Poetry.

RESIGNATION.

BY H. W. LONGFELLOW.

There is no flock, however watch'd and tended,
But one dead lamb is there!
There is no fireside, howsoe'er defended,
But has one vacant chair!

The air is full of farewells to the dying,
And mournings for the dead;
The heart of Rachel, for her children crying,
Will not be comforted.

Let us be patient! These severe afflictions
Not from the ground arise;
But oftentimes celestial benedictions
Assume this dark disguise.

We see but dimly through the mists and vapours;
Amid these earthly damps
What seem to us but sad funereal tapers,
May be Heaven's distant lamps.

There is no death! What seems so is transition;
This life of mortal breath
Is but a suburb to the life elysian,
Whose portal we call Death.

She is not dead—the child of our affection—
But gone unto that school
Where she no longer needs our poor protection,
And Christ himself doth rule.

In that great classroom of stillness and seclusion,
By guardian angels led,
Safe from temptation, safe from sin's pollution,
She lives, whom we call dead.

Day after day, we think what she is doing
In those bright realms of air;
Year after year, her tender steps pursuing,
Behold her grown more fair.

Thus do we walk with her, and keep unbroken
The bond which nature gives,
Thinking that our remembrance, though unspoken,
May reach her where she lives.

Not as a child shall we again behold her;
For when with rapturous wild
In our embraces we again enfold her,
She will not be a child;

But a fair maiden in her Father's mansion,
Clothed with celestial grace;
And beautiful with all the soul's expansion
Shall we behold her face.

And though at times impetuous with emotion,
And anguish long suppressed,
The swelling heart heaves moaning like the ocean,
That cannot be at rest—

We will be patient, and assuage the feeling
We may not wholly stay;
By silence sanctifying, not concealing,
The grief that must have way.

Miscellany.

The Penitent.

"What is the matter with you, Charley?" said George Mayne, as he returned home from the factory, and found his little brother crying violently on the door step. "What has vexed you, Charley, my boy?"

"Oh!" my father will never forgive me," sobbed the child.

"I cannot think that, he is so good and so kind.—Come, dry up your tears, and tell me what has happened: perhaps I may be able to help you out of your trouble."

It was some time before, soothed by the kindness of his brother, the boy became calm enough to explain the cause of his grief. With a voice, half choked with tears, he began: "Father had sent me to pay the baker,—he had given me a half crown to do it,—he had trusted me, and now it is all—all gone! Oh! father will never forgive me!" and he burst into a fresh agony of sorrow.

"You lost the money did you? Well, father can ill afford it, but he will forgive you for an accident, I am sure."

"But it was not an accident, that is the worst of it! You see, I met Jack and Ben—they were playing at pitch farthing, and they called to me to join them."

"But father has forbidden us to keep company with those idle boys."

"I know it,—but I disobeyed him,—I was very wrong,—and am very miserable."

"I hope you did not join the game?"

"Not at first,—I told them that I had given father my solemn promise never to gamble; but they jeered me, and laughed at me,—and I played with them,—and they got all my money from me,—the half crown, that was not mine, with which I had been trusted,—Oh! father will never forgive me!"

"Now, Charley do you know what I advise you to do?" said George. "Go to father at once confess your fault to him, let not one sin lead you to another."

"Confess to him." I dare not!"

"I will go with you, Charley; I will plead for you."

"But father is so poor;—he will be in debt and he cannot bear that! He will be so angry. Oh! cannot I say that some one snatched the half crown out of my hand?"

"Charley, Charley!" cried his brother, almost sternly, "the Evil one is tempting you: he has gained one victory over you,—would you be his slave entirely? Pray to God for strength to struggle against this temptation: remember that liars have no place in heaven! I will plead for you, I say; and as for the money, I have been saving up pence for the last six months to buy a particular book which I have much wished to have,—I have just enough of money, and will pay the debt."

"Oh! George, how good you are! But if the debt is paid, need I confess?"

"Yes, you have not only lost the money but broken father's command, and broken your own promise. Hide nothing! Take my hand, Charley, and come with me at once; every moment that we delay doing what is right, we add to the difficulty of doing it."

So hand in hand the two brothers appeared before their father, who was resting after a hard days work. George encouraged poor Charley to confess his fault; he entreated forgiveness for the offender; he placed in the hand of his father his own hard earned savings. The parent opened his arms, and pressed both his sons to his heart! Then making Charley sit down beside him, the good man thus addressed his repentant child.

