

A BAND OF VILLAINS.—A few weeks since, two noted counterfeiters were killed on the railroad in Pennsylvania, the night following that on which they had committed an extensive robbery in Middletown, Ct. Mrs. Clarke, the wife of one of them, who identified the bodies, excited much suspicion by her singular conduct at the inquest. She was detected in abstracting from them and concealing a large quantity of chemicals, dyes and counterfeit plates, which indicated that she was a partner in their schemes of outwary. Her goods were seized; besides the large amount of counterfeit gold coins and all the materials for such a business on the grandest scale, papers were found which revealed the existence of an organized outwary band of villains, extending through all the States in the Union, and calculated to carry on operations on a scale unsurpassed, the names of over thirty members have become known, embracing some very prominent lawyers and physicians.—Their headquarters seem to have been in Northumberland county, in Pennsylvania.

Two men have just been picked up at the foot of the cataraict. Disjointed limbs and mangled forms showed the awfulness of the leap they had taken. Their unlucky fate is an impressive comment upon Sabbath-breaking. A little more than a week since, a party of young men in Buffalo set out on a Sunday pleasure excursion, upon Lake Erie. When quite a distance from shore, a gale sprang up, and in spite of every effort the boat was capsized and three of the party were drowned. The two bodies just rescued from the angry waters, were of that unfortunate party. True, they might have been drowned upon any other day. The wind might have arisen upon Monday or any other day. But not unfrequently are Sabbath-breakers reminded most significantly, that God hath said, "Remember the Sabbath day and keep it holy."—Niagara Correspondent to the Morning Star.

FAREWELL ADDRESS OF JOHN B. GOUGH.—Mr. John B. Gough is about to leave this country for England, to enter upon a three years' course of lectures. At Mechanics' Hall, Worcester, as we learn from the Transcript of that city, there was a large attendance last evening to listen to a parting address from him. Mr. Barton called the meeting to order, and made a few introductory remarks. Mr. Gough, on rising to speak, alluded to his birth into the cause of temperance. Sixteen years ago he wandered through the streets of Worcester, homeless, and friendless, with no hope in life but that of the wicked, which perishes. At that time he met in Main Street, by a person whose manner neutralized his rough, honest words. "That man placed confidence in me, and I gave him my promise to sign the pledge, and I kept it. That man was Joel Stratton, and he is at my right hand here to-night." At the close of the address, Mr. Gough spoke with deep feeling of the recent recovery of the old Bible his mother gave him, and to which his audiences have so often heard him allude. Some fifteen years ago, he lost it in a grocery in Bristol, R. I. And a few weeks since it was accidentally found in the corner of an old attic, where it was probably thrown at the time. Having Mr. Gough's name, in his mother's hand, it was recognized, and restored to him through the agency of the daughter of the late Rev. Dr. John O. Choules.—Am. Paper.

At a late session of a Methodist conference in Maine, the following preamble and resolution on the subject of tobacco were adopted.

Whereas, the use of tobacco prevails to a prodigious extent in our country, as indicated in the reports of our national treasury and other authentic documents, from which it appears that over one hundred million pounds of this article are consumed in the United States annually, at a cost to the consumers of over $20,000,000; and whereas, we have reason to believe that its use is rapidly increasing, and that even ministers of the Gospel are becoming to a great extent guilty of this debasing indulgence; therefore,

1. Resolved, That we view these facts as a matter of profound alarm, and such an evil as to demand the serious attention of the church.

2. Resolved, That we regard the use of tobacco as an expensive and needless indulgence, unfavourable to cleanliness and good manners, unbecoming in Christians, and especially in Christian ministers; and like the use of alcohol, a violation of the laws of physical, intellectual and moral life.

Resolved, That we discontinue the use of this injurious narcotic—except as a medicine prescribed by a physician—by precept and example, and by all other proper means.

