In regard to social questions I have not much to report. The railway accounts of last year shew an increase of two millions over the previous year's receipts-a cheering sign for the shareholders; and the Revenue account for the year was also as favorable as was expected. Railway receipts exceeding 25 millions, and a revenue verging on 70 millions, are indications that there is money somewhere, and this the representative and evidence of wealth the greatest which has ever been amassed within an equal area. The Great Ship is still in trouble. She is a vessel of the most burden, in all respects, that ever was formed and launched. The Directors have offered to resign, but an amendment, calling for inquiry previous to their resignation, is now being subject to a poll. It is not unlikely that Mr. Lever's offer to charter her for a voyage, after fitting her up in sea-faring style, will be accepted by the much embarrassed shareholders. The worry which has been caused by this enterprise is not an inducement to build more Great East. erns; yet if she comes up to the promise of her projectors as did the 'Great Western' of 1837, we shall have a fleet of monster steamers ruling the waves, as much larger than the present ocean Steamers, as the preadamite monsters exceed in size their pastadamite successors of land and The health of the country generally, and of

I do not remember them being so high,-over the 2000 before-but London is growing larger every year, and the birth-list will swell in proportion. The sanitary reforms adopted in many places, under a Permissive Act of improvement in Health of Towns, is very remarkable; in this way the city of Ely has been converted from being one of the unhealthiest, into one of the very healthiest of all our towns.

The Temperance movement is onward-and there is shortly to be published an Address to Baptist Ministers, by 210 ministers of that denomination. This is one-seventh of the whole number of ministers. You shall receive an early copy

United special prayer has been presented by various Christian denominations during last week and the present, in response to a suggestion from India. May these uplifting of hand and heart have power with the Highest, and prevail with the new year. The special Sunday services in London have received a vigorous impulse. St. Paul's, Westminster Abbey, Exeter Hall, and several theatres are being used every Sunday for religious worship, with the view of more directly acting on "the masses"—the multitudes who do not regularly attend any church or chapel. The religiotheatrical experiment has been very successful, in no case any interruption having occurred deserving of mention. In contrast with these efforts are the disgraceful scenes connected with St. George's in the East, where semi-Romish performances excite protestations more physical than spiritual. Let us hope that 1860 will witness many developements of Ministerial zeal, which may mightily help on the conversion of the world, by the gospel and Spirit of the Lord.

TEMPORAL POWER OF THE POPE. All the accounts from Rome speak of "scene" between the French Commander, General Govon. and the Pope, on New Year's day, when the former waited upon his Holiness to offer him the congratulations of the season. The reply of Pio Nono is said to have been sarcastic, and even bitter, He alluded to the now famous pamplet which ae affected not to believe to have proceeded from the Emperor of the French, and he characterised the pamphlet as a proposal to plunder the patrimony of St. Peter, with other strong expressions of a similar nature. The Paris paper were warned not to publish this reply, but one of them, the Univers, did nevertheless, publish it, which drew a rejoinder from the Moniteur, to the effect that the Pope would not have made such a speech if he had been in possession of a letter which the Emperor had transmitted to him. The letter was accordingly given, and it states, in substance, that the recovery of Romagna is impossible, but that if those provinces which have been a source of trouble to the Holy See during the last half century, are abandoned, the European powers will guarantee to the Pope the remainder of the States of the Church.