"I forgive you my boy, for the sake of your brother; but there is another Friend whom you have offended, whose commandment you have broken, whose forgiveness you must seek."

"I know that I have sinned against God," said Charley, sadly.

"And for whose sake did your hope to be forgiven?"

Charley looked up in the face of his father and replied, "I hope for forgiveness for the sake of the Lord Jesus Christ."

"And if you are grateful to an earthly brother for pitying you, and pleading for you, and paying your debt, how can you be thankful enough to that heavenly Saviour, who shed His blood to win for you a free pardon, and who now is pleading for you at the right hand of God?"

Charley was silent, but his eyes filled with tears.

"And now, George, my boy, bring me the Bible," said his father; "it is time for our evening reading."

"What part shall I read?" inquired George, reverently opening the sacred book.

"O! let him read of some one who had sinned and was forgiven and poor Charley.

At his father's look of assent, George turned to the touching story of the woman who weeping and penitent, sought for mercy from the Saviour, and found it.

"Behold, a woman in the city, which was a sinner, when she knew that Jesus sat at meat in the Pharisee's house, brought an alabaster box of ointment, and stood at his feet behind him weeping, and began to wash his feet with tears, and did wipe them with the hairs of her head, and kissed his feet, and anointed them with the ointment. Now when the Pharisee which had bidden him saw it, he spake within himself, saying, This man if he were a prophet would have known who and what manner of woman this is that toucheth him: for she is a sinner. And Jesus answering said unto him, Simon, I have somewhat to say unto thee. And he saith, Master say on. There was a certain creditor which had two debtors: the one owed five hundred pence, and the other fifty: And when they had nothing to pay, he frankly forgave them both. Tell me therefore, which of them will love him most? Simon answered and said, I suppose that he to whom he forgave most. And he said unto him, Thou hast rightly judged. And he turned to the woman, and said unto Simon, Seest thou this woman? I entered into thine house, thou gavest me no water for my feet: but she hath washed my feet with tears, and wiped them with the hairs of her head. Thou gavest me no kiss: but this woman since the time I came in hath not ceased to kiss my feet. My head with oil thou didst not anoint; but this woman hath anointed my feet with ointment. Wherefore I say unto you, Her sins, which are many, are forgiven; for she loved much: but to whom little is forgiven, the same loveth little. And he said unto her, Thy sins are forgiven. —Luke vii. 37. 48.

The Value of Five Dollars.

A man named Porter says he once had a clerical friend, between whom and himself there existed great intimacy. Every Saturday night, as Porter was sitting haunting his desk, a note would come requesting "the loan of a five-dollar bill." The money was always returned punctually at eight o'clock on the Monday morning. But what puzzled the lender was, the person also returned the very identical note he borrowed. Since he had discovered this fact, he made private marks on the note; still the same was handed back on Monday morning. On Saturday evening Porter sent a five dollar gold piece instead of a note, and marked it. Still the very same note was returned on the Monday. Porter got nervous and bilious about it; he could not sleep at night for thinking about it, he would wake his wife in the middle of the night, and ask her what she thought of such an occurrence. He was for boiling over with curiosity, when a note came from the Rev. borrower one Christmas eve, asking for the loan of ten dollars. A brilliant thought struck our friend. He put on his great coat, resolving to call and demand an explanation of the mystery. When he was shown into his friend's study he found him plunged into the profoundest melancholy. "Mr——," said our friend, "if you will answer me one question, I will let you have the ten dollars. How does it happen that you always repay me the money you borrow on the Saturday night in the very same coin or note on Monday?" The parson raised his head, and after a violent struggle, as though he were about to unveil the hurtled mystery of his soul, said, in faltering tones:—"Porter you are a gentleman, a scholar, a Christian and a New Yorker; I know I can rely on your inviolable secrecy.

Listen to the secret of my eloquence. You know that I am poor, and when I have brought my Sunday dinner, I have seldom a red cent in my pocket. Now, I maintain that no man can preach the gospel truly and faithfully, and blow up his congregation properly, unless he has something in his pocket to inspire him with confidence. I have, therefore, borrowed five dollars of you every Saturday, that I might feel it occasionally as I preached on Sunday. You know how independently I preach—how I make the roof shake in their sines. Well, it is owing to my knowing that I have a five-dollar bill in my pocket. Of course, never having to use it for any other purpose, it is not changed, but invariably returned to you the next morning. Now, as Mr. G. Law is coming to beat me pencil-to-marrow, I thought I would try the effect of a ten-dollar-bill sermon on him.—Merchants' Magazine.