SCARLET FEVER AND SMALL POX.—Dr. Wm. Fields of Wilmington, Delaware, gives publicity to the following recipe, which, he says, if faithfully carried out, will cure forty-five cases out of fifty:

Scarlet Fever.—For adults, give one tablespoonful of good brewer's yeast in three table-spoonfuls of sweetened water, three times a day; and if the throat is much swollen, gargle with yeast, and apply to the throat as a poultice, mixed with Indian meal. Use plenty of cruet tea, to keep the eruptions out on the skin, for several days.

Small Pox.—Use the above doses of yeast three times a day, and a milk diet throughout the entire disease. Nearly every case can be cured, without leaving a pock mark.

THE BREWERIES OF PHILADELPHIA.—The Philadelphia Ledger gives the following statistics of breweries in that city:—There are in Philadelphia nine breweries devoted exclusively to the making of ale and porter, and the amount brewed each week is about 4,600 casks, or 138,000 gallons. The barley used in the making of malt is grown principally in New York and Canada, and costs about $1.60 per bushel when delivered in Philadelphia, and after being made into malt is worth $2 per bushel. The annual consumption of barley in the city is estimated at 600,000 bushels, besides 350,000 pounds of hops, which are worth 15 cents per pound. The number of casks of ale and porter made annually is some 250,000, which sell at an average of $7 each. The cost of the barley and hops alone consumed will amount to over one million dollars.

The Indian War at Spirit Lake—One of the Captives in Dayton—Her Narrative of her Captivity and Deliverance.

We enjoyed yesterday the pleasure of an interesting conversation with Mrs. Marble, late from Spirit Lake, the scene of the Indian robbery and massacre. Mrs. Marble is the widow of a man who was known by many persons in Dayton, having formerly worked for LaDow and Hamilton, of this city. He had for years been an intimate friend of Mr. LaDow, who describes him as an intelligent, well disposed, hard working man. Some time in the last autumn he took up a tract of land on Spirit Lake, which is a sheet of water about thirty miles long stretching from North to South, through Dickinson county, near the extreme North West corner of Iowa. He built a cabin on his claim close to the Lake and lived there with his wife through the winter. They were three miles from the nearest neighbors, a family by the name of Thatcher, living down the Lake in a Southernly direction.

During the whole winter the scarcity of food had made the Indians troublesome, as they were in desperate straits, and whenever supplies were lacking, would crowd around the white settlements until importunity had extracted what they needed. On Thursday the 12th of March, an Indian who had been on friendly terms with Marble's family called at his house (as near as Mr. Marble, with her imperfect knowledge of the knowledge of the language could make out), told them that the white people on the Lake had all been killed (killed) a day or two previously. This aroused the suspicions of the Marbles, and none the less that the great depth of the snow made it almost impossible to get out and ascertain the truth of the story. The next day (the 13th) they early in the forenoon, four Indians came to Marble's house and were admitted. Their demeanour was so friendly as to disarm all suspicion. They proposed to swap rifles with Marble and the terms were soon agreed upon.

After the swap, the chief suggested that they should go out on the Lake and shoot at a mark. Marble assented. After a few discharges they turned to come in the direction of the house, when the savages allowed Marble to get a few paces ahead, and immediately shot him down. Mrs. Marble, who was looking out of the cabin, saw her husband fall and immediately ran to him. The Indians seized her and told her that they would not kill her but would take her with them.

They carried her in triumph to the camp, whither they had previously taken three other white ladies, Mrs. Noble, Mrs. Thatcher and Miss Gardner, with whose names our readers are probably already familiar. From this time forward, for two months and a half, Mrs. Marble and her companions were exposed to almost every species of outrage, harshness and cruelty. The savages made her and her fellow sufferers carry their "plunder" while they rode lazily along on horses, recognized by the white woman as once having been the property of their fathers and husbands. Whenever one of the poor captives sank under the length of the way or the weight of her pack, her energies were stimulated by beating or a significant threat to blow out her brains. The course pursued by the Indians was a very zig-zag one. They went North, South, East and West, as they were invited by the hopes of plunder or deterred by the fear of American soldiers. They would travel fifteen, twenty, sometimes even as much as thirty miles a day.

