So much reserve, when Sardinia is concerned, would be to forget our most essential interests. It is not the conformation of the ground which, on this side, commands one of the frontiers of France ; the passes of the Alps are not in our hands, aud it is most important for us that the key should be kept at Turin, and at Turin only. French considerations, but which are also European considerations, as long as respect of the rights and of the legitimate interests of the Powers will continue to serve as a guide to their eciprocal relations-these considerations, I say, do not allow the Emperor's Government to hesitate upon the line of policy it ought to follow when a State so considerable as Austria uses threatening language towards Piedmont, and openly prepares to dictate laws to it.
