

The Royal Proclamation seems to have been received throughout almost every part of the country by universal acclamation. The few rebel bodies, some of them, however, in pretty large numbers, are the followers of leaders who have so deeply compromised themselves that they have been excepted in the general act of Amnesty and have no hopes of pardon. The strong forts of Oude are being surrendered under the proclamation, and there is the best reason for the assurance that in a few months more, India will enjoy the blessings of quiet and security, with cheering prospects of future progress and prosperity under the new system of Government.

Affairs in China are also assuming a more favourable aspect as regards its foreign relations, and trade and commerce are returning to their wonted channels. Her internal troubles, however, are not at an end. The large Insurrectionary party that are in possession of some of the largest cities of the Empire, are extending their influence and gaining advantages over the Government.

The Emperor of Japan, with whom the European Powers have so lately concluded treaties of peace and commerce, died at Yeddo, the Capital, in Sept. last. He is said to have died of dropsy being only 36 years old.

A more than usual activity in business for the season, appears to prevail in England. Leading political men are addressing the public in various parts of the kingdom, looking forward to the new elections expected to take place not long hence.—The engrossing topics appear to be the enlargement of the Franchise and Vote by Ballot.

Fearful Conflagration and Loss of Life.

In our Second Edition last week we gave a full account of the disastrous fire which occurred in Halifax on Tuesday the 28th ult.

The alarm was given about 9 o'clock in the evening. The fire appears to have originated in the rear of the premises occupied by Mr. Jonas Hagar, better; but it appeared to make greater progress at first in the building in the occupation of Mr. W. S. Symonds & Co. stove and furnace dealers. The fire, however, in less than half an hour had enveloped the whole of the houses adjoining, and all the efforts were required to extinguish the fire on the opposite sides of the street—those of Mr. Wm. Akhurst, Commission Merchant, and Albro & Co's. Hardware store. These were in imminent danger, and caught several times, and it was only by the most daring efforts of some of the courageous firemen that they were eventually saved.

The rapidity of the fire prevented the parties burnt out from saving scarcely anything.

A ladder was placed to the upper story of Mr. Gabriel's store, and Capt. Taylor endeavoured to drag out a person, whom he supposed to be Mr. Joseph Grant, but either from resistance on his part or his lameness, was unable to effect his rescue. The remains of his body were found next morning completely charred. Mr. Hagar was also by some means unable to escape, and his corpse also was discovered amongst the embers. Mrs. Grant, having thrown her child out of the window, jumped into the street, both are badly injured—the former by both legs being broken, and is not expected to recover. Other persons also jumped from the second story and sustained injury.

The goods and furniture from several of the properties near were removed. The brick Shoe-store of Mr. Coombs proved a barrier to the fire extending up Duke Street. The brick end to O'Donnells clothing store checked it for a short time, and McLeod's brick building effectually stopped its progress on Hollis Street.

Four houses were entirely consumed, occupied respectively by W. S. Symonds, John Gabriel, Jonas Hagar, A. D. Morse, and Thomas O'Donnell.

The efficiency of the Fire Companies was thoroughly tested. Many of the members displayed great heroism, and suffered much injury to their clothes and persons, by their manly and praiseworthy exertions.

The Military rendered most important service, and soon brought a plentiful supply of water from the harbour, which, in addition to that from the hydrants, prevented the fire from passing into the adjoining blocks, of which, at one time, there seemed great probability.

His Excellency the Earl of Mulgrave was early on the spot, and afforded valuable service by his advice. His Worship the Mayor was also actively employed with other official gentlemen in connection with the fire engines.

This calamity has occurred sufficiently near to the first of January to bring to the minds of many citizens the similar alarming visitation two years since, and awaken similar sympathy; but although the loss of property is not so extensive, yet the fatality attending this, renders it even more distressing than the former.

Testimonials from Foreign Countries.

A pleasing travelling companion, and one that no person should be without, is Perry Davis' Pain Killer. A sudden attack of diarrhoea, dysentery, or cholera morbus can be effectually and instantaneously relieved by it, it is equally effectual in curing scalds, burns, &c.

NOTICE.

"A Strict Baptist" writes in answer to a "Country Tyro," that he does not see anything difficult in his latin sentence. He would enquire of "a reputed Scholar" if it is not according to rule, for impersonal verbs to govern the dative? May not "Country Tyro" read, No man is allowed to sin, and "a reputed Scholar" translate, Nemo peccat licet?

TO THE MEDICAL FACULTY.—W. G. Taylor's Flax Lint is indispensable to the Faculty and essential in every Family. To the invalid it will prove a comfort, and to the healthy a luxury.

This new and beautiful article is lighter and cheaper than the ordinary Lint, free from all impurity soft and delicate, and does not adhere to nor fret wounds to which it is applied; and from the recent improvements, it is altogether superior to that made heretofore, and gives a larger surface of Lint in each pound—facts certified by the Army and Navy Medical Boards, the London and Foreign Hospitals, and by the Medical Profession in general. It is manufactured in any lengths, whereby it may be made available for Surgical purposes, and the public generally; and being of a perfectly even surface, light, cool, and durable allays irritation where the skin is excitable. It is so reasonable in price as to admit of its being an appendage to the Dressing Case, as a Razor Cleanser and Renovator, and other family uses. Lastly, by placing this Lint in front of the Hat, under the Leather Lining, it will absorb the perspiration, and being porous, may be used without the slightest injurious effect, and thus give several months longer wear.
