Oft the nights of sorrow reign-Weeping, sickness, sighing, pain; But at night thine anger burns-Morning comes and joy returns! God of comforts! bid me show To thy poor, how much I owe. -R. M. MCCHEYNE

The King's Messenger.

Jefery Hayes was a person of considerable importance in his little neighbourhood, for not only was he the champion of every malcontent who braved a quarrel, and resolved to fight it out with the cffender, but he had the first and surest news in days when armed horsemen did the work now performed by rail and telegraph, and when gossips bursting with impatience, rushed to the black smith's forge to hear from his lips the last report left behind by some galloping rider, who had been detained while his horse was shod.

Jeffry did not fail to make the most of such opportunities; and at a time when insurrection had disturbed a portion of the king's dominions, he was in the height of village pcpularity, dispensing news, and leading politics, and enjoying the well-earned distinction of being known as the best craftsman of his kind, and the most loyal, to be found on the great London road.

One dark evening as usual the bright fire from the smith of Jeffry Hays flung its ruddy glow across the highway, the sounds of labour had ceased, and several idle villagers were laughing round their oracle until he should think proper to put out his fire, and adjourn with them to the nearest ale house. The smith himself, with broad shoulders and muscular arm, was flourishing his great hammer to the eager narrative of an angry youth, who was telling of an insult he wished to avenge and was enlisting the pugnacious sympathies of his athletic friend, who praised his courage and promised all honourable assistance or the occasion.

" Ay, I was sure you would stand by me and see justice done,' said the obliged challenger.

'That will I,' said Hayes warmly. 'Fix time and place, and I'll be there to the mi nute, if the high sheriff himself, on his majesty's errand, brought his horse to be shod, as no one but Jeffry Hayes can do i'. But hark ! here comes a horseman, and I hear by the footfall there's work to be done yet. Stand by, my lads, and let the gentleman ride straight in.'

In a few seconds more a horseman rode up and asked if a lost shoe could be replaced at once.

'Just in time, sir,' said Jeffry, steppin forward, and lifting the hoof, while the rider dismounted, and, leaning against the doorpost, surveyed by firelight the several persons in the shed. 'You've ridden hard and far, sir,' remarked the smith, as he proceeded to work.

Reader, has this message of pardon, ful and unconditional, through the mercy of God 'I thank you, heartily, for good speed and in Christ Jesus our Lord, been bronght to good work,' said the stranger, placing the you charge in the hands of the smith, 'and I pray Many messengers bear it, and by various that, by the operation of the grace of God means, yet it may be you have never heard upon your heart, your feet may soon be shod before. Second, that it should cure all kinds of humor.

 In order to give some idea of the sudden rise and grea opularity of the discovery, I will state that in April, 1853, I peddled it, and sold about six bottles per day : in April, 1854
 I sold over one thousand bottles per day of it.

Alarming Signs of Sickness. A Prediction of a Sickly Summer.

W E refer our readers to the following extract from a medical journal known as the Moving World, published by Radway & Co., the inventors of the celebrated R. R. R. remedies. Dr. Radway's experience in the treatment of malorious and infectious diseases n touly in our own country, but in South America and the West Indies, and the wonderful achievements of his Ready Relief, both as a preventative and cure of Yellow Fever, Cholera, and other diseases of a violent character, entitles his prediction to the serious consideration of the people. It is well known in this City that in 1849 Radway's Ready Relief was the most successful remedy employed i: the treatment of Cholera, and that in 1853, when Yellow Fever raged in its most violent form in the State of Mississippi, Dr. Fred B Page, with the use of this remedy, gained a complete victory over the pestile...ce. We therefore recommend our readers to the perusal of the following article from the May number of the Moving World number of the Moving World: An ALABM-FORESHADOWING OF TERFIBLE SICKNESS-PREVALENCE OF MALARIOUS DISEASES.—As guardins of the public health, it is our duty to give the alarm when we dis-cover the approach of dangerous maindides, calculated to create a general panic by the production of universal sick-ness, disease and death. We are convinced that dangers of the most terrible character, in the form of sickness and di-sease will visit the greater portion of our country the com-ing summer and fall, in the form of Flux, Yellow Fever, Dysentery, Fever and Ague, Cholera, Ship Fever, Diar-rhœa, Typhoid Fever, Billious Fever, Cholera Aorbus, Con-gestive Fevers and sickness of a more mold and less malig-nant character, such as Billiousness, Cramps, sudden atnant character, such as Billionsness, Cramps, sudden at-tacks of Vomiting, Head-aches, Looseness of the Bowels, Rush of Biood to the Head, Chills and Fever, Dumb Ague, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, Rheumatism, Neural-

'Yes; and must farther still before I rest,' replied the stranger.

'Important business on hand, I suppose, sir,' said Jeffry.

'Very. I am a king's messenger, an must not loiter on my way.'

If hammer could speak, that of Jeffry Hayes would have borne witness to the right loyal grasp of it's master's powerful hand, as he swung it with increased vehemence and precision on hearing this intelligence.

. Good news at court, I hope, sir,' said he pompously.

"The very best. A free pardon for all the rebels.'

"A free pardon !' exclaimed all at once, "What ! after all they have said and done ?"

' Free, unconditional pardon,' repeated the travel'er, 'except it be considered a condition that they accept it.'

"They can't surely, but do that,' exclaimed Jeffry; 'the very thought of such cle. mency ought to make them lay down their arms, and be true subjects for the rest of t heir lives.'

"Yet, strange to say, that the fact, though quite certain, does not do it.'

. What, are they going on in rebellion in the face of parden, and with no hope, either, of success to their cause at last?'
