LEXINGTON, Oct, 10th, 1855.

MR. EDITOR,-DEAR SIR,-I have just come in from a drive to Ashland, the celebrated country scat, of the more celebrated Henry Clay. Mr. Clay, I believe, was born in Virginia, and came in early life to this place where he purchased eight hundred acres of land, and on which he built his mansion. The place took its name, undoubtedly, from the name of the timber which grows so abundantly upon it-the ash,-blue, and white. with ash, though there is a slight intermixture wanting, it is supplied in the balmy air of this sooner the better. desightful climate, for this is very near the 37th land as to be quite free from any influence upon story:and the the circumstances above stated, favour- ported thus for these years respectively were who are older, learn to "be also ready!"

We also saw " mammy," the wife of the aged body cervant of Henry Clay. She conversed freely saying Mr. C. bought her when she was as the old mistres, meaning Mrs. H. Clay; though could not tell her age; that she was born in Maryland and other items in her history.
