

Poetry.

For the Religious Intelligencer.

Mr. Editor.—The following poem from the pen of Mr. Cray is found in an old book; when it was written I am not prepared to state, but from its singular, prophetic style, and the manner in which it is fulfilled, I have thought fit to send it to you for insertion in your truly valuable paper.

Things to Come.

There are murmurs in the deep,
There are thunders in the heavens;
Though the ocean billows sleep,
Though no cloud the sign hath given;
Earth that sudden storm shall feel,
Tis a storm of man and steel.

Tribes are in their forests now,
Idly hunting ome and deer;
They are crouching in their snow,
O'er their wild and wintry shore,
Doomed to swell that tempest's roar,
Where the torments are in store.

War of old has swept the world,
Guilt has shaken strength and pride;
But the thunders loudly hurled,
Quivered o'er the spot, and died;
When the vengeance next shall fall,
Woe to each, and woe to all.

Man hath shed man's blood for toys,
Love and hatred, fame and gold;
Now, a mightier wrath descends,
Earth in careless crime grows old;
Vast destruction shall be done,
To the rushing of that doom.

When the clouds of vengeance break,
Fully shall be on the weak,
Frenzy shall be on the weak,
Nations against nations rise,
And the worse than Pagan sword
In religion's breast be girded.

Then the Martyr's solemn cry,
That a thousand years has rung,
Where the robes of crimson lie,
Round the "golden altar" hang,
Be heard,—and from the "throne"
The trumpet of the "judgment" blow.

"Woe to Earth, the mighty woe!"
Yet shall earth her conscience tell,
Till about the throne shall flow
The drought of gall. The cup is full.
Yet a moment—comes the day,
Famine, bloodshed, food and prey.

Then shall rush abroad the blast,
Sweeping Heaven's zone by zone;
Africa's tribe the spear shall raise,
Sweeping India's pagan throng;
China hear her idols knock,
In the Russian's cannon-pond.

On the Turk shall fall the blow
From the Greek's daggered hand;
Blood like water-shedders shall flow,
Till he treads the Syrian land;
Then shall fall vengeance shine,
And all be sealed in Palestine.

Miscellany.

To African Gold Digger.

The Editor of the African Herald of Boston who is on a tour to California to recruit his health, and visit his son, gives in his journal the following interesting conversation on which he had with a negro whom he met digging like others for gold—

"Returning to Calicut, I fell in with a colored man, who was digging on the banks of a creek. I looked at him, smiled, and said, 'How come you here?' 'O, I took it into my head to come, to see what I could find.' 'Well, where did you come from?' 'I came from Missouri.' 'And was you a slave?' 'Yes, but I bought myself for $700. My master died, and after years of faithful service to my mistress, she said if she should be taken away, I should be sold, and she wished to sell me to myself, that I might not be sold where I should be ill-treated. So I bought myself on trust, and came here to get gold to pay the debt. So now, I am a free man.' 'Well, do you know anything about the true freedom, that Christ gives to those who believe in him, to be free indeed?' 'O yes, thank God I do. I could not read, but I used to think I would like to do, and get an understanding of the way to heaven. Some years before I left the States, James, one of the sons in the family, who had been very wild, was converted. He came to me, and said, 'Jim, you are going to hell! You must repent, and give yourself to God, at once. I have done it, and am happy.' 'Well,' said I, 'Master James, I don't know about going to hell; I have not killed any body, or stole. I have tried to live as good as most others.' 'Well,' said James, 'you are a sinner, and you are lost without Christ. I want you to make up a promise, 'well, what is it?' 'I will, I will.' 'I want you to promise me that you will pray three times a day for one month, that God will convert your soul. Now, leave off swearing and frolicking, and be sober, and give yourself to God.' 'Well,' said I, 'I can pray, I think. I could pray a month, if it is necessary. And so, I agreed to do so. I kept my word for a fortnight, and the tempter told me it was no use to pray longer. I was about to give it up. I thought the devil was about to take me off, and so I determined I would not go to bed one night, but sit up and watch and pray all night. About midnight I knelt down on the hearth, in the old kitchen, and thought I would pray low to myself, and not disturb the family. But the second word that came to me was, 'Glory to God!' and was not in a very low tone. I was so filled with joy and peace, that I shouted, and rejoiced so loud that it waked up the family. But I did not care now; I was happy, and wanted to tell all the world. Morning came, and master (who was then living) said to me, 'Jim, what was that noise I heard in the kitchen last night?' 'Well, master, the Lord, I believe, has converted my soul.' 'Well, master, I am now as free a man as ever lived.' 'No you ain't, and my master, 'you are mine; I bought you and put my money for you.' 'Can't help that, Master, I am a free man. But I shall serve you better than ever, by the help of God.' From that time to this, I have tried to live a Christian, and God has been with me, bless his name."

