

Isaiah xxxviii. 15.

THE SUNDAY PARTY.
As I was walking one Lord's day to the tuary, I saw a party of young people be-these relative manner, it occurred with

"She is in the other boat, sir."
 "Is she alive? has she spoken?"
 "No, sir, she has not spoken, I believe."
 "Is she dead? oh tell me."
 "I fear she is, sir."
 The bodies were immediately removed to a house in the vicinity, and even them. Within three weeks of his death he related the incident as it is related here, and the feeling his heart was, "He hath done all things well." "For whom the Lord loveth he chasteneth a scourge every son whom he receiveth. If thou endure chastening, God dealeth with you as with sons: for what son is he whom the Father chas-

of fortune; "Ay, ay, brother —, we all aim at the same object, though we have our different ways of attaining it." Hence, when many years ago two young ladies of large fortune were placed under his care, was one of his counsels to them, that neither of them should marry a clergyman; "For," said he, "if he is not a good one, he is not worthy of you; and, if he is a good one, you will not like him."
