REPLY.

GENTIEMEN,-In a Country like New Brunswick, searcol reclaimed from the forest, yet advancing rapidly to take its proper place and assert its legitimate rights among older and more influential countries, the duties of Legislators are many and varied.

and varied.

They are called upon to develope more fully the resources of a country abounding in the natural elements of wealth while it is expected of them that they so mould and temper the Government of our Province as to keep pace with its growing population and intelligence.

In view of these things I assure you, Gentlemen, that I feel the duty of Legislating should not be undertaken lightly

To the Signers of the Requisition,
Gentlemen,—No man can be, at any rate no man on the desire to the duty of Legislating should not be undertaken lightly or inconsistently; but that those called upon to deliberate in that capacity should bring to the work and capacity should bring to the work and selecting of the responsibility resting upon them, and a sincere desire to advance the interest of the Province in all they do.

Such, Gentlemen, leing my views and feelings, the Requisition, so respectably and numerously signed, you have honored me by presenting, causes me no little emburasment, and were I only to consult my private feelings, I would give a decided negative to it; but akknowledging as I do the claims of society upon individuals, I feel such a course of action would not be paying that dependence in my intelligence and integrity, as to desire my services as their Representative in the Assembly.

Farms and Forests are indeed the life-blood, not only were I only to consult my private feelings, I would give a decided negative to it; but akknowledging as I do the claims of society upon individuals, I feel such a course of action would not be paying that dependence in my intelligence and integrity, as to desire to advance the interest of the duty of L

You are no doubt correct in the belief that a scat in the Assembly is not likely to contribute either to my comfort or profit. I have no ambition to gratify—no personal ends to accomplish, still I am ready to serve my country where the country requires it.

Beard & Venning bears and the interest of the property I possess among you, I feel undividedly identified with you, and shall devote what abilities I have to your interest and the interest of the Province at large. I am, Gentlemen, your obedient servant, CHARLES BURPEE.