Galignani says, "the Emperor has benefited considerably in health by his recent visit to England."

The immediate departure of the Emperor for the Crimea is looked upon in Paris as a certainty, and the following little anecdote in reference to the voyage has caused much conversation. While the Emperor was in London, at one of the diplomatic receptions, Mr. Buchanan, Minister of the United States in London, was invited to visit the Universal Exposition. Mr. Buchanan replied, that he was very soon about to return to the United States which would render his visit difficult of accomplishment. The Emperor having remarked that steam had abridged the distance very much, Mr. Buchanan observed, "Yes, it is not so far from Washington to Paris as from Paris to the Crimea, whither, I hear, it is the intention of Your Majesty to proceed." To this home-thrust the Emperor merely replied, "Oh, this is an affair of my own, of which no one knows anything." One cannot easily believe that Mr. Buchanan could have so far forgotten what was due from one gentleman to another, as to attempt to invade secrets with which he had no concern.

A NOBLE DEED.—During the night of November 25th, in a thick snow storm, wind blowing a heavy gale down the lake, the water chilled and making ice fast, the Canadian schooner, Conductor, Captain Hackett, struck on the bar, outside of Long Point Cut, on the island side, beat over and filled immediately, some distance from the shore, the sea making a complete breach over her, driving the crew to the rigging for safety. In the morning at daylight they were discovered, clinging to the wreck, by Mrs. Margaret Becker, a trapper's wife, the sole inhabitant of that end of the island, her husband being over on the main land. She immediately went down abreast of the vessel, on the beach, and built a large fire of logs, made some hot tea, and prepared some food for them, in case they reached the shore, and to refresh and encourage their drooping spirits, by showing them succor was at hand.

All that long day, with the tempest raging around her, did that heroic woman watch the poor suffering seamen clinging to the rigging of the wreck. Just at midnight, the captain called to the mate, who was in the other side of the rigging, that they would all perish if they had to remain in the rigging another night, and that he was going to attempt to swim ashore; if he succeeded they could follow him; if he drowned they could cling on to the rigging and run the chances. He leaped overboard and struck out. As he reached the undertow and back-water, his strength failing, he heaved with cold he would certainly have been drowned, had not the woman gone to the rescue. She waded in through the surf, up to her neck, grasping him and dragging him out safely. Then the balance of the crew followed him, one by one, with the same result—this noble woman breasting the sea and meeting and dragging out each one of them as they came ashore—being, in the main, instrumental in saving the whole crew. Such noble conduct deserves more than a passing notice.—Buffalo Democrat.