Looking to Jesus.

The wounded Isra'lite looked to the brazen serpent, and was healed. The crucified sinner looks to Jesus on the cross, and is pardoned. But that is not the only occasion on which he looks to him. The occasions for looking to him are very numerous.

Is he weary with toil, being compelled to labour diligently with his hands in order to secure a supply, and perhaps a scanty supply of his necessary wants? Let him look to Jesus, who was faint and weary, who was an hungered, and who had not where to lay his head.

Is he suffering from the unkindness of foes? Have his motives been misinterpreted and his actions misrepresented? Have friends proven heartless, and his kindness met with cruel ingratitude? Let him look to Jesus, whose words of mercy were ascribed to the chief of devils, whose friends all forsook him in his hour of peril, whose own familiar friends betrayed him, who was nailed to the cross by those on whom he came to confer the highest favours.

Is he beset with sore temptation, assailed by the great enemy of souls? Let him look to Jesus, who experienced the buffetings of Satan, and was tempted in all points like as we are, yet without sin.

Is he wading in the deep waters of affliction? Has sorrow entered his dwelling? Has he to mourn over the departure of the wife of his bosom or the child of his love? Let him look to Jesus, who mourned over the tomb, that he might feel our infirmities; who wept over the grave of Lazarus; and who says to each one of his weeping followers, "Let not your heart be troubled; ye believe in God, believe also in me.

Is he approaching the dark valley of the shadow of death? Does he feel that he must bid farewell to his friends, endure the death-struggle, and stand before his God in judgment? Let him look to Jesus, who has said, "I will never leave thee nor forsake thee,"—who has led the way through the dark valley,—who has deprived death of its sting—who has made atonement for the sins of his people, and presents them faultless before his Father with exceeding joy!

ALWAYS SOMETHING NEW.
Read this—Old and Young!

PROFESSOR WOOD'S HAIR RESTORATIVE is, no doubt, the most wonderful discovery of this age of progress, for it will restore permanently, grey hair to its original color, cure the head of the bald with a most luxurious growth, remove at once all dandruff and itching, cure all scrofula, and other cutaneous eruptions, such as scald head, etc. In all cases, as if by magic, nervous or paralytical headache; make the hair soft, glossy, and curly, and promote the most perfect, and the last thing falling, to extreme old age. The following is from a distinguished member of the medical profession.

St. Peter, January 1, 1855.

Professor O. J. Wood.—Dear Sir:—Gentlemen, I send you this certificate. After being nearly bald for a long time, and having tried all the hair restoratives extant, and having no faith in any, I was induced, on hearing of yours to give it a trial. I placed myself in the hands of a barber, and had my head rubbed with a good stiff brush, and the Restorative then applied and well rubbed in, till the scalp was aglow. This I repeated every morning, and in three weeks the young hair appeared, and grew rapidly from August last till the present time, and is now thick, black and strong—soft and pleasant to the touch; whereas, before it was harsh and wiry, what little there was of it, and that little was disagreeably very tenacious. I will use your Restorative about twice a week, and shall soon have a good and perfect crop of hair. Now, I had read of these things—and who has not? but have not seen brilliant any case where any person's hair was really beautified by any of the hair tonics, etc. of the day: and it really gives me sensations to record the result of my experience. I have communicated your prospectus to others, and it already has a large and general circulation throughout the territory. The people here know its effects, and have confidence in it. The supply you sent us, as wholesale agents for the territory, is nearly exhausted, and daily inquiries are made for it. You deserve credit for your discovery, and I, for one, return you my thanks for the benefit it has done me, for I certainly had despaired long ago of ever obtaining any such result.

Yours, hastily,
J. W. BOND.

[From the Editor of the Real Estate Advertiser.]
Boston, 27 Sudbury-street, March 29, 1856.

Dear Sir,—Having become remarkably quite grey, I was induced, some six weeks since, to try a bottle of your Restorative. I had used less than two bottles, but the gray hairs have all disappeared, and although my hair is not fully attained its original color, yet the process of change is gradually going on, and I am in great hopes that in a short time my hair will be as dark as formerly. I have also been much gratified at the healthy moisture and vigor of the hair, which before was harsh and dry; and it has caused to come out less profusely.

Respectfully yours,
Professor Wood. D. C. M. BUTT.

Chester, Illinois, June 20, 1855.

