On Friday upwards of fifty children were nearly poisoned by eating small French nuts, which had been inadvertently thrown into Temple-lane, Dublin, from the stores of Messrs. Magan, corn merchants. The ill effects of the berries did not appear for some time after the children had eaten them, when they were attacked with symptoms resembling Asiatic cholera. The police had upwards of forty sufferers conveyed to the Mercers' and Jarvis-street Hospitals, while the remainder were treated at the houses of their parents. By the use of the stomach pump, and active medicines, the children were all declared out of danger before midnight. It is stated that the nuts contains a large proportion of oil, and if eaten in moderation, as they are in France, are not attended with unpleasant consequences.—Christian Times.

REPORTED ATTEMPT TO ASSASSINATE THE VICEROY OF EGYPT.—A report has reached this island to the effect that an attempt had been made on the life of the Viceroy by one of the fanatical party, who was discovered in his Highness's chamber under his bed. No explanation could be got from the would-be assassin, further than that God had sent him there. He was immediately taken out and decapitated. Four thousand stand of arms, with a large quantity of gunpowder, is said to have been discovered in one of the mosques at Cairo.—[Malta Times.]

SINGULAR COINCIDENCE.—Cherbourg was captured by a British fleet, under Lord Howe, Aug. 5, 1758; and on the 5th of Aug. 1858, an English squadron of which a grandson of Lord Howe, (Rear-Admiral Fremantle) is second in command, conveyed the Queen of England to the same port to dine with the Emperor of the French.

CONVERTS FROM ROME AT LIVERPOOL.—A few days ago a whole family of Roman Catholic converts consisting of father, mother, and seven children were received into the communion of the Church of England by the Rev. Dr. Taylor, at St. John's Church. They are highly respectable and intelligent.—[Liverpool Courier.]

CONVERSATIONS FROM ROMANISM.—A Ballymena correspondent informs us that four respectable Roman Catholics of that neighbourhood have just embraced the Presbyterian religion.—“Banner of Ulster.”

THE SISTERS OF MERCY have been prohibited from visiting the Liverpool workhouse on the ground of their having been found tampering with the religious predilections of the children.

The son of a Jewish Rabbi in Amsterdam, in an attempt to assassinate the Rev. Mr. S. Chwartz, Free Church Missionary to the Jews, has inflicted on him a severe, but not fatal wound with a knife.

Mahomedan Fanaticism.

It is very evident, says the New York Observer, that the spirit of fanaticism is rampant throughout the Mahomedan population. We do not doubt that the Turkish government will do all in its power to restrain and subdue it, but the government is weak, and the extremes of the Empire is powerless. The London religious press look upon these events as the beginning of the end. The Christian Times says:

“The massacre of the Christian population at Jeddah, by the infuriate Mussulmans, has excited great indignation this week, and attracted attention as an awful fact, but as a symptom of a spreading danger. For a long time past the Christian population of Syria have been under the apprehension of suffering from the surrounding Mahommedans the treatment the English have undergone in India; secret agents are exciting the Mussulmans, and even in Cairo the destruction of Christians is preached. This, together with the affair at Montenegro, and the agitation in Candia, are the threatening symptoms of a malady difficult to heal—inevitable fanaticism. It will doubtless greatly influence the Conferences now meeting in Paris. Is the Sultan to lead his people or is he to be chained to the past? Whether the stern revenge which probably the British and French Governments will think it proper to take on the people of Jeddah, and their firm support of the Sultan's liberal plans, will induce the Mussulmans under his sway to submit to progress and liberality, it is hard to foresee. Progress and liberty are too often watered with the best blood of the countries in which they eventually flourish.”

The Patriot holds such language as this: “The restlessness of the who e Mohammedan world during the last few years is not the least important, or the least significant feature of modern times. It is impossible to trace the spread of this infection, the simultaneousness with which it has manifested itself, and the uniformity of the conduct it has produced, without being driven from the notion that these successive events are but coincidences of an accidental character. That the first of enthusiasm should be suddenly kindled on the shores of the Bosphorus and in the valley of the Ganges, that it should animate the zeal of the troops at Gianghevo, and inspire the fanaticism of the rebels at Lucknow, are something more than ordinary coincidences. It is obvious that some general feeling, created by the circumstances of the time, has roused Islam from its long slumber to do something in the spirit of the fiery fanaticism of its early days. The fact is, Mahomedanism is fast coming to its last gasp. As a creed of the ignorant, it may possibly survive for ages, since experience has proved that there is no faith which renders its votaries so impervious to the arguments of the Christian teacher. But as a Power it is fast ceasing to be. The sword its grand missionary weapon, has fallen from its grasp; its champions have one by one been swept away before a mightier Power, and its own forces, in the great race of progress and civilization, have miserably failed it, and left it hopelessly in the rear.”

PROSPECTS OF THE ENGLISH IN INDIA.—The rebels are giving up their own leaders to the British, or turning their arms against each other in the hope of securing, at the eleventh hour, some favourable consideration at the hands of the conquerors. The Monville of Lucknow has met with his death by native hands. It is even said that Nana Sahib himself has been given up. These indications of despair, conviction, repentance, or terror, are important in the extreme, and inspire us with the hope that the revolutionaries, after having been incessantly beaten for so many months to together, are at length becoming impressed with the fact, and disposed to apply the moral.

NAPLES, JULY 30.—The King has pardoned seven of the convicts of Spari who had been sentenced to die. The capital punishment of Nicotra and two others has been commuted into one of penal servitude for life, that of four others into 25 years compulsory labour in chains. The sentence of the Court does not say a word about the English and Sardinian subjects.

At present, I am in a position to increase my subscription, and to raise money on mortgage, or by preference shares; but it requires that no sale by private contract should take place without the consent of a public meeting of the shareholders.—[London Freeman.]

THE GREAT EASTERN.—Yesterday afternoon, a meeting of the shareholders of the Great Eastern Steam Navigation Company was held to receive a report from the Directors. This report proved to be a recommendation that the Great Eastern should be sold by public auction, and that power should also be vested in the hands of the directors to sell her by private contract. After considerable discussion, a resolution, embodying the suggestions of the report, in a modified form, was adopted by a large majority. The resolution authorised the directors to offer the ship for sale by public auction if negotiations failed, and also to raise money on mortgage, or by preference shares; but it required that no sale by private contract should take place without the consent of a public meeting of the shareholders.—[London Freeman.]

GEOFFREY V. LEES.—The plaintiff's bill of costs has been tried off on the ground of irrelevance, witnesses, &c., leaving upwards of £555 for which Mr. Gough has obtained immediate execution on the representation that Dr. Lees was about to leave for America. The defendant's bill of costs, so that £1200 has been expended. Mr. Kenneth Macaulay, the barrister, has a letter, explicitly contradicted the assertion of Dr. Lees that in the recent trial he consented to a verdict without the authority of his client. He advised Dr. Lees, he says, to withdraw from the case, but he conceded he was not provided with anything like adequate proof for the purpose of his defence.
