GERMANY.

A despatch from Darmstadt says that, at the opening of the Chambers here, the Presidents of the branches of the Legislature declared in favor of war against Louis Napoleon.

INDIA.

The Bombay Mail of May 12 has reached England. The news is of little importance. The money market had received a sudden and unexpected panic; discount was nominally ruling at 22 per cent. in the Bazaar, but money in any quantity was not obtainable on any terms. The cotton market was depressed by the same cause, and exchanges from 2 1/4 to 2 1/2. Freight was about the same.

The vessels engaged in laying down the Red Sea Telegraph Cable were within three hundred miles of Aden, and the working of the line was most satisfactory.

AUSTRALIA.

The Melbourne Mail of April 16th had reached England. The news is of little importance. The ship arrivals since the departure of the previous mail, reached nearly one million sterling.

STILL LATER!

THE MINISTRY DEFEATED.

ANOTHER BATTLE!

PRUSSIA GOING TO DECLARE WAR!

NEW YORK, June 22.

Persia arrived last night. A vote of want of confidence in the British Ministry has been carried in the House of Commons by a vote 323 to 310. The Ministry was expected to resign.

Another battle has taken place at Mirviano, in which the French claim the victory. The Austrians lost 1500 killed and wounded, and 1,200 prisoners. 500 Zouaves were put hors de combat in the fight. No other particulars.

It is reported that Prussia is mobilizing her army, and will soon declare in favor of Austria. The King of Sardinia has been invited to assume the Government of Parma, Garibaldi is still reported successful.

The British ship-of-war Heron captured in a torpedo on the African coast, and 107 lives lost. Captain and 24 others saved.

Consolidated 2 1/2-3 1/2 4 ex-dividend. Bonds continue to decline. Little change in provisions.

Austria.

The following information concerning the nation now the most prominent before the world, will be read with more than ordinary interest. The Emperor is Francis Joseph, who ascended the throne December 21, 1849, on the abdication of his uncle Ferdinand I.—He was 18 years old at the time, having been born August 18th, 1831. On ascending the throne he promised in the most solemn manner to give freedom and a constitutional government to his country. These early pledges were broken as soon as he gained internal peace in the empire, and freedom of press, and religious liberty, and the "representative man" of absolutism in Europe. The house of Hapsburg, whose representative he is, has ruled Austria since August 26th 1278. During this long dynasty the empire has been divided and reunited, has formed alliances and been at war with most European powers, has experienced revolutions, defeats and victories, and now is thoroughly hated by liberal minds the world over.

The Austrian Empire is a continuous territory, including twenty-one states or provinces, with an area of 256,559 square miles. In 1854 the population amounted to 39,411,809. About 40 per cent. of the total population belong to Slav races, the Germans number 20 per cent., the Magyars about 15 per cent., and the remainder consist of Jews, Armenians, Greeks and Gipsies. The Germans are the ruling race, although only constituting one-fifth of the population. About twenty different dialects are spoken in the empire, but German is the official language. Three-fourths of the inhabitants are Roman Catholics—the members of the Greek church are estimated at 6,500,000. The Protestants number 3,500,000 of whom 2,800,000 belong to the Reformed church, 1,270,000 are Lutherans, and 46,000 Unitarians. The Roman Catholic church in Austria is a powerful ally of the government, and the empire has become emphatically the leading Catholic power in Europe.

Great attention has been paid to education in the past years. Since 1855 parents have been compelled to send their children to school. During the last six years, the direct influence of the Jesuits on public instruction has been steadily on the increase. Institutions for the promotion of high scientific and artistic culture are numerous, and the large cities have public libraries, museums, cabinets of science and art, galleries of paintings, etc.—There are about three hundred and fifty newspapers in Austria, of which number about one hundred and fifty are political papers.

