

GOOD TEMPER.

THERE's not a cheaper thing on earth. Nor yet one half so dear ; 'Tis worth more than distinguished birth. Or thousands gain'd a year. It lends the day a new delight, 'Tis virtue's firmest shield. And adds more beauty to the night Than all the stars can yield.

It maketh poverty content To sorrow whispers peace ; It is a gift from Heaven sent For mortals to increase. It meets you with a smile at morn, It lulls you to repose ; A flower for peer or peasant born, An everlasting rose.

A charm to banish grief away, To snatch the frown from care ; Turn tears to smiles, make dulness gay: Spread gladness everywhere ; And yet 'tis cheap as summer dew That gems the hily's breast; A talisman for love, as true As ever man possessed.

As smiles the rainbow through the cloud When threatening storm begins,-As music 'mid the tempest loud, That still its sweet way wins : As springs an arch across the tide, Where waves conflicting foam, So comes the seraph to our side, This angel of our home.

What may this wondrous spirit be, With power unheard before-This charm-this bright divinity GOOD TEMPER-nothing more Good temper-' is the choicest gift That woman homeward brings ; And can the poorest peasant lift To bliss unknown to kings.

THE GREAT WONDER OF THE NINETFENTH CENLURY. PROFESSOR WOOD'S HAIR RESTORATIVE.

BAIR RESTORATIVE. Says the St. Louis, (Mo.) Democrat: Below, we publish a letter to Dr. Wood, of this city, from a gentleman in Maine, which speaks glowingly of the superior merits of his hair tonic. Such evidence nust have its effect, when coming from a reliable source. If certificates are guarantees of truth, the Dr. needs no enconiums, nor useless puffery from the press:

Professor O. J. Wood & Co. ;

Professor O. J. Wood & Co.; GENTLEMEN: Having my attention called a few montins since to the highly beneficial effects of your hair restora-tive, I was induced to make application of it upon my own hair, which had become quite gray, probaby one-third white my whiskers were of same character. Some three months since I procured a bottle of your hair restorative, and used it. I soor found it was proving what I had wish-ed. I used it about twice a week I have since procured another bottle, of which I have used some. I can now certify to the world that the gray or white hair has total-ly disappeared, both on my head and face, and my hair has resumed its natural color, and I believe more soft and glossy than it has been before for twenty-five years. I am now sixty years old, my good wife at the age of fifty-two, has used it with same effect. The above notice I deem due to you for your valuable discovery. I am assured that whoever will rightly use, as per directions, will not have occasion to contradiet my statements. I am a citizen of this city and a resident here for the last fifteen years, and am known to nearly everyon

BY GEORDIE LUMAN.

We are the believers of that word, Which gives us light, and life ; That guides us to that blest abode, Where cease all human strife ;

That teaches greater things by far 'Than man can comprehend ; And tells of Jesus meek, and mild, Whom angels do attend.

Let us hold by this glorious Word, And fight for Christ, our King : And we shall gain that heavenly home. Where angels holy sing.

Yes ! if we keep our Father's laws, At last we'll gain that shore ; Where all is joy, and happiness, And sin shall be no more.

Then we shall sit around that throne, Where Jesus hath reigned long; And join the saint with one accord. In harmouy and song.

The Sad Walk,

We were going homeward the other day and on State street, a short distance south of the spot of the Busch homicide we overtook two gentlemen. They seemed from their dress to be nearly related, and a close look made us regard them as sire and son.

The elder looked like a hearty liver of about forty-five. His frame was well knit ef future evil. It is hardly possible to feel a and symmetrical, and his face looked as in disease and he were strangers. His comand known, and loved. panion had much the same round, smooth features. Like the elder, he was richly and sively on the atonement of Christ. This has tastefully dressed, and the two seemed produced perfect peace in the minds awakenwending their way homeward.

"Surely there was nothing sad in that," says the reader. No, not in the fact that the sire and son were homeward moving -that the arm of the younger was drawn through that of the elder, and that the son leaned upon the arm of the father.

No, not in that alone, but we saw that there was more. We saw that the young man walked unsteadily, and thought he must be ill; but we looked again, and saw that his was the unsteady step of drunkenness. Young, manly in appearance, surrounded by competence, if not wealthy, he reeled down State street, at high noon-drunk? What were the feelings which must have agitated the central soul of that father, each reader who has a son may imagine-our pen cannot paint them.

mind and heart which was alive to the reality Fancy Doeskins; English, French and German Co CARD.

But why write or think so much of this young man ? Why? There are hundreds! of young men in this city, as good as he, who are going the same road.

And then, we have our hundreds of licensed dens, to send him and othe s on that way. We have them for that express purpose! Oh, we are fools, or worse, when we open those traps of damnation, and then shed crocodile tears over the wretches who fall into them ! What party in this city dare oppose them? Is it not enough to shelve any man, before a nominating convention, to know that he has ever made an honest, manly effort to suppress those nests of murder ? Is it not even an essential to success, that he shall " stand far" with the saloon and coffee-house keepers ?

But some other destroyer may have had a hand in the overthrow of the young man on State street.

" Think'st thou there are no serpents in the world

But those which glide along the grassy sod, And sting the luckless foot that presses them ? There are, who in the path of social life, Do bask their spotted skins in fortume's sun.

tellect of the eighteenth century, might have White Can y, Mixed Almonds, Jelly Drops, Orange mitted. Again, when goaded by eonscience he sought to appease the Lord of the universe Candy, &c. For sale by for a conscious and wilful infraction of his laws by drinking but one cup of tea in the day, and this without any milk in it.

"Then came the dark and doubtful settlement of his account with heaven. Had the merits of getting wet, and being ridiculed, and abstaining from tea, been equal to the demerits of a life of disobedience to the first and great commandment of the law, and of the second which is like unto it ? " How can I tell," said he, " when I have done enough ?"

His distress became intense, and was only increased by his wretched advise/s, who bade Notice. him remember his virtuous life. He was mercifully saved from listening to them. Finding no peace in anything they bad to give, he sent for the Evangelical Minstanley, and the Moravian La Trobe, and through HAS commenced this day to SELL OFF his large such instructions as theirs, he found out what the hope of a poor sinner was, and embraced it with the simplicity of a child.

Before he discovered that a man could be justified by faith without works, his soul in view of death and the judgment was like the troubled sea when it connot rest. After he made that discovery the storm ceased, and there was a great calm.

This was a riddle to his biographers, who were scandalized and " shockad, as one of them said, at their hero's fears, and they, as far as possible, concealed the most important Premises.
