EUROPEAN INTELLIGENCE.

Rumored declaration of War!—France and England resolved to sustain Turkey!!

The news from Europe which has reached us since out last, is of importance. The Russia-Turkish question, which has been a subject for negotiation so long, and to the result of which all eyes have been turned, has assumed a position, from which there seems no retreat without a EUROPEAN WAR. One account states that the Sultan in opposition to the advice of the four powers, had resolved upon a Declaration of War against Russia, and that hostilities had commenced. Subsequent accounts state that the Porte had fixed four weeks as the furthest time in which the evacuation of the Principalities must take place. The following summary is probably as correct information as can be obtained at present:—

According to the best accounts, which are yet imperfect, it appears that the Sultan HAS NOT SIGNED THE DECLARATION OF WAR, but the Grand Council has voted that war against Russia be declared, leaving to the discretion of the Executive when to proclaim hostilities.

It has been authentically stated that the Czar at Olmutz declared his strong wish for peace to enable him to back out of the difficulty. Nothing is really known with certainty.

News from Turkey, report the continuance of unanimous warlike feelings. Few or none desired that the quarrel should be decided in any other way than by arms. Even the chances of defeat appear to have been taken into calculation, but they have produced no effect on the public mind.

The Times letter writer from Paris says that the English and French Governments had notified Russia in strong notes, that it is now too late to issue more modifications, and that England and France would support the integrity of Turkey.

LONDON, Saturday morning.—The Cabinet had a long session yesterday.

The Standard states in a leading article, that it is informed 30,000 French troops will be sent from Algeria, in addition to 30,000 from Europe, and gives an outline of the plan of a campaign drawn up by the emperor Napoleon himself.

Two envoys arrived at Constantinople on the 25th ult. from Circassia, with the object of demanding assistance against the Russians, and of combining a plan of operations on that side should hostilities commence.

Upwards of 800 Poles have inscribed their names at the Turkish embassy, and offered their services to the Porte in the event of a war with Russia.

The Cholera was committing greater ravages than ever among the Russian troops on the Danube.

CHOLERA IN ENGLAND.—This scourge of nations was making fearful ravages at Newcastle.—The deaths were reported at 100 per day. It had appeared also in Edinburgh, Leith, Glasgow, and smaller towns in Scotland. Fatal cases have occurred in the filthy courts and streets of London, and a large increase of bowel complaints. In Liverpool several cases have occurred. On board the Isaac Wright, an American vessel, fifty deaths had occurred, and the passengers were taken from the vessel in a wretched state. In Ireland there were scarcely any cases. A letter from Rotterdam of the 5th of October says the cholera was still carrying off many victims in that city and Amsterdam.

BERMUDA.—The Yellow Fever.—The yellow fever rages with fearful fatality on the Island of Bermuda. Colonel Philpotts, the acting governor, died of the malady; Col. Robt. R. A., was about to assume the administration of the government, and take the oath of office when he, too, was taken ill. Major Oakley, being next in command, was sent for, but, sad to relate, he also lies sick of the fever.

The Russian clergy are ignorant and immoral. The priestly office is regarded as a means of escaping slavery, and the priests pass nearly half their lives in a state of intoxication.

Capt. Sir Everard Howe, Bart, H. M. S. "Calliope," thus reports in the Nautical Magazine on the state of the Feejee Islands of the South Pacific:—

"No man moves out for any cause whatever without his club. The person who acts Governor of M'Bou has his oven for cooking men before the door of his house, which I saw, and he eats nothing else when he can get them. There is a large house appropriated for the accommodation of strangers, at the back of which is another oven, and the bark upon the stem and branches of an old tree near it is nearly covered with deep notches, each registering the baking of a human being—some remains of the body being hung to the branches. There were none remaining, but the sinnet by which they had been suspended was still there. I have been thus particular to show that every exertion of Christian and human nations is required to turn these people (who are as capable of humanity as any other amongst the islands) from the habits which they now follow. Burying alive is by no means uncommon: baking alive; cutting of the hands and feet, and cooking and eating them before the eyes of the prisoner; exposing young women, upon suspicion of various offences, to punishment too shocking to mention, and afterwards clubbing them to death and eating them."

OBITUARY.

Fell asleep in Jesus on the afternoon of the 10th September, at Providence Town, Cape Cod, State of Massachusetts, Isaac D. Knowles, aged 24, son of Mr. Jonathan Knowles, Wood's Harbour, Township of Barrington, Nova Scotia. While the dew of the morning was yet fresh on his brow, this dear youth at the age of seventeen, consecrated himself to the Saviour. From that time till his death he maintained a most consistent Christian character. Whether at home or abroad he was never backward to acknowledge he was a disciple of the crucified Redeemer. Around the family altar, at the prayer meeting, and the public assembly his voice was heard. Having a great thirst for knowledge he left home about ten months since (not being very well at the time) and went to the States, his letters to his parents and sisters, since then breathe the deepest piety, and strangers have borne witness, that "none knew him but to love him." Unknown to himself or friends he was gathering up his mantle and pluming his wings for his upward flight. The master called and found him ready. As sets the morning star, that goes not down behind the western hills, but melts away with the light of heaven, so passed away calm and serene his happy spirit. The writer of this was called upon to pay a small tribute of respect to his memory, a very large assembly sympathized with the bereaved family while he addressed them from 2nd Timothy, vi: 7, 8.

Do we weep when another star
Breaks out upon the glittering sky?
Do we weep when the noise of war
And the rage of conflict die?
Then why should our tears run down,
Or our hearts be sorely riven,
There's another gem in the Saviour's crown,
And another star is given.
Communicated by Elder D. Oran.
