

Boston, Feb. 14th, 1857.

We have another sad instance of the effects of intemperance in the death of Mrs. Cunningham of Newton, who was frozen to death while under the influence of liquor, on Tuesday last, at the woods not far from the road. She leaves seven children orphans, the father having been killed in a paper mill two years ago.

Another, the death of Mrs. Rosebrook, who died in this city from suffocation while in a state of intoxication on Monday last, 9th Feb.

Our eminent Judge has passed away, Judge Benson, an acute lawyer and fond of a joke on a Bench. This was a habit which he often indulged to excess, and on matters which did not rest at it. There is something in the British adage, which, now at all events, dislikes even to recognize any semblance of levity on the seat of justice. To the list of the departed must also be added Rev. Dr. Medhurst, the celebrated Chinese copies of the Debates will consequently be forthcoming. It was also ordered that copies of the Journals be published. Several of the members complained that it was late in the season when the Journals were published, and they wished to have them sent to them. The Clerk of the House explained that the delay was caused by the fact that the Journals were not printed until after the session. It was ordered that 250 copies of the Journals be printed and sent to the members. The House then adjourned.