ONE GOOD TURN DESERVES ANOTHER.—A decent old highlander, in—, having become unwell, one of the deacons of the district in which he lived, a spirit-dealer of the Free Church, waited upon him, and asked him, among other things, if there were any particular portions of the Bible which he should like to hear read. "Och! ay," says Donald, "There are several portions of it that I should like to hear read; but there are two, in particular, that I should like to hear you read, the 5th chapter of Isaiah, and the 28th." The deacon read them accordingly, when at several expressions, Donald said, "Ay, ay, that's it, do you see?" which expressions were the following:—"Woe unto them that rise up early in the morning, that they may follow strong drink; that continue until night, till wine inflame them." "Therefore hell hath enlarged herself, and opened her mouth without measure." "The drunkards of Ephraim shall be trodden under feet." "The priest and the prophet have erred through strong drink; they are swallowed up of wine; they are out of the way through strong drink; they err in vision, they stumble in judgment." The deacon's first vision, he has been, as yet, his last. Mouths and months have intervened; but no such deacon has returned to Donald to read another chapter. "Ay, ay, he has never come near me since," says Donald. "It was the Bible that made me an abstainer, and I thought I was trying to edge upon him; but he winna come near me no more."

At the annual meeting of the Western Asia Mission Society in London the Rev. Dr. Marsh said:—"Twenty years ago there was not one Protestant church in Turkey; now there was a large numbers springing up in various parts, and filled by numerous congregations. Protestants had now full political liberty, and were to a great extent on an equality with the Mohammedans and the nominal Christian Churches of the East. He was glad that an opportunity was presented of placing a pure form of Christianity in the sight of the Mohammedans and the Jews, who had been so grossly prejudiced against Christianity by the force, in which it had been presented to them through the Oriental Churches. Mohammedans and Jews were now acknowledged that there was a Christianity which was not connected with idolatry. He could hardly wonder that they had rejected Christianity seeing it had always been presented to them in a form which they could not but regard as idolatrous; and he could understand the surprise of some of them on entering the church at Jerusalem and finding neither pictures nor images. It was, therefore, a matter for great thankfulness to those who loved their Bibles and valued the simplicity of the Gospel, to know that the Mohammedan population of the East had now presented to them a pure and unadulterated form of Christianity."

THE BIBLE.—Mr. Boel, of California, makes the following interesting statement:—"A few days since, a person from one of our Southern counties called on me for some Spanish Testaments. In conversing with him I learned the following particulars in reference to his history:—Eleven years since, when at the Sandwich Islands, Mr. Damon presented him with a Bible. He had gone to Mr. Damon's study with a shipmate to get him to sign the temperance pledge. This Bible he has kept until this time. When he received it he was a Roman Catholic. Now he has sent a letter to the priest, abjuring the Catholic Church, and he has joined the Methodist Church. He ascribes the change in his views to the light which broke in upon his mind from the reading of that holy book; and now he is actively and energetically endeavoring to circulate the Word of God among other Catholics."

A SUPERANNUATED CLERGYMAN.—An aged clergyman, named Elijah Wells, has been sent to the Almshouse, on Deer Island, being extremely destitute. The venerable man is upwards of 70 years of age, and formerly supplied the pulpits of two of the most eminent churches in this city. This is a stigma and a disgrace on the societies of his professed denomination. It is a blot in the history of the church, that in the days of costly church edifices a superannuated clergyman should, from poverty, be conveyed to the city almshouse to die among paupers, thieves and felons. We may say more of this case hereafter.—Boston Chronicle, May 14th.

THE SERFS OF RUSSIA.—Dr. Baird, in a recent lecture in Cincinnati, stated that the serfs of Russia were owned as follows: 20,000,000 by the Emperor, 1,600,000 by the members of the Imperial family, 26,500,000 by the nobles.

THE CRIMEAN CORRESPONDENT of the London Times says that no less fifty thousand Turkish soldiers have died of disease and through the inefficiency of physicians, since the present war began. When the war commenced the Turkish army was 140,000 strong; now it does not muster 60,000 fighting men.—Christian Advertiser.

AN EXTENSIVE FARMER.—Michael L. Sullivan, an Illinois farmer, it is said, is about to plant ten thousand acres of land in corn. He was formerly one of the largest farmers in the State of Ohio for many years, and, according to a contemporary, he could ride in a direct course fifteen miles through his own corn field.

