appointed the committee.

EASTPORT OFFICERS MAKE SEIZURES.

EASTPORT, Me., July 30.—Deputy Marshal and Deputy Sheriff J. Lincoln Parker had an eye out Saturday for shipments of alcoholic beverages into the city for it is usually on that day that more business in pocket peddling is anticipated with so many strangers here. While no large consignments reached here by steamer from Boston the officer did, however, manage to discover a suspicious barrel and on opening it found it contained 124 pints of whiskey which he took under his protection and placed in the storehouse at police headquarters with other seizures of the kind that he had made in the past. There is yet to be a barroom in the city and one of the hardest hunts to find any kind of a drink, while it is even more difficult to buy a bottle of the "pizen" with such a close watch being kept by the different officers. There are of course a few places that have somewhat of a suspicious look, but as yet no direct evidence has been gathered in and no arrest made, but there may be "something doing" later.

INTERNATIONAL CONGRESS OF I. O. OF FORESTERS.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 31.—Independent Order of Foresters international congress opened its triennial convention here today. A resolution was offered to give a suitable tribute to the supreme regent, who has filled the office 25 consecutive years. He is a full blood Mohawk Indian named Oronhyatekha. The order, it is announced, has surplus funds of over $9,000,000 and has paid out $9,000,000 in benefits of all kinds. The national fraternity congress has assets of $27,000,000.

STORES, ETC. - - - THAT ARE - - - OPEN EVENINGS.

JEWELER AND GOLDSMITH.
A fine selection of jewelry of all description can be seen at the establishment of W. Tremaine Gard, on Charlotte street. Visitors requiring souvenirs of the town cannot do better than call and inspect Mr. Gard's selection. Some fine specimens of Antwerp cut diamonds are exciting a great deal of interest at the moment.

HIGH CLASS TAILORS.
Someone has said that the finest asset a young man can possess is a good suit of clothes, and there is a deal of truth in the saying. Edgecombe and Chaisson, 104 King street, have just received per steamer Anoud the latest London novelties with exclusive designs. Those requiring a high class suit of clothes should give them a call.

ICE CREAM
for dessert can be had without trouble and at slight expense by sending your order to T. J. Phillips, 213 Union street. 'Phone 1,240. Your order will have prompt attention. Any quantity, but only one quality—the best.

CANDY STORE.
She only answered "Ting a ling" to all that he could say,
She seemed to live on "Ting a ling" by night as well as day.
He said to her, I'll marry you; but all that she could say
Was Ting a ling, ting, ting a ling, ting, ting a ling, ting tay.
The young lady had tried some Ting a ling candy made by A. J. Russell, on Union street.

UNDERTAKER.
Death must always be a painful subject, but when it comes—as come it must—it is gratifying to know that our dear ones have the greatest care and attention shown them in the last offices. T. Fred. Powers, of Princess street, pays special attention in this respect, and one cannot do better than entrust him when occasion arises.

GENTS' CLOTHING AND FURNISHINGS.
A store which is situated in a very convenient place, is that of E. Komiensky & Co., 48 Mill street, as its handiness to the depot makes it much sought after by people coming in or going out of the city A full line of the latest gent's clothing and furnishings are carried by Mr. Komiensky.

CORRESPONDENCE SCHOOL.
If you are dissatisfied with your present position and salary, drop into the office of the International Correspondence Schools, 205 Union street, any evening and learn how you can improve both. Circulars and information FREE.

ONLY REST.
If you want style, there are other places—the Clifton House gives inside and outside comfort, is near all trains and steamers, and its rates are low. Corner Princess and Germain sts.

CIGARS.
As a special inducement we are selling for a short time ten Small Queen Cigars for 25c. This is a well known 5c. cigar. LOUIS GREEN, 59 King St. (Next door to Waterbury & Rising.)

A FUEL OFFICE
purely for the sale of fire producing material is Gibbon & Co.'s, 6½ Charlotte st. Open 7 a. m. to 10 p. m. It is the first and only office of the kind in St. John and orders may be placed there for charcoal, kindling, sawed and split wood and hard and soft coals from the best mines in different parts of the world. Prices lowest.

MUSIC STORE.
Music hath charms to soothe the troubled breast, and this being a well known maxim, music lovers cannot do better than call on A. L. Spencer, 126 Germain street, who has a splendid selection of both instruments and music. Mr. Spencer's stock's all the little accessories that musicians are in need of. Call and inspect for yourself.