I have used Professor Wood's Hair Restorative, and have already the wonderful effect. My hair was becoming, as I thought, prematurely grey, but by the use of the "Restorative" it has resumed its original color, and I have no doubt, permanently so.

THE ANGLO SAXON REMEDIES is the only and sure remedy in the cure of Dyspepsia, in all its stages, Indigestion, Biliousness and Liver Complaints, Consumption has been cured by this mighty antidote, and asthma—despite testimony on hand, cannot fail to overcome the most stupendous of the value and efficiency of the Anglo Saxon Medicine. The Album Cathartic has no competitor in all the cases where an active application is required—no matter what the disease is—it has not to be tried. A single trial will convince the most sceptical of its value. Please send the following respectable testimony:—

To Dr. Brodbury Lindsey.

Dear Sir:—I started up Christ-church which I was running from Woodstock to Fredericton, and when I arrived at the latter place I was what I qualify to in any manner of labour; and was under serious apprehension of not being able to do anything for a long period of time. But being persuaded to try a bottle of your Anglo Saxon Liniment, I persevered in their use until effected, and did not again more than one half of it on my chest before I was completely cured. Your cure was the quick, and their's the sensible one. I recommend it to all who may be in the same condition that I was. Your most obedient servant,
D. A. FOOTE.

Dr. Brodbury Lindsey, Sir:—This is to certify that I have been afflicted with Rheumatism in different parts of my body, for two months. After trying different remedies, could find no relief; but after trying one bottle of your Album Ointment, I am perfectly cured, and am able to attend to my business. As I consider it to those afflicted with Rheumatic pains their value to me. I remain, Dear Sir,
Yours most Respectfully,

UNION HOTEL, Union Street, between Charlotte and Sydney streets, south side.—The Proprietor of this Establishment, thankful for favors received during the period he occupied the New Brunswick Hotel, and convinced of the necessity of more and better accommodation for the public, has erected a large and substantial Building in Union Street, capable of accommodating from 70 to 80 Boarders. The House is well ventilated, the dining rooms are large, and every flat is well supplied with water, and also lighted with gas. The proprietor is determined to leave no means untried to merit the patronage of the community. Travellers arriving at night will find the house always open, and ready to receive them, while the convenience and moderate charges will render it substantially the hope of its stranger. The table will be supplied with the best the market affords, and the Proprietor is determined to allow nothing to be wanting to render the comfort of his patrons complete. ☞ Two Livery Stables have been erected for the accommodation of the Union House, where good hostlers always in attendance.

CHOLERA.

A certain cure for this disease may be found in the use of Perry Davis' Vegetable
PAIN KILLER.

St. Louis, Mo.

Dear Sir:—I bit it a days I saw in the public a notice about the value of Davis' Pain Killer, and my experience in using it for cases of the complaint for which it is highly recommended. In April last on your recommendation, I purchased a one dollar bottle of you for pain with which I have long been afflicted, and made use of it on my trip down to New Orleans, with the most gratifying and beneficial effect. On my return trip to this city, the Cholera made its appearance among some of my passengers. I made use of the Pain Killer, having no other remedy on board, and to my surprise and gratification found it gave immediate relief. On my arrival in St. Louis, I called on you and got four large bottles, and actually was my confidence in it as an infallible Cholera remedy, and remarking to you that I wanted to take Cholera remedy on my hook. I made use of the four bottles on my trip to New Orleans and back, for Cholera and some other complaints for which it is recommended, and was with the most astonishing success, when I ordered from you six more one dollar bottle. Since then I have made two more trips to New Orleans and back, and on my previous trip up, I had more than Seventy cases of Cholera on board, when the PAIN KILLER was indiscriminately used with the most astonishing results. In all cases where it was used in time it gave relief in a very short time; and I can with confidence say to the public, that in all the four stages of Cholera, when taken in time, it is in my opinion an infallible remedy; and after a fair trial with it in several works, and for four trips to New Orleans and back, and using it for Cholera and for other complaints for which it is recommended, in consideration whereof would induce me to leave port without a good supply—believing it to be a medicine that no officer of a boat or any family should be without a single day after using one bottle.

J. M. EDGARWELL, Capt. Str. Atlantic.

I most cordially unite with Capt. Edgarwell in recommending Perry Davis' Pain Killer to the public, having myself been severely afflicted with the Cholera, and found relief in a few hours by using the Pain Killer, and have administered it to more than fifty persons attacked with the Cholera, and when used in time, a cure was effected in a few hours, and take pleasure in recommending it to the public as an invaluable medicine, that no individual should be without a single hour.