THE wheat crop throughout Western Canada looks exceedingly well. The fall wheat is entirely free from winter killing, and as there is now no danger of its being injured by frost, the prospect of an abundant harvest is very encouraging. The quantity of land under wheat is far greater than in any previous year.—Canada Advertiser.

SEVERER THAN THE MAINE LAW.—The "Eastern Prince" of the Chinese insurgents has issued a proclamation respecting temperance, in which after proclaiming God's abhorrence of drunkenness, he proceeds to forbid all princes and nobles, ministers of state and people, men and women, to indulge in the use of wine, even privately, under penalty of being beheaded.

When Carey was about to leave England, to plant the Gospel in India, Mr. Sidney Smith sneeringly asked if a crazy cobbler expected to convert India with fifty pounds, which was all the money Carey had. Now, nearly a million of dollars are expended annually in India, of which $150,000 is raised among the English population in that country.

AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL.

For the rapid Cure of COUGHS, COLDS, HOARSENESS, BRONCHITIS, WHOOPING-COUGH, CROUP, ASTHMA, AND CONSUMPTION.

TO CURE A COLD WITH HEADACHE AND SORENESS OF THE BODY.—Take the Cherry Pectoral on going to bed, and wrap up warm, to sweat during the night. FOR A COLD AND COUGH, take it in the morning, noon and evening, according to the directions on the bottle. Numerous instances have been noticed where whole families were cured by this remedy. None will long suffer from this trouble when they have the Cherry Pectoral. Persons afflicted with a seated cough, who are unable to get their rest at night, will find by taking the Cherry Pectoral, and continuing to use it, that they may be sure of sound, unbroken sleep, and consequent refreshing rest. Great relief from suffering, and an ultimate cure, is offered to thousands who are thus afflicted, by this invaluable remedy.

From its agreeable effects in these cases, many find themselves unwilling to forego its use when the necessity for it has passed.

TO SINGERS AND PUBLIC SPEAKERS this remedy is invaluable, as by its action on the throat and lungs, when taken in small quantities, it removes all hoarseness in a few hours, and wonderfully increases the power and flexibility of the voice.

ASTHMA is generally much relieved, and often wholly cured by Cherry Pectoral. But there are some cases so obstinate as to yield entirely to no medicine. Cherry Pectoral will cure them if they can be cured.

BRONCHITIS, or irritation of the throat and upper portion of the lungs, may be cured by taking Cherry Pectoral in small and frequent doses. The uncomfortable oppression is soon relieved.

FOR CROUP.—Give an emetic of antimony, to be followed by large and frequent doses of the Cherry Pectoral, until it cures the disease. If taken in season it will not fail to cure.

WHOOPING COUGH may be broken up and soon cured by the use of Cherry Pectoral.

THE INFLUENZA is speedily removed by this remedy. Numerous instances have been noticed where whole families were protected from any serious consequences, while their neighbours without the Cherry Pectoral, were suffering from the disease.

Repeated instances are reported here of patients who have been cured from LIVER COMPLAINTS by this remedy, so many that there can be no question of its healing power in these diseases. It should be perseveringly taken, until relief, and not infrequently cures those who are considered past all cure.—There are many thousands scattered all over the country, who feel and say they owe their lives and present health to the Cherry Pectoral.

While it is a fraud on the public to pretend that any medicine will infallibly cure—still there is abundant proof, that the Cherry Pectoral does not only as a general thing, but almost invariably cures the maladies for which it is employed.

As time makes these facts wider and better known, this medicine has gradually become the best reliance of the afflicted, from the log-cabin of the American Peasant, to the Palaces of European Kings.

Prepared by J. C. AYER, Practical and Analytical Chemist, Lowell, Mass., and sold in St. John by T. Walker & Son, Fishers & Co., Everett & Co., Chalmers & Hunt, &c., in Fredericton, in Carleton by J. Cook, and by the Druggists generally.