Their journey was marked by continual outbreaks of their cruel and blood thirsty disposition. They killed the infant children of Mrs. Noble and Mrs. Thatcher by dashing their brains out against logs of wood. Subsequently Mrs. Thatcher herself, being so reduced in consequence of child birth as to be of no service to her tormentors, was brutally murdered by these fiends in red skins. They made their first attempt to dispatch her by pushing her into the water as they were crossing the Sioux on a log bridge. This did not succeed however, as she swam ashore in safety. They then killed her with their rifles.

In this way, on foot heavily burdened, through the deep snow and the severe cold for which the late spring will long be remembered, Mrs. Marble and her surviving companions were made to travel some four hundred miles, till, at the end of their journey, they found themselves at one of the rendezvous of their captors, about a hundred and forty miles west of Spirit Lake. Here she was found and purchased by some friendly Indians, from whom she was subsequently ransomed by the whites.—Dayton Daily Gazette.

EUROPEAN.

Four Days Later from Europe.

Boston, July 20th.

The steamships Atlantic and Vanderbilt arrived at New York yesterday.

The three Republican candidates had been elected at Paris.

The French Emperor and Empress would shortly visit Queen Victoria at Osborne, but without the slightest delay.

The Earl of Mornington had died suddenly.

The Telegraph Cable was rapidly being shipped.

Markets.—Consols closed on Tuesday at 92½ to 92¾.

Cotton unchanged.

Breadstuffs continued dull. Western Canal Flour quoted at 30s 6d a 31s. 6d.; Red Wheat 8s 6d.; mixed and yellow 36s a 36s 6d. No quotable change in other markets.

DREADFUL CATASTROPHE AT LEHIGH.—A terrible catastrophe occurred at Lehigh on the 7th. Upwards of three thousand persons were assembled in the Theatre degli Aquidotti, to witness the representation of the taking of Sebastopol, when suddenly one of the rockets let off to imitate the bombardment set fire to the side scenes. A sudden panic seized the public; and the people in the pit rushed to the doors, and many of those who were in the boxes and galleries attempted to save themselves by jumping into the pit. The carmen vainly attempted to stem the current by assuring the people that there was sufficient time for all to go out quietly; many being frightened out of their senses, threw themselves out of the windows, although the British Consul, Mr. Macbean, had caused ladders to be placed at some of them. This disaster is the more to be regretted that there really was no occasion for such a panic, the fire being got under almost immediately afterwards, before it had time to spread.

A Lehigh paper says, 62 people were killed. The Post's Florence correspondent repeats that more than 150 persons were killed, and double the number wounded.

A most delightful meeting of Christians of various denominations was recently held at Lambeth Palace, the residence of the Archbishop of Canterbury. Churchmen, Baptists, Wesleyans and Congregationalists there met for Christian fellowship. The company was called to meet with those brethren who had been to Prussia to make arrangements for holding at Berlin the meeting of the Evangelical Alliance in September. The Bishop of Ripon read a portion of scripture, and offered prayer. The Archbishop of Canterbury then stated, that they met as Christians, on a subject of common interest, connected with their common faith. When Paul and Barnabas returned from Asia, the apostles came together to hear their report; and it was for a similar purpose that this meeting had been called to hear from Christian brethren the state of religion on the Continent. The Rev. J. C. Glyn, Episcopal, and Rev. Dr. Steane, Baptist, gave an account of their visit, after which an interesting conversation took place, in which the Archbishop, Sir C. Eardley, the Dean of Canterbury, and others took part. The Rev. W. M. Bunting, Wesleyan, closed the meeting with prayer, and the Archbishop pronounced the benediction.—M. Witness.

The Rev. C. H. Spurgeon's service at the Surrey Music Hall on Sunday was attended by 11,000 persons, among whom were Sir E. Buxton, M.P., Lord and Lady Bagot, Right Hon. Joseph Napier, M.P., Marchioness of Sligo and wife, Colonel Maddox, M.P., Lady Compton, Lord Mansfield, Lady Paxton, Sir Robert Peel, Bart., Sir George Strickland. Mr. Spurgeon preached from Ezek. xxxvi. 37, on prayer, its nature and the ways in which it was the prelude of blessing. He prefaced his sermon by an energetic appeal for petitions to Parliament in support of Lord Campbell's Bill for the suppression of impure publications.