JOHN N. HOFFINGER, Clerk Str. Atlantic.

Davis' Pain Killer.—The certificates appended from the captain and clerk of the Steamer Atlantic, we know to be genuine, and founded on facts, as the verbally stated in our office the substance of what was published.—[St. Louis Union.

Baker's Point, Clinton Co. N. Y.

Perry Davis—Sir:—The benefits I have received from the use of your invaluable remedy, the Pain Killer, induces me to get a word or praise for it. Experience has convinced me that for Rheumatism, Indigestion, Pain in the Stomach, or any other part of the system, Sprain Chills, Weakness, Common Colds, Hoarseness, Cholera, Cholera Morbus, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Tooth Ache, &c. &c. there is nothing to offer from the Pain Killer. I have this day received from a severe attack of the Sick Headache, using up two tablespoonfuls, taken at thirty minute interval, in a wine glass full of warm water. I am confident that through the blessing of God, it saved me from the cholera during the summer of 1854. Travelling until local, died, full change of diet and constant exposure to an infected atmosphere, are you were was daily predisposed to dysentery, attacks, accompanied with pain' for which the Pain Killer was a sovereign remedy; one teaspoonful curing the same once in an hour, or at most, half a day.—My brother in the ministry have used it with much success in various diseases. I have heard many cases the same as my own, of Dysentery being cured by its use. Put it to the tests, it would stop the teeth-ache.

Gratitude, and a desire for its general use, be drawn from me this unsolicited testimonial in its favor.

DR. TAYLOR, Jr. Minister of the Gospel.

☞ Sold by Holmes & Co., St. John, N. B., and by Druggists and medicine dealers generally.

THE GREATEST MEDICAL DISCOVERY OF THE AGE.—Dr. ARNOLD, of Roxbury, Mass., has discovered in one of our common pasture weeds, a remedy that cures EVERY KIND OF HUMOUR, from the worst Scrofula down to a common Pimple. He has tried it in over eleven hundred cases and never failed except in two cases (both female patients). He has now in his possession over two hundred certificates of its virtues, all within twenty miles of Boston.

Two bottles are warranted to cure a running ulcer mouth.

One to three bottles will cure the worst kind of pimples on the face.

Two to three bottles will clear the system of biles.

Two bottles are warranted to cure the worst canker in the mouth and stomach.

Three to five bottles are warranted to cure the worst case of scrofula.

Two bottles are warranted to cure all humor in the veins.

Two bottles are warranted to cure running of the ears and blotches among the hair.

Four to six bottles are warranted to cure catarrh and running ulcers.

One bottle will cure scaly eruption of the skin.

Two or three bottles warranted to cure the worst case of ringworm.

Two to three bottles are warranted to cure the most desperate case of rheumatism.

Three to six bottles are warranted to cure the salt rheum.

Four to eight bottles will cure the worst case of scrofula.

A benefit is always experienced from the first bottle and a perfect cure is warranted when the above quantity is taken.

Reader, I peddled over a thousand bottles of this is the vicinity of Boston. I know the effects of it in every case. Do not use as water will extinguish fire, so and will this cure disease. I never send a bottle of it to visit and another; after a trial it always speaks for itself. There are two things about this herb that appears to me surprising; first, that it grows in our pastures, in worst places quite plentiful, and yet its value has never been known until I discovered it in 1846—second, that it should cure all kinds of disease.

In order to give some idea of the sudden rise and great popularity of the discovery, I will state that in April, 1846, I peddled it, and sold about six bottles per day: in April, 1856, I sold over one thousand bottles per day of it.

Some of the wholesale Druggists who have been in business twenty and thirty years, say that nothing in the annals of patent medicines was ever like it. There is a universal praise of it from all quarters.

In my own practice I always kept it entirely for internal use, but since its introduction as a general family medicine, great and wonderful cures have been made in it that I never suspected.

Several cases of epileptic fits—a disease which was always considered incurable,—have been cured by it by friends. O, what a mercy it is! will prove effectual in all cases of that awful malady—there are but few who are not more or it than I have.

I know of several cases of Ringer, all of them aged people, cured by it. For the infinite diseases of the Liver, Sick Headache, Dyspepsia, Fulness, Fever and Ague, Pain in the side, Soreness of the Joints, and particularly in diseases of the Kidneys, &c., the discovery has done more good than any medicine ever known.

No change of diet ever necessary. Eat the best you can,
