I murmur not that now a stranger pass along the silent earth; I know the snare; I dread the danger; I hate the haunts; I shun the mirth.

My hopes are passing upward, onward; And with my hopes my heart has gone; My eye is turning sky-ward, sun-ward, Where glory brightens round you throne.

My spirit seeks its dwelling yonder; And faith foredates the joyful day When these old skies shall cease to sunder The one dear, love-linked family.

Well-pleased I find years rolling o'er me, And hear each day time's measured tread; Far fewer clouds now stretch before me, Behind me is the darkness spread.

My future from my past unlinking, Each dying year untwines the spell; The visible is swiftly sinking, Uprises the invisible.

To light unchanging and eternal, From mists that sadden this black waste; To scenes that smile for ever vernal, From winter's blackening leaf I haste.

GONE, BUT NOT LOST.

INSCRIBED TO ALL BEREAVED PARENTS.

Four golden summers came and went, Since she, the child of earnest prayer, Glowed as a peerless, priceless gem-A ruby in a diadem-In lustre and in radiance rare.

Her light was great—too great for earth! Too fair, alas! too bright to last; A Summer rose by streamlet's side In Winter's reign—she bloomed, then died— A Summer sun with clouds o'ercast.

A tender flower whose odorous leaves Expanded to the God of Light! She breathed of beauteous, blooming bowers, Far from this icy clime of ours-A clime ne'er seen by mortal sight.

Her coming was as a summer bird-She cheered us by her sunny smile! To look within her soul-lit eyes, We dreamt of scenes of Paradise-She was so free from sin and guile.

The morning dew that bathes the flowers, Was but a mirror of her mind! The cloudlet fringed with golden light-The meek moon midst the stars so bright-The evening's cool and balmy wind

Are not more free from sins alloy, Than is my darling sleeping child, For MIND can soar 'bove visions dim, And see her in the arms of HIM Of Him who on such children smiled.

Then, why should we thus mourn and weep?-Our loss her greatest gain must be! We weep but she shall weep no more, Her precious barque has reached the shore, While we are left upon the sea.

And o'er the stormy Jordan flood, Our inward vision sees her there-She tells us that she's gained the strand, She beckens us with angel hand, Snow white and pure-transparent fair.

GONE, BUT NOT LOST-a living link, To bind us closer to our God! A treasure rich laid up in store, To be restored when Time's no more, When weary souls lay down earth's load. WILL. C. CAMERON.

age is about 50 years; the color of my hair auburn, and inclined to cut. Some five or six years since it began to turn grey, and the scalp on the crown of my head to lose its sensibility and dandruff to form upon it. Each of thes disagreabilities increased with time, and about four months since a foorth was added to them, by hair falling off the top of my head and threatening to make me bald.

In this unpleasant predictment, I was induced to try Wood's Hair Restorative mainly to arrest the falling off of my hair, for I had really no expectation that grey hair could never be restored to its original color except from dyes. I was however, greatly surprised to find after the use of two bottles only, that not only the falling off was arrested, but the color was restored to the grey hairs and sensibility to the scalp, and dandruff reased to form on my head, very much to the gratification of my wife at whose solicitation I was induced to try it.

For this, among many obligations I owe to her sex I strongly recommend all husband. Who value the admiration of their wives to profit by my example, and use it if growing grey or getting bald. Very respectfuly

AY ER?: SARSAPARILLA.

A compound remedy in which we have labored to produce the most effectual alternative that can be made. It is a con entrated extract of Para Sarsaparılla, so combined with other substances of still greater alterlative power as to afford an effective antiduce for the dise ses Sarsaparılla is reputed to cure. It is beleived that such a remedy is wanted by those who suffer from Strum ous complaints and that one which will accomplish their cure must prove an immetice service to this large, class of our afficted fellow citizens. How completily this compound will do it has been proven by experiment on many of the worst cases to be found in the following complaints—Scorfula and Scrofilous complaints, Eruptions, and Eruptive Diseases, Ulcers, Pamples, Blotches, Tumors, Salt Rheum Scald Head, Syphilis and Syphilic Affections, Mercural Disease, Dropsey, Neuralgia or Tie Deulouroux, Debility, Dyspepsia, and Indigestion, Erysipelas, Rose or St. Anthony's fire and indeed the whole class of complaints arising from impurity of the blood.

This compound will be found a great promoter of health when taken in the spring, to expel the foul humors which tester in the blood at that season of the year by the timely expulsion of many of them rankling d sorders are nipped in the bud. Multitudes can by the aid effuir remedy spare thems—ives from the endurance of foul cruptions and ulcerous sores through which the system will strive to rid riself of corruptions, if but assisted to so through the natural channels of the body by an alternative medicine. During late years the public have been misled by large bottles, pretending to give a quart of extract of Sarsaparilia for one dollar. Anost of those have been frauds apon the sick, for they not only contain little if any Sarsaparilia but often no curative proportions whatever. Hense bitter and painful disappointment has followed the use of the various extracts of Sarsaparilia which flood the market, until the name of itself is justly despised, and has become synonymous with imposition and cheat. Still we call this compout d Sarsaparilla, and intend to sumply such a remedy as shall rescue the name from the load of oblique while it rests upon it. And we think we have ground for beleiving it has virtues which are rresistables by the ordinary rup of the diseases it is intended to cure.
