The Way to Find out Pride.

Hoetry.

Pride, ugly pride, sometimes is seen, In haughty looks and lofty mien; But often'r it is found that pride Loves deep within the heart to hide; And while looks are mild and fair, It sits and does its mischief there Now if you really wish to find If pride be lurking in your mind Inquire if you can bear a slight, Or patiently give up your right. Can you submissively consent To take reproof or punishment, And feel no angry passion start In any corner of your heart? Can you with frankness own a crime, And promise for another time? Nor say you've been in a mistake, Nor try some poor excuse to make But freely own that it was wrong Nor argue for your side so long Flat contradiction can you bear, When you are right and know you are? Nor flatly contradict again, But wait and modestly explain, And tell your reasons, one by one, Nor think of triumph when you've done? Can you in business or in play, Give up your wishes or your way? Or do a thing against your will, for some one who is younger still, And never try to overbear, Or say a word that is not fair? Does laughing at you in a joke, No anger or revenge provoke; No anger or revenge provoke;
But can you iaugh yourself and be
As merry as the company?
Or when you find that you could do
By them as they could do by you,
Can you 'eep down the wicked thought
And do exactly as you ought?
Put all these questions to your heart,
And make it act an honest part;
And when they've each been fairly tried
I think you'll own that you have pride;
Some one will smite you as you go. Some one will smite you as you go, And force your heart to tell you so; But if the whole should be denied, Then you're to proud to own your pride

THE WAY TO CURE PRIDE.

Now I suppose that having tried And found the secret of your pride, You wish to drive it from your heart, And learn to act an honest part. Well are you sorry and sincere? I'll try to help you then, my dear, And first the best and surest way, Is to knell down at once and pray;
The lovely Saviour will attend,
And strengthen you and be your friend
Tell him the mischief that you find Forever working in your mind, And beg his pardon for the past, And strength to overcome at last. But do not go in your own way And think it quite enough to pray; This is but doing half the task, For you must watch as well as ask, You pray for strength, and that is right, But then it must be strength to fight; For where's the use of being strong Unless you conquer what is wrong? Then look within—ask every thought If it be humble as it ought, Put out the smallest spark of pride The very moment 'tis described; And do not stay to think it o'er. For while you wait it blazes more. If it should take you by surprise, And beg you just to let it rise And promise not to keep you long. Say 'No, the smallest pride is wrong,' And when there's something so amiss That pride says, 'take offence : Then if you feel at all inclined To broad upon it in your mind And think revengeful thoughts within And wish it were not wrong to sin O stop at once l for if you dare To wish for siu, that sin is there ! It will then be best to go and pray That God would take your pride away; Or if just then you cannot go Pray in your heart, and God will know; And beg his mercy to impart The best of gifts-a humble heart. Remember, too, that you must pray And watch and labor every day; Nor think it wearisome or hard To be forever on your guard, No-every morning must begin With resolutions not to sin; And every evening recollect How much you've failed in this respect. Ask whether such a guilty heart Should act a proud or humble part, Or since the Saviour was so mild, Inquire if pride becomes a child?

And when all other things are tried Be humble that you've so much pride. The Pasior's Daughter.

So Many Calls.

It was a brisk, clear evening in December. when Mr. A-returned from his counting house to the comfort of a bright coal fire, and warm arm chair, in his parlour at home. He changed his heavy boots for slippers, drew around him the folds of his evening gown, and then, lounging back in the chair, looked up to the ceiling, and about, with an air of satisfaction. Still there was a cloud on his brow. What could be the matter with Mr. A---? To tell the truth, he had that afternoon received in his counting-room, the agent of one of the principal religious charities of the day, and had been warmly urged to double his last year's subscription; and the urging had been pressed by statements and arguments to which he did not know well how to reply. 'People think,' soliloquized he to himself, 'that I am made of mouey. I belive. This is the fourth object this year for which I have been requested to double my subscription; and this year has been one of heavy family expenses-building and fitting up this house-carpets, curtains - no end to the things to be bought-I really do not see how I am to give a cent more in charity. Then there are the bills for the girls and boys-they al! say they must have twice as much as before we came into this house. Wonder if I did right in building it? And Mr. A-glanced up and down the ceiling, and around on the costly furniture, and looked into the fire in silence. He was tired, barrassed, and drowsy; his head began to swim his eyes closed-he was asleep. In his sleep he thought he heard a tap at the door; he opened it, and there stood a plain, poor looking man, who in a voice singularly low and sweet asked for a few moments conversation with him. Mr. A-asked him into the parlour, and drew him a chair near the fire. The stranger looked attentively around, and then, turning to Mr. A-, presented him with a paper. 'It is your last year's subscriptions,' aid he. 'You know all of the wants of that ause that can be told you. I called to see if you had anything more to add to it.'

