Poultry—Killing and Dressing.

In Greylin's Poultry Breeding, the following excellent directions for dressing poultry are given:—"Open" the beak of the fowl, then with a pointed and narrow knife, make an incision at the back of the roof, which will divide the vertebrae and cause immediate death: after which hang the fowl up by the legs till the bleeding ceases; then raise the beak out with vinegar and water. Fowls killed in this manner keep longer and do not present the unsightly external marks as those killed by the ordinary system of wringing the neck. When the entrails are drawn immediately after death, and the fowl stuffed, as they do in France, with paper-shavings or short cocoa-nut fibers to preserve their shape, they will keep much longer fresh. Some breeders cram their poultry before killing to make them appear heavy; this is a most injudicious plan, as the undigested food soon enters into fermentation, and putrefaction takes place, as is evinced by the quantity of greenish, putrid-looking fowls that are seen in the markets."

Utilizing the Sewage of London.

A company was formed some time ago to reclaim some of the poor, waste land in the County of Essex, by means of the sewage of the metropolis, and it is from the last yearly report of this company that the following results are given. One-fourth of the acreage under cultivation raised rye-grass, for which there is a greater demand than can be met. As a proof of the fattening power of sewage-grass, it is stated that two young steers fed exclusively on it had, from the 19th of May to the 7th of August, gained weight to the following extent: one, 1½ cwt., and the other 2 cwt. Land of their poorest and most sterile description, with no other manure than sewage is found to yield prolific crops, not only of grass, but of wheat, rye, mangold, cabbage, turnips, potatoes, &c. By this means six or seven crops of grass are raised in a season, each very heavy. With two dressings of sewage, a crop of mangold of fifty or sixty tons per acre has been produced where not more than twenty or twenty-five could be had when farm-yard dung was used for manure. In the same way, without this manure, the crop of wheat was about twenty-eight bushels per acre; with it, something like forty-four. Could we not also utilize the waste of our cities?

The Boston Journal says, if the top of a carrot cut off at this season, or later is placed in a saucer of water, with a few bits of charcoal to sweeten, it will form a radiated feathery plant by no means unworthy to grace a lady's table.

The London dairymen have decided that the most profitable cows are graded short horns, not because they give more milk, but because when past milking they make most beef.

THE PLAGUE OF INSECTS.—The Insect Exhibition held in Paris has led to the formation of an Agricultural Entomological Society. The objects of this Society are the propagation of useful insects and the destruction of noxious ones.

A Correspondent asked if the brow of a bill ever becomes wrinkled? The editor replied:

"The only information we can give on that point is that we have often seen it furrowed."

EAGAR'S PERUVIAN BITTERS.

COMPOUND of Peruvian Bark, Sarsaparilla, Dandelion, Wild Cherry and other valuable remedies. An excellent

Tonic, Appetizer and Stimulant.

Cures Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Acidity of the Stomach, Debility and Pain in the Back, Restores the Vital Energies, when exhausted, braces up the Nervous and Muscular System. Purifies the blood and restores the Appetite.

Particular attention is called to the fact that the Peruvian Bitters are not an Alcoholic preparation, but simply a scientific combination of valuable Roots and Barks, which purifies the blood and restores the waste, thereby bracing up both the nervous and muscular systems, and giving that permanent health, strength and vigour, both of mind and body which nature intended.

This Bitters is not sold as a specific for every disease but in cases of general debility and its effects, such as Dyspepsia, loss of appetite, weakness of the small of the back, weak memory, indisposition for exertion, sense of fullness after eating, &c., caused by anxiety, over exertion, mentally or bodily, late hours and excesses of every kind it has no equal.

The Proprietor although averse to the practice of puffing any medicine, feels it his duty to give publicity to the following certificates. Hundreds could be added but such names as Dr. How, Professor of Chemistry at King's College, Capt. Hardy, R. A., and Mr. Johnson, Lunenburg, will be sufficient to establish its reputation as a reliable and valuable medicine.
