to work her souls salvation. Lines on the death of the Rev. CHARLES UNIACK, Minister of the Free Christian Baptist Church, at Hall's Harbor, N. S., who departed this that first.' life on Tuesday morning, March 6th., 1860. Dedicated to the sorrowing and bereaved wife, to whom the promise of God is-" A Father to the fatherless and a judge of the widow is God in his holy habitation.

Thou Judge of the widow in tears; Give ear to the mourners who on thee rely, In all their afflictions and fears.

Their "Joseph is not," he has fallen a prey To the great king of terror's embrace; Be with them in trouble, by night and by day,-And grant them thy spirit and grace.

Their "Joseph is not," yet he being dead Now speaketh to them from above ; · For to those bright mansions his spirit hath fied, Whence he looks on the home of his love.

Yes, he being dead, yet speaketh to them, In a voice that no stranger can tell : But the heart of that wife and little ones there Are bound in the funeral knell.

And he being dead, yet speaketh to all, In tones never uttered in life-He tells us that soon will the coffin and pall Conclude all this labor and strife.

And he being dead, yet speaketh of Him, Whose voice did once shake the skies; Of Him whose blood did atone for our sin,-At whose bidding the dead shall arise !

Yes, sister, the dead in Christ Jesus shall rise From the casket in which they have lain, And mount up on high to receive the glad prize Of a Crown from the Lamb that was slain.

His body sleeps quietly 'neath the green sod, Released from its trouble and care; While his sancrified soul, in the bosom of God, Is drawing thee up to him there.

And not only thee, but all who believe

MARY, OR THE TROUBLED CONSCIENCE.

Very early one winter morning, while it was yet dark, a family were awakened by dreadful groans proceeding from the room of a servant girl, an intelligent, conscientious Catholic. And sounds, and the cries of distress which came from the burdened heart of that sorrowful one? for your boys and girls. The follies of the young are too often only the manifestation of the sins twelve years had confirmed and increased the It was a sense of her sins, such a view as might overwhelm any of us, at any time, did not the from them.

Upon opening the door of her room, the poor girl was found upon her knees, (her lamp and cries for mercy might almost have pierced a heart of stone.

It was the Sabbath morning, still, sacred, and as I stood before her I felt as one of old when he said, "Surely the Lord is in this place and I spirit, as they before found their life's blood. Be knew it not." I asked her why she felt so sadly. a mother ! "Oh," said she, "I am so wicked! I am such a sinner !"

" But Christ came to save sinners, the chief of sinners."

"I know that-I know that-but nobody can be saved without suffering. I must be saved by doing penance."

"And what makes you think you must atone for sins by suffering ?"

" My grandmother told me when I was a child that I must suffer a great deal before I could be saved. Everybody must suffer, but I was born under an unlucky star, and must suffer more than others."

" But, Mary, your Bible, the Catholic Bible, tells you that Christ suffered once for all. You dishonor him by saying his atonement was not duty sufficient for you. He was not a perfect Saviour if we must atone for our own sins. Your Bible but only faith in Christ."

"I know, Mrs. H., that Christ can save me, but I can not believe.I am to be saved without suffering. You are not a Catholic, if you were you would see it."