This was said in the same low and quiet voice as before; but for some reason, unaccountable to himself, Mr. A-was more embarrassed by the plain, poor, unpretending man, than he had ever been in the presence of any one before. He was for some moments silent, before he could reply at all, copt by means of a file; and with the chains,

PROFESSOR WOOD'S HAIR RESTO-IT HAS WORKED MIRACLES!

THAT ALL THE BALD AND GRAY CAN BE RESTORED PERFECTLY to original growth, and color so far as their locks are concerned does not admit of doubt; besides t will cure every possible disease of the scalp, whether dereloped as dandruff itching or in the shape of cutaneous er, pions—even scald-head—and in no possible case will it fail in guring as if by magic, nervous or periodical head-ache, and f used twice a week by the young regularly, it will preserve the color, and keep the hair from falling, to any imaginable age. Read and judge.

PROF. O. J. WOOD—Dear Sir; I take pleasure in bearing voluntary testimony to the magic effects of your wonderful thair Restorative. As far back as 1806, my hair commenced talling off, and: the top of my scalp became hald and smooth as glass, and it has continued to fall for a great many years, not withstanding I have used many celebrated preparations for restoration. Seeing your advertisement I wat induced to give your article a trui, and to my utter astonishment, found, after a few applications, that my hair became finding set, and assumed a glossy and beautiful appearance; and by the time I had used a quart bottle, my build head was covered over with a young and vigorous growth of hair, which is now from one to two inches in length, and growing fast.

Yours, truly,

HENRY GOODRICH.

Gents:—Nothing but a duty and sympathy that I feel to communicate to others that are afficied as I have been, would induce me to give this public ack nowledgement of the bene it I have received from Prot. Wood's Hair Restorative When I first commenced using it, my hair was quite gray, and in spots entirely bald. I have how used the Restorative about five months, and my hair is entirely changed to its ori ginal color, brown, and the new hair is over three inches in length on the spots where it was bald. I have also been much gratified at the healthy moisture and vigor of the hair, which before was dry, and it has ceased to come out as for merly. Respectfully yours, &c., Mrs. R. A. STODDARD.

Gents:—At your request, and being so highly pleased with the effects of the Restorative, I am free to state that my hair ind become quite thin, and entirely wattre. I have for the last five years been in the habit of using dye, but hearing of the extraordinary effects of this article, I was induced to try it. My hair has been restored to its original thickness, and also to its former color, which is light brown.
Yours respectfully, MRS. INGALLS.

The following is from the Paster of the Ortho lox Church. The fo lowing is from the Pastor of the Ortho lox Church. Brookfield.

Prof. Wood—Dear Sir—Having stade trial as your Hair Restorative, it gives me pleasure to say, that its effects have been excellent in removing inflammation, dandruff, and a constant tendency to itching, with which I have been troubled from my childhood, and has also restored the hair, which was becoming gray, to its original color. I have used no other article, with anything like the same pleasure and profit.

Yours, truly,

(From the Jersey City Telegraph.)

What is it for—This Wood's Hair Restonative?—Is a question asked daily by hundreds. We answer without hesitation or fear of contradiction, that it is the only article known which will do all it promises for the human hair. It will renew its growth—it will stop its failing—it will restore its natural color? It is not a Hair Dye, but a speedy and efficacious Kestorative.

Three to four bottles are warranted to cure the sa t rhem. Fve to a bottles will cure the worst case of scrofula.

A benefit is always experienced from the first bottle suit perfect cure is warranted when the above quantity is take. Reader, I peddied over a thousand bottles of this in the vicinity of Boston. I know the effect of it in every case. In some as water will extinguish fire so sure will this cure in most. I never sold a bottle of it but that sold another the attributes a trial it always speaks for itself. There are two that about this herb that appears to me surprising; first, that are will extinguish fire so sure will entitle, and it is value has never been known until I discovered it in its value has never been known until I discovered it in its value has never been known until I discovered it in its value has never been known until I discovered it in Second, that it should cure all kinds of humor. In order to give some idea of the sudden rise and groupularity of the discovery, I will state that in April, iss. I not over one thousand bottles per day of it.

Some of the wholesale Druggissis who have been in bet ness twenty and thirty years, say that nothing in the annot of patient medicines was ever like it. There is a universil praise of it from all quarters.

In my own practice I always kept it strictly for humor lut since its introduction as a general family medicine, an and wonderful virtues have been found in it that I never so pected.

Several cases of epileptic fits—a disease which was always.

nind wonderful virtues have been found in it that I never spected.

Several cases of epileptic fits—a disease which was alway considered incurable, have been cured by a few bottles. What a mercy if it will prove effectual in all cases of it awful malady—there are but few who have seen more of than I have.

I know of several cases of Dropsy, all of them aged people (ured by it. For the various diseases of the Liver, Stilleadache, Dyspepsia, Ashma, Fever and Ague, Prais in Side, Diseases of the Spine, and particularly in diseases the kidneys, &c., the discovery has done more good than y medicine ever known.
