Poetry.

I HAVE NO FATHER THERE.

I saw a wide and well-spread board,
And children young and fair,
Come one by one,—the eldest first,—
And took their station there.

All neatly clad and beautiful,
And with familiar tread,
They gather round with joy to feast
On meats and snow-white bread.

Beside the board the father sat;
A smile his features wore,
As on the little group he gazed,
And told their portions o'er.

A meagre form, arrayed in rags,
Before the threshhold stood;
A half-starved child had wandered there
To beg a little food.

Said one—"Why standest here, my dear!
See, there's a vacant seat
Amid the children,—and enough
For them and thee to eat."

"Alas for me!" the child replied,
In tones of deep despair,
"No right have I amid yon group,—
I have no father there."

O hour of fate, when from the skies,
With notes of deepest dread,
The far-resounding trump of God
Shall summon forth the dead,—

What countless hosts shall stand without
The heavenly threshhold fair,
And gazing on the blest, exclaim,
"I have no father there!"

Sleeping Without a Light.

From the "Faithful Mother's Reward," a volume published by the Presbyterian Board, we make the following interesting extract. The narrative is one of fact, not fiction. The extract details the treatment by the mother of the little boy's dread of sleeping in the dark;

It was my custom to have the candle removed from his chamber as soon as he was put to bed. On this being done, one night about the close of his third year, he called loudly for me. I went, and found him much frightened, pale, trembling, and crying. He gave me an incoherent account of some tale he had heard, and entreated that a light might be left in his room. I had one brought and told him that it should not be again removed if he still wished it to remain after we had a little chat together, but I thought he would send it away.

I then endeavored to convince him of the folly of his fears, but finding that he could not shake them off, said, "How old are you, my dear John?" "Almost three years, you say, mother." "Have you always had a candle with you?" 'Hardly ever, mother.' "What then has taken care of you?" 'God mother—I know that God takes care of me all day and all night.' "Yes, my child, you run thoughtlessly into a thousand dangers, but God always preserves you. When you fell from the tree you were climbing to-day, had you a candle to help God to save your head from being broken on the large stone?" "No, indeed, mother." "Well, my child, you know that God sees as well in the dark as in the light. If He saved you then, without the help of a candle, don't you think He can do so, just as easily now, that you are lying quietly on your good bed?" "But George said something would catch me to-night." "Did God tell George so?" "No, mother." "Then George cannot know, for nothing can ever hurt you unless God permits it, and nobody but God can know or tell, when He intends to permit any one to be hurt." He was silent, but still clung to me. I bade him ask the maid of what candles were made. He repeated her reply, "Grease and cotton." I looked at him a moment with an expression of regret, then said, "And can it be, my beloved child, that you are more willing to trust in a little grease and cotton, than in that God Who has preserved you through the dangers of so many days, and the darkness of so many nights?"

He looked quite distressed, and I went on, "Nothing can enter this room without. His knowledge, for He is constantly watching over you. If He should allow anything to come in, could the candle save you?" "Oh no! mother, it could not move." Could, God?' "Yes, in a minute." "And yet, my darling, you feel less afraid when you look at the candle burning near you, than when you remember that God is watching over you. My dear John, think how sorry it must make your Heavenly Father to see this, think how it would please Him to see you trying to drive away these silly fears, and showing Him that you would rather trust to His goodness than to the brightest light. Do you not believe that God always keeps his promises?" "Yes, to be sure, mother." "And do you not recollect that I have often told you, He has promised in His big book that He will take care of all who put their trust in Him?"

He pressed me tightly round the neck an instant, and then said, "Yes, I remember, mother, and I will trust in Him to-night. But please to tell me what I must do, to keep from feeling so frightened."

"Why, you know, my dear child, how very good God has always been to you—suppose I make a little prayer to Him for you now—you can repeat my words—God will hear you, and I dare say make you able to do right." 'Please to try, mother.' The struggle in his feelings was manifestly great, and the earnest tone in which he reiterated the simple petition I offered, was very affecting—but he immediately embraced me tenderly, and said firmly—'Now, good night, mother, please to take away the light.' "I will, my love, and if you should feel a little afraid when it is gone, just think Who is always near you, and say to Him, Oh God take care of me! and I think you will not want me to bring it back again." "Yes, mother, I will."

This ended this, to me, deeply interesting conversation.

I learned that much pains had been taken by a mischievous boy to frighten him, and owing to the liveliness of his imagination and extreme sensitiveness, it was some time before the disagreeable effects of this attempt could be obliterated. From the above period he was occasionally disposed to be timid at night, but it was only requisite to remind him, that the gracious Being Who had hitherto guarded him so carefully, would be pleased to see him exerting himself to banish his alarms, and putting his trust entirely in Him—and my point was carried. He dismissed me and fell quietly asleep. As he grew older, I advised him, whenever he felt himself becoming frightened, to call to mind some instances of God's goodness to him, and then pray that He would still protect him from real dangers, and would enable him to overcome his foolish fears, and confide in His care. This he many times told me he had done the preceeding night, and that God had been so very kind as to make him much less afraid afterwards, and sometimes to take away his fears entirely, and then he felt so glad and happy, because there was no light in the room.