LIVERY STABLE.
Short Bros. 150 Union street have pleasure in informing their patrons and the public that they have added new carriages and coaches to their well known stock. They are prepared to fill orders at all hours on the shortest notice. Coaches in attendance at all boats and trains. Buckboards and barouches with careful drivers for picnic parties. 'Phone 263. T. A. and H. J. Short, proprietors. D. H. Short, manager.

RESTAURANT.
It is seldom so much care is displayed in the cooking and serving of a meal as is met with at the Boston Restaurant, 20 Charlotte street. The menu comprises nearly everything that even an epicure could ask for. The speciality is the after theatre lunches, whilst the dinners in the middle day are very popular.

TOBACCONIST.
There is nothing more delightful when strolling in the park than to smoke a good cigar, or a pipe of your favorite tobacco. If you are in want of either the genial Oscar has erected a delightful bungalow wherein you can obtain them, and indulge in a quiet game of pool to pleasantly while away an hour. Pop in and see him.

HAIR RESTORER.
If your hair is falling out, or you are troubled with dandruff, Dr. Jack's famous hair restorer will postively grow hair and cure you of dandruff. It has been thoroughly tested in this city for months past and there are hundreds using it and recommending it.
Dr. Jack's hair restorer is sold by all the leading druggists and barbers.

ROYAL DAIRY LUNCH.
52 Mill street, is indeed about the best place in the city to get a lunch or a bang-up dinner for a quarter or sell a twenty-one meal ticket for $3.50, good till used, or six meals for one dollar.
G. A. WHITTAKER, Manager.

A Gaslight Equal to 300 Candles.

CZAR'S MARTIAL MESSAGES STRIKES RESPONSIVE CHORD.

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 1, 2.30 a. m.—Emperor Nicholas' martial message to the Orenbourg clergy, in which he expressed his determination never to conclude a peace dishonorable to Russia or unworthy of her greatness, and which was gazetted yesterday, is reprinted in every paper in Russia today. It has struck a responsive chord in many quarters, even among the friends of peace. The emperor's words however, by no means bear out the construction placed upon them by the jubilant war party, nor do they at all exclude the idea of a successful termination of the approaching negotiations at Portsmouth, but they certainly strengthen the military spirit aroused by the cabled versions of the Sato interviews and the cold figures representing the supposed extent of the contribution to be demanded by Japan.

In significant connection with the peace conference is the meeting of the Emperor's chosen counsellors, twenty-two in number, representative of both the liberal and conservative schools, as well as the ministers, which will be held tomorrow, a day sooner than was expected, to pass their verdict on the national assembly project. The deliberations probably will continue a week, perhaps longer, but the Emperor wishes to reach a conclusion before the birthday of Grand Duke Nikolaievitch, heir to the throne, Aug. 12, and a manifesto generally is expected on that day. The promulgation of an acceptable reform project would make the acceptance of the decision of the peace conference, either for or against peace, much easier.

H. CO. DINNER.

H. Co. of the 62nd gave a supper at White's restaurant last evening which proved to be an enjoyable affair. Capt. Roy Sipprell was in the chair and the vice chair was occupied by Col. Sgt. Gladwin. Capt. Sipprell proposed the toast to the King, and Sergt Collins did likewise to Lord Aylmer. Corp. Belyea proposed the ladies. During the evening a short programme was carried out, somewhat as follows: Piano solo, Sergt. Major Lamb; solo, Col. Sergt. Gladwin; duet, Ptes. Farris and Ingraham; song, Corp. Belyea; piano solo, Pte. Morgan; quartette, Col. Sergt. Gladwin, Sergt. Collins, Corp. Belyea, Sergt. Major Lamb.

The pleasant function was brought to a close with the National Anthem.

IN COTTON CIRCLES.

Lancashire Operatives Will Strike for Higher Wages—To Refrain From Buying American Cotton.

LONDON, July 31.—At an emergency meeting of the international committee of the International Cotton Congress, held here today, it was decided to urge spinners in Europe and America to refrain from buying American cotton during the next three months except for immediate wants, and to thus try to obviate the danger of the next cotton season commencing with raw material at the high prices at present prevailing.

LONDON, July 31.—The Lancashire cotton operatives have decided by an enormous majority to strike on August 19 unless the advance of wages demanded by them is conceded.
