The family retired at the usual hour, and had but just fallen asleep, when Mr. Ebbett was aroused by the roaring of the devouring element. He instantly gave the alarm to his slumbering family, all of which barely had time to escape in their night clothing, without a garment to cover them.

His house was new, and nearly finished, and lava. well furnished. In one short hour, house, furniture, and wearing apparel were all swept away, and this happy family left houseless, and not a garment to shield them from the chills of night. The good citizens of Houlton, with their characteristic generosity and kindness, in a few hours raised about two hundred dollars in money and clothing, which was presented to the unfortunate family. The Conferences of the Plenipotentiaries have not yet ended in a declaration of peace. The causes which have retared this consummation are variously stated, though all agree One party ascribes the delay to the English Commissiones, who will not allow Prussia to sign the treaty as a principal. But it is difficult to understand how, if all other matters were satisfactorly arranged, a question of so little importance as this should cause delay in any quarter. Another report ascribes it to an unwillingness on the part of the Sublime Porte to have the concessions made to her Christain population of Turkey made an integral portion of the treaty. This is possible; for the tenacity of Turkish diplomacy has before believers in the Lord Jesus Christ. It is very en- Do the drinking characters of New Brunswick been proved, and the evasions of her rulers in couraging to see brethren willing to sacrifice as increase the revenue by £40,000? then why questions in which equality of religion is concerned, are also not unknown.