The Empty Cradle.

Every fold counts a missing lamb, and there are few homes where there has been no mourning over a vacant chair. It is hard to part with the darlings of the nursery. Affection clings to them fondly and is reluctant to lose its hold; but the all-wise Father deals tenderly with his children, and removes some of their treasures to heaven, that their affections may follow. Many weeping parents will recognize their own experience in the following paragraphs from an exchange:—

The death of a little child is to the mother's heart like the dew on a plant, from which a bud has just perished. The plant lifts up its head in freshened greenness to the morning light; so the mother's soul gathers, from the dark sorrow which she has passed, a fresh brightening of her earthly hopes.

As she bends over the empty cradle, and fancy brings her sweet infant before her, a ray of divine light is on the cherub face. It is her son still, but with the seal of immortality on his brow. She feels that heaven was the only atmosphere where her precious flower could unfold without spot or blemish, and she would not recall the lost. But the anniversary of his departure seems to bring his spiritual presence near her. She indulges in the tender grief which soothes, like an opiate in pain, all hard passages and care in life. The world to her is no longer filled with human love and hope in the future so glorious with heavenly love and joy; she has treasures of happiness which the worldly unchastened heart never conceived. The bright fresh flowers with which she has decorated her room, the apartment where her infant died, are mementoes of the far brighter hopes now dawning on her day-dream. She thinks of the glory and beauty of the New Jerusalem, where the little foot will never find a thorn among the flowers, to render a shoe necessary. Nor will a pillow be wanted for the dear head reposing on the breast of a kind Saviour. And she knows that her infant is there in that world of eternal bliss.

She has marked one passage in that book, to her emphatically the Word of life, now lying closed on the toilet table, which she daily reads: "Suffer little children to come unto me, for of such is the kingdom of heaven."

"Uncle Jack."

A writer in the North Carolina Presbyterian gives the following account of an aged and pious negro:

Providentially thrown at the residence of his younger master, I sought an interview with "Uncle Jack," which was intended for his spiritual benefit. The question was asked as to how long he had been a professor of religion, and also to the particulars connected with his first impressions. He very promptly replied, in substances, about as follows;

"I served the devil till a few years ago—served the world until old age crept upon me. Then I began to think that Jack hadn't much longer to live, and that if I died as I then was, hell must be my portion. This made me very miserable, sir, and I fell down upon my knees and began to pray. But it seemed like I couldn't pray, Satan bothered me so. I kept trying, but the more I tried, the more he seemed to hold me down under his power. At last I gave up all for lost, and thinks I, my soul must soon land in hell. Just then, massa, the Lord spoke to me—seemed like he spoke—and said, 'Jack, I can work and none can hinder; but your hopes and trust in me and my Son, Jesus Christ' Holy Spirit worked with me night and day to bring me to the Saviour; I couldn't sleep—it seemed like. Got right up and fell down upon my knees, and tolk the Lord that I was a lost sinner; I had sinned so long that I must be lost. But seemed like he said 'Jack, I am an old Saviour, trust in me.' I did trust in him, and found him able and willing. And O he has been with me in six troubles—he has not forgotten me in seven?"

Belonging to a different denomination, I asked him how we were all to get to heaven, since it seemed that we were travelling so many different ways. Promptly again he answered: "Here is a circle in this yard, and yonder is a gate; do you see that gate? Well, some folks might go around the circle—some along the walk straight through—some one way, and some another. But when they get down yonder, they must all go through the gate—they can't get over the fence. The only difference is, that the man who goes straightest through has less distance to go, that is all. So it is on the road to heaven; wind about as we may before we get there one thing is certain, we must all go through the strait gate."

Boys, Do You Know the Birds.

At a meeting of the Boston Natural History Society, the other day, Dr. Brewer read a paper on the Yellow Bird, of which the following is a sketch:—

This familiar warbler extends from 68° N. latitude to the northern parts of South America, and from ocean to ocean. It arrives in New England in the first half of May; it is familiar and social, building its nest near houses, and even in crowded cities. The nest is usually constructed in a low bush, no more than three or four feet from the ground and its construction displays a most remarkable power of adaptation to circumstances, approaching almost to reasoning; the nest is firmly and durably built, of a great variety of soft materials; cotton, where it can be procured, is a favorite substance. The male generally collects, while the female arranges the materials; when cotton, forming it into a circular form by turning rapidly round with tail feathers extended.

