I tremble on the brink
Of an awfet, dismal pit;
I know I soon must sink Right down, deep into it.

What I shall meet with there, I can imagine '00-The widings of despair, The bitter cries of woe.

The sight of sinners doomed Shell meet my aching eyes, Forever there entombed Shut in no more to rise. Aye, more, myself must feel

The pains which there are felt, And know that naught can heal : No love my soul cin milt.

I am not there, but, he! I know I soon must be. Unless some hand move now, And wholly rescue me. There is no power in me To leave this dreadful place

I would the danger fire,

I would some aid embrace. CHRIST OFFERING A FREE SALVATION.

"I come, the sinner's friend; I know thy p ril's great, I will thy cause befriend; I pily thy sad state. Will thou ccept my and? None other arm can save ; Thou need'st not be afraid, I can despoil the grave.

" I can its terrors rend, And conquor all thy fear, Will thou en me depend? The his to me is dear. I bought it with my owa, And died, that I might win Thy life-not thee alone, Bot all the world from sin."

"Jesus, thou art one My immost soul did hate : Am I not then undone? Are not my sins too great? My life! what has it been? Sinful. No tongue can tell. Canst thou forgive such sin?

Canst snatch me from this hell?

"I loved thee all the while That then sidst hate my name. And now I'll on the smile, And wi e awar thy shame. Thy ins as crimson are, But I can make them white. And in thy bosom pour The rays of heavenly light."

" I vield, I pardon crave, I can hold out no more : And trem ing sinner save ; Thy love is full of power. And now I feel thy peace Calm my once troubled soul, Oh! may it never cease,

But arways keep me hole. " Salvation ! Oh ! how sweet To know a Savior lives. Our agon zed souls to greet.

Who alw ys pardon gives. His sweat, his blissful voice Sounds from the relins above It makes our bearts rejoice, It fills our souls with love."

Sarsapardia has and deserves me the trated extracts of it contrib but little of the virtue of Sarsaparilla, or any thing else.

Turing late years the public have been misled by large bottles, preten ing to give: quart of extract of Seraparilla for one dollar. Most of those have been frauds upon the sick, for they uot only contain little if any Sarsaparilla, but often no curative proportions whatever. Hense bitter and painful disappointment has followed the use of the various extracts of Sarsaparilla which flood the market, until the name of itself is justly despised, and has become expronymous with imposited and cheat. Still we call this compound Sarsaparilla, and intended su ply such a remedy as shall rescue the name from the load of obliquy while it rests upon it. And we think we have ground for heleiving it has virtues which are cresistables by the ordidary run of the diseases it is intended to cure. In order to secure their complete erad cation from the system, the remedy should be judiciously taken according to the directions on the bottle.