Three-fourths of the Austrian population are agricultural. The whole area of the country contains about fifty-five millions of acres of land capable of tillage, of which only one half is in cultivation; the remainder consists of forests and heaths. Austria does not, as yet, produce sufficient grain for her own consumption. The deficit was covered in 1855—a bad year—by imports of grain amounting to $6,000,000. In ordinary years she does not import grain to the value of more than $2,000,000.

Austria is yet a land of large properties, and is subject to all the evils of the concentration of landed property in few hands. The people have also no proper idea of the advantages of the sub-division of labor, and the peasants of that primitive and patriarchal country are all their own butchers, carpenters, and blacksmiths. In the precious metals Austria is, after Russia, the richest State in Europe. She extracts annually gold to the amount of $8,000,000, and silver to the amount of $2,500,000. Future historians will have to point out as a remarkable fact, that in the middle of the nineteenth century the country the richest in Europe in gold and silver, was the poorest in point of coined money.

The principal branches of Austrian manufacturing industry are the glass and flax manufacturers, and the silk manufacturers of Lombardy. The construction of machinery and metal-work is commencing on a fair scale at Prague and Vienna. The total annual value of her manufactures is $260,000,000. To this amount Mr. Schwarzer adds $214,000,000 for the value of the labor, which gives $474,000,000 as the true value of the industrial development of Austria.

The total value of her commerce, including exports and imports, transit and navigation, is $360,000,000. Austria possessed only 900 seagoing vessels. The Austrian Lloyd Company possessed in 1854 sixty steamers, but the profits of the establishment have been insignificant. The Danubian Navigation Company, which enjoys a monopoly for twenty years, and possesses more than 100 steamers, besides an innumerable quantity of small iron vessels, appears to be more favorably situated. The revenue from customs is less than one-tenth of the entire revenue of the empire.

The finance of Austria are in a depressed condition. Since 1850 the annual deficiency has averaged $25,000,000. The funded debt has doubled within seven years. The army and navy absorb 34 per cent. of the annual expenditures.

In peace the army numbers 42,000 men: in war 630,000 men. The entire navy consists of 107 vessels of all classes, carrying about 850 guns.

CONSCRIPTIONS IN FRANCE.

We take the following interesting account of the conscription in France from the United Service Magazine. It is known that it is in this way that the vast army of France is kept replenished—This military lottery occurs every year. The Annual contingent of troops levied thereby varies according to the necessity of the State, being at war times very high, and in peaceable times comparatively low; at all times, however, it amounts to at least 20,000 men, that being the number who annually receive their dismissal, their term of service having expired. A census of all the departments is taken every year; and the number of men required is divided in equal proportions among all the provinces of the empire. The names of all the young men between the ages of twenty and thirty, both years inclusive, are then described on the conscription lists of the respective localities, and every attempt to evade conscription is punished by an imprisonment of from one month to one year; whilst any one aiding or abetting a fugitive from the drafted ballot is liable to the same penalty. The same which takes place at the drawing is one of much picturesque animation. Groups of the finest youth of a wide neighborhood, with generally their fathers and mothers, relatives and friends, are assembled in the spacious hall of the town houses. The mayors, prefects and sub-prefects, are there to receive them, with usually several officers quartered in the district. On every face there is an expression of hope and fear, anxiety and excitement; and as the advances towards the fatal urn draw near, the scene, deciding his future destiny, and all spectators, as well as the parties concerned, feel the most lively interest. Those who draw a higher number than the number of recruits required, are exempt, whilst those who draw a lower are condemned to serve their country as militaires for the space of seven years. Some are exempted. These exemptions include all below the height of five feet five inches; all criminals; all who are the subject of any physical infirmity; the eldest of orphaned sons, or the only son, or eldest son, or grandchild of a widow, or of a father of seventy years of age; certain classes of students in the public schools, including all those who have carried off the great prizes of the institute, or of the university. None, however, are exempt from the ballot; all must appear and draw their lots; and this over, such as have objections to urge, send them to the council of revision, which is appointed for the purpose. Were it not for this close examination, many would evade the common national responsibility, and some would intrude themselves into the service, whom the service would otherwise reject. As it is, the instances are numerous of persons who mutilate themselves by chopping off a finger, or who raise sores on their bodies by piercing their flesh, and drawing strings through the wound, that they may be reported by the medical inspectors infirm and unfit for military life.