The female displays wonderful sagacity in the manner in which she avoids the necessity either of abandoning her own nest, or of hatching the egg of the cow blackbird, which has been dropped into it; the latter is too large to be removed from her nest by the yellow bird, and is accordingly covered over at the same time with her own eggs, probably having been previously pierced; and upon the floor thus made in the bottom of her nest she lays another set of eggs, building up the sides of the nest to the requisite height; this she has been known to do for this cause even to the third nest-making. He believes, after an observation of 25 years, that the yellow bird never hatches the egg of the cow blackbird, but always disposes of it in the above manner, sacrificing her own eggs rather than hatch out a stranger which her instinct tells her will destroy her offspring, and impose a heavy burden on herself.

A SUPERIOR AND GENUINE
VEGETABLE COUGH CANDY
H. Y. MACER'S Vegetable COUGH CANDY for curing Coughs, Colds, Croup Irritation of the Throat, Asthma, and is particularly adapted to relieve the Whooping Cough, and all Affections tending to Consumption.
It is particularly recommended to the attention of Public speakers, singers and all persons who use the voice freely. Its efficacy for Clearing the Voice is truly astonishing!
The Proprietor has been so much pressed under the pretence of furnishing the public with superior medicines that the inventor of a GENUINE ARTICLE only begs that each one would try for himself, for society demands that should be made public. Even those which do possess some virtue are held at such exorbitant prices that they do not come within reach of the poor; while they, above all, are the most liable to suffer from the consequence of neglect and exposure
Good Medicines
Do not the poor suffer daily? It is true they do, for the want of a medicine which they are unable to purchase.—The proprietor of the Vegetable Cough Candy has obviated this difficulty by inventing a Medicine compounded of twenty-nine different ingredients, extracted from the Vegetable Kingdom, and sold at a price which will place it within the reach of all. It is well known that many ingredients when used singly are inefficacious, but when combined with others are highly salutary.
Macer's Vegetable Cough Candy contains the most essential ingredients of which other Cough Candies are composed, with several additional kinds, the combined power of which is sufficient to heal, in part, every malady to which the human system is liable (which does not require the aid of a surgeon,) if attended to in season.
The numerous ingredients composing this Candy have been recommended by many physicians of eminence, some of whom are among the most celebrated in the United States. The pleasantness of this medicine gives it an advantage over others, while it is unnecessary to use any persuasion to induce children to use it.

THE GREATEST MEDICAL DISCOVERY OF THE AGE.

MR. KENNEDY, of Roxbury, Mass., has discovered in one of our common pasture weeds, a remedy that cures EVERY KIND OF HUMOUR, from the worst Scrofula down to a common Pimple. He has tried it in over eleven hundred cases and never failed except in two cases (both thunder humour). He has now in his possession over two hundred certificates of its virtue, all within twenty miles of Boston.
Two bottles are warranted to cure a nursing sore mouth.
One to three bottles will cure the worst kind of pimples on the face.
Two to three bottles will clear the system of biles.
Two bottles are warranted to cure the worst canker in the mouth and stomach.
Three to five bottles are warranted to cure the worst case of erysipelas.
One to two bottles are warranted to cure all humou in the eyes.
Two bottles are warranted to cure running the ears and blotches among the hair.
Four to six bottles are warranted to cure corrupt and running ulcers.
One bottle will cure scaly eruption of the skin.
Two to three bottles warranted to cure the worst case of ringworm.
Two to three bottles are warranted to cure the most de perate case of rheumatism.
Three to four bottles are warranted to cure the sa t rheum
Five to 8 bottles will cure the worst case of scrofula.
A benefit is always experienced from the first bottle and a perfect cure is warranted when the above quantity is taken
Reader, I peddled over a thousand bottles of this in the vicinity of Boston. I know the effect of it in every case. So sure as water will extinguish fire so sure will this cure humor. I never sold a bottle of it but that sold another after a trial it always speaks for itself. There are two things about this herb that appears to me surprising; first, that it grows in our pastures, in some places quite plentiful, and yet its value has never been known until I discovered it in 1846 second, that it should cure all kinds of humor.
In order to give some idea of the sudden rise and great popularity of the discovery, I will state that in April, 1853, I peddled it, and sold about six bottles per day: in April, 1854 I sold over one thousand bottles per day of it.
Some of the wholesale Druggists who have been in business twenty and thirty years, say that nothing in the annals of patient medicines was ever like it. There is a universe praise of it from all quarters.
In my own practice I always kept it strictly for numbors but since its introduction as a general family medicine, grea and wonderful virtues have been found in it that I never suspected.
Several cases of epileptic fits—a disease which was always considered incurable, have been cured by a few bottles. O what a mercy if it will prove effectual in all cases of that awful malady—there are but few who have seen more of it than I have.
I know of several cases of Dropsy, all of them aged people cured by it. For the various diseases of the Liver, Sick Headache, Dyspepsia, Asthma, Fever and Ague, Pain in the Side, Diseases of the Spine, and particularly in diseases of the Kidneys, &c., the discovery has done more good than any medicine ever known.
No change of diet ever necessary. Eat the best you can, and enough of it.
DIRECTIONS FOR USE.—Adults, one table spoonful per day: Children over ten years a dessert spoonful. Children from five to eight years, a tea spoonful. As no directions can be applicable to all constitutions, take sufficient to operate on the bowels twice a day.