HUGH MILLER.—Government has marked its sense of the services rendered to science by the late Hugh Miller by bestowing upon his widow an annuity of $350.—Edinburgh Times.

SPURGEON JUNIOR.—The Rev. J. A. Spurgeon, younger brother of the famed Spurgeon, appeared in Boston on Sunday last. He preached two sermons in the Corn Exchange Hall, on behalf of the Zion Chapel, West street. At the morning service the immense hall was crowded to excess, and on the preacher making his appearance a sensation of surprise at his youthful appearance seemed to pervade the audience; his age is said to be seventeen years. He took the text of his sermon from I John iii. 1, 2. His distinct utterance, fluency of speech, and earnestness of soul, together with the graceful ease and dignity of all his movements, are qualifications calculated to excite an extraordinary amount of interest in favour of a preacher of his early years. The younger Spurgeon's style of speaking possesses nothing in common with that of his brother, but in command of language and the choice of words he is, though but still a student, at the very least equal to his brother.—Lincolnshire Times.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS.—The use is not more necessary in new settlements than in the wonderful medicine, which cures with rapidity and ease all the diseases of the stomach and the bowels, which paralyze industry in the healthy organs, and which, in the hands of the manufacturer, is sold in New York, and No. 34 Strand, London, and at all druggists, at 2s 6d, 1s 6d, and 1s per box.

It is fully sufficient for a protracted course when relief may be so easily obtained. Winter's Balsam of Wild Cherry is undoubtedly the most reliable of all preparations offered for the cure of throat and lung complaints.

A GREAT MEDICINE.—No medicine ever offered to the public has gained so universal and signal success as Forry's Vegetable Pain Killer. It is a sure cure for all kinds of pain. Try it and thank us for the suggestion. Sold by all druggists and chemists.

ARTHUR.—It is useless to describe the tortures of Spasmodic Asthma. Those who have suffered from this distressing paroxysm know full well what it is. Forry's Vegetable Pain Killer, prepared by Joseph Forry & Co., Trenton, N.J., has cured many cases of this disease, and is a most reliable remedy, and frequently it has effected permanent cures.

Improvement in Writing.

The following certificate of the efficiency of Mr. R. S. Benson's method of penmanship has been handed to us for publication. We have seen Mr. R. S. Benson's exercises, and we do believe the method to be the most perfect of any yet introduced to public notice. We should be glad to see some encouragement given to Mr. B., and an effort made to introduce the system into our public schools.

CERTIFICATE.

The undersigned having visited Mr. R. S. Benson's writing class, at the Ball Room of the St. John Hotel, on Thursday evening last, are satisfied that he can impart his system of penmanship in one evening; and that we have no hesitation in stating that we consider it well calculated to secure freedom and ease of style, and recommend it to the favourable consideration of the public.

Wesleyan Bazaar.

THE Ladies of the Wesleyan Congregation in Digby, intend holding a BAZAAR, on Thursday, the 3rd inst., for the purpose of raising funds for the erection of the new Church on a course of building. The Bazaar will be engaged on that day to bring a Pleasure Party from St. John. The Steamer "Experiment" will bring another Pleasure Party from Bridgewater, Antigonish, and the intermediate landings, giving the friends an opportunity to visit the Bazaar. A large attendance is respectfully solicited.

Digby, 12th July, 1857.

BIRTH OF A RICH MAN.—A merchant of Lincolnton, in North Carolina, informs me that recently one of his sons was seized with a violent attack of cholera, from the effects of which he suffered most dreadfully. The family physician called to see him, and found him lying on his back, his face as white as paper, and his pulse scarcely perceptible. He immediately commenced the administration of the medicine, and in a few minutes the patient was restored to consciousness. He then informed me that he had been seized with the same complaint, and that he had been cured by the same medicine. He then informed me that he had been cured by the same medicine. He then informed me that he had been cured by the same medicine.

What, or Which is the Best Vermifuge or Worm Destroyer?