RELIGION IN FRANCE. France numbers now thirty-six millions of people, of which there are: Catholics, 35,000,000; Calvinists and Lutherans, 750,000; Jews, 75,000. The rest are Infidels and Bonivivants, 175,000.

The number of Infidels, however, is not reduced to 175,000; they are in far greater numbers in France, although perhaps less known.

France is, then, the largest Catholic country in the world, consisting as it does of 35 millions out of 36 millions. Meanwhile Austria has only 25 millions Catholics, out of 40 millions inhabitants. The remaining 15 millions belong to the Protestant, Greek, and Jewish religions.

The great Marble Palace Hotel on Fifth Avenue, opposite Madison Square, New York, is nearly done, at a cost of $1,144,000; and will be opened August 1st. The building cost $400,000; ground $350,000; furniture $200,000; steam plumbing, and gas fixtures $55,000; mirrors $30,000; and so forth. In splendor, extent and convenience, it surpasses all other hotels in the world.

The oldest preacher in Philadelphia is the Rev. George Chandler, who, in the course of his ministry, has married 3,116 couples, and performed funeral services over the remains of 5,000.

A Chinaman, who has been undergoing a course of studies in the United States, was baptized in the first Presbyterian Church in Jersey City on Sunday night. An address was delivered by Mr. Halper, missionary to China.

Rev. J. P. Cook, son of the late Rev. Dr. Cook, seems to be following in the footsteps of his father. He is traveling about in France, about holding religious meetings, and organizing Sunday Schools—a zealous, faithful, and efficient man.

The English correspondent of the N. Y. Chronicle writes encouragingly of the state of religious feeling in Britain.

He says, there is no abatement of the religious feeling in the various parts of the country to which I have referred more than once. The signs and tokens of the Divine power are manifest. In Scotland and Wales the work is still in progress, and generally throughout England, the earnestness, the prayerfulness, and efforts of the church are greatly improved.

A collection which has just been made in all the Evangelical Churches of Germany for the benefit of the Protestants, scattered amongst the Roman Catholic population, has produced $10,800; the highest figure of preceding years did not reach two-thirds of this sum.

LOWER CANADA. ROMAN CATHOLICS AGAINST THE BIBLE SOCIETY.—The ultramontane Journal de Canada contains a tirade against the Evangelical of the Upper Canada Bible Society, concluding thus: "When therefore one of those teachers of Bibles and Tracts come into our houses, he should be shown the door, as being an ill-mannered, ignorant person. These men abuse everything, and especially the hospitality and amenity of our people. They introduce themselves into our families as travellers, to excite, afterwards, their diabolical mission. Our population must therefore be on their guard against them, and refuse to accept or to buy any book which does not come from a well known and pure source."

The Kingston Sabbath Reformation Society has presented an address to the Chief Magistrate of that city, on behalf of Sabbath observance and requesting him to give directions that the law forbidding the sale of liquors on the Sabbath, and other laws for the better observance of the Sabbath, be strictly enforced. The Mayor, in his reply, regrets the prevalence of Sabbath breaking, which he thinks is to be expected, until the Government requires Sabbath labor in some of the public departments. The Mayor pledges himself to do all in his power to promote the object of the Sabbath Reformation Society. Happy will it be for every place when its Chief Magistrate carries out such sentiments.—Mon. Witness.

DAVID VENABLE PAIN KILLER.—Notwithstanding the many imitations of this article, and many other medicines in the market pretending to answer the same purpose, yet the whole of the Pain Killer is more than the whole of the others put together. It is one of the few articles that are just what they pretend to be. Try it.—Mon. Witness.
