

A HUNDRED YEARS TO COME. O, where will be the birds that sing, A hundred years to come ? The flowers that now in beauty spring, A hundred years to come? The rosy lip, the lofty brow, The heart that beats so gaily now? O, where will be love's beaming eye, Joy's pleasant smile, and sorrow's sigh, A hundred years to come ?

Who'll press for gold this crowded street, A hundred years to come ? Who'll tread you church with willing feet, A hundred years to come? Pale, trembling age, and fiery youth, And children with its brow of truth, The rich and poor, on land and sea, Where will the mighty millions be, A hundred years to come ?

We all within our graves shall sleep, A hundred years to come ? No living soul for us will weep, A hundred years to come ! But other men cur lands will till And others then our streets will fill ; While other birds will sing as gay, As bright the sunshine as to day, A hundred years to come!

CREATION, PROVIDENCE, and REDEMP TION.

Lord, when we creation scan, What thy power has done for man, --Lord, our conscious tongues agree, How much man must owe to thee.

Every note that cheers the vale, Every sweet that scents the gale, Every blooming flower we see, Tells that joy we owe to thee.

Every breath that heaves the breast, Every sound by voice exprest, Every thought the mind sets free, Tells that life we owe to thee.

But when we redemption view, Gaze on all thy love can do; Lord, our thankful hearts agree, How much more we owe to thee.

A Blessing on the Dance.

Again was Elizabeth arrayed in the garb of fashion, and ready for the amusement of the ball-room. As she stood at the glass, placing the last rose amid her clustering locks she hastily turned round and said to me, " why, what makes you look so sad ?-What is the matter ?" She then threw her arms around my neck and embraced me with all the enthusiasm of her young heart. "Come don't be sad any more-put this lovely ro-e in my hair and see how sweetly it will look," said she.

I kissed her cheek, and as I bade her good night, whispered, " Can you ask God's blessing on the dance, Elizabeth ?" She gave me a quick, earnest look, and hurried down the steps.

At an earlier hour than usual, I heard Elizabeth's voice at the door. I was in my chamber, and when I went down to meet her I found she had retired to her room. I followed her thither, wishing to see her a few moments before I slent. She supposed all the family had retired, and her door was unlocked. I entered and found her on her knees before God-hands uplifted and her streaming eyes raised to heaven. 'Hear my prayer, O Lord, I beseech thee, and let my cry come before thee,' was her languaue.

I returned to her room in about half an hour, and welcomed her home.

"Yes," said she, "I have got home. In that bewildered ball room, I danced with the merriest and laughed with the loudest, but there was an arrow here ;" and she laid her hand on her heart.

" God's blessing on the dance ! Those words rang in my ear at every turn. 1 re joice that they still ring there. O, if God will forgive the past-if he will yet receive me-I will turn my back upon all this gilded folly, and lay upon his altar, what I once promised to lay there-my whole heart."

We knelt together, and asked God to strengthen the resolution now made in his name. Our prayers have been heard, for among the group of lovely disciples who keep near the Lord, walking in his footsteps, and bearing his cross, few are more humble, consistent, and devoted, than the once gay and thoughtless Elizabeth G.-Episcopa Recorder.