The reason why, is that by Nature's own process it restores the natural color permanently after the hair becomes grey; supplies the natural fluids, and thus makes it grow on bald heads, removes all dandruff, itching, and heat from the scalp, quiets and tones up the nerves, and thus cures all nervous headache, and may be relied upon to cure all diseases of the scalp and hair; it will stop and keep it from falling off makes it soft, glossy healthy and beautiful, and if used by the young two or three times a week, it will never fail or become gray, then reader, read the following and judge for yourselves:
New York, Jan. 8, 1858.

Messrs. O. J. Wood & Co.,
Gentlemen:—Having heard a good deal about Professor Wood's Hair Restorative, and my hair being quite gray, I made up my mind to lay aside the prejudice which I, in common with a great many persons, had against all manner of patent medicines, and a short time ago I commenced using your article, to test it for myself.
The result has been so very satisfactory that I am very glad I did so, and in justice to you as well as for the encouragement of others who may be as grey as I was but who having my prejudice without my reasons for setting it aside, are unwilling to give your Restorative a trial till they have further proof, and the best proof being peculiar demonstration, I write you this letter, which you may show to any such, and also direct them to me for further proof, who am in and out of the N. Y. Wire Railing Establishment every day.
My hair is now its natural color, and much improved in appearance every way, being glossier and thicker and much more healthy looking. I am, yours respectfully,
HENRY JENKINS,
Cor. Columbia and Corrill Sts., Brooklyn.
Livingston, Ala. Feb. 14, 1858.
Prof. Wood—Dear Sir—Your Hair Restorative has done much good in this part of the country. My hair has been slightly diminishing for several years, caused I suppose, from a slight burn when I was quite an infant. I have been using your Hair Restorative for six weeks and I find that I have a fine head of hair now growing, after having used all other remedies known, to no effect. I think it the most valuable remedy now extant, and advise all who are afflicted that way to use your remedy. You can publish this if you think proper. Yours, &c.,
S. W. MIDDLETON.
Philadelphia, Sept. 9, 1857.
Prof. Wood—Dear Sir—Your Hair Restorative is proving itself beneficial to me. The front, and also the back part of my head almost lost its covering—was in fact bald. I have used but two half pint bottles of your Restorative, and now the top of my head is well studded with a promising crop of young hair, and the front is also receiving its benefit. I have tried other preparations without any benefit whatever. I think from my own persona recommendation, I can induce many others to try it.
Yours, respectfully,
D. R. THOMAS, M. D.
No 464 Vine St

The Restorative is put up in bottles of 3 sizes, viz: large medium, and small; the small holds 1-2 a pint, and retails for one dollar per bottle; the medium holds at least twenty per cent. more in proportion than the small, retails for two dollars per bottle; the large holds a quart, 40 per cent. more in proportion, and retails for $3.

KING' EVIL CURED!

MR. JOHN DENTON residing at Little River, Digby Neck, Nova Scotia, certifies that his Son has been severely afflicted with the King's Evil for Fourteen Months. He says that the remedies usually applied to this disease failed to give relief, and that having heard of Dr. Leary's Anglo Saxon Medicines, he purchased a supply and that in one month they had performed a most wonderful cure.
☞ Any person wishing to be fully informed regarding the cure can obtain all the particulars on application to Mr. Denton, who wishes all who may be similarly affected to give the Anglo Saxon Medicines a trial.

Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia Cured.

Mr. Christopher Vail of Belisle, King's County, New Brunswick, writes to Dr. Leary and says, that he had been troubled with Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia for 3 years which produced great General Debility and loss of flesh; he was reduced to a mere skeleton so that last January he weighed only 75 pounds! By the advice of his neighbours he was induced to purchase some of Dr. Leary's Anglo Saxon Medicines which in two months produced a most salutary effect, as in March he had increased in weight to 122 pounds, and by continuing the use of these medicines on the 10th August he weighed 146 pounds.
He says that his neighbours who were aware of his sickness consider it a most wonderful cure and believe that the Anglo Saxon Medicines (under God's providence) have been the means of bringing the nearly dead to life.
For further particulars enquire of DR. LEARY, No. 55 Princess street. nov. 26.
