We were informed that some of the shanties keep liquor for sale, but we saw no sign of drunkeness. The sobriety and decorum which characterize so large a gathering of in such circumstances is a credit to Nova Scotia. One could form no idea of the number of people on the ground till towards evening—for during the day scores are working here and there and everywhere, from ten to twenty feet below the sur-About sundown large numbers appear along the road, chatting in groups, smoking and enjoying themselves as best and they can; and by nine o'clock all are perfectly quiet. We slept in one of the cabins, and after the fatigues of the day enjoyed a good night's rest. We left for Halifax at 7 o'clock on Saturday morning and though there was a great deal of fog, the Neptune did her duty so well that we arrived at the wharf at 2 o'olock. The captain and officers showed every disposition to minister to the wants and comforts of the passengers, of whom we had about fifty going down and seventy coming back. The only | day with 356 passengers. ault we heard mentioned was that the Captain was too careful in the fog-and this complaint | die. came from parties who were in a great hurry to pick up the gold at Tangier or to disburse it in direct taxation passed. this city. United States.

The American papers are still engaged in discussing the byttle of Buil's Run. The loss on the side of the No:th was about 400 killed, 500 wounded, with about 1000 prisoners. So far as we can learn the loss was still heavier upon the part of the Confederates, being about 400 killed, and 1000 wounded. Various causes are assigned for the disaster which has befallen the North. The clamour of politicians, the weakness of General Scott, ignorance of the strength of the Southern Army, incompetency of Northern officers, imperfect discipline of the troops, want of food and rest, are presented in explanation of the disastrous and unexpected event. The blame is shifted from Gen. Scott to the President and from him to the politicians, and back again, but it is not denied that the defeat w s shameful, that it will necessitate an entire reorganization of the army and will postpone active operations for months,

However, good will result; ignoran' politicians and editors will cease to excite dissati faction towards those who are entrusted with the management of affairs, incompetent officers will be dismissed for abier men, the power and spirit of the enemy will be more correctly estimated, and the ridiculous boasting; which herald disaster will cease.

The Southerners have thus far turned their victory to but little account. They seem to have suffered as severely as their foes. It was feared $230,000 in specie. that the victors would make an attack upon Washington, but they seem determined to act solely upon the defensive. They were probably as much surprised by the victory as their oppouents were by their defeat.

Meanwhile Gen. McDowell has been superseded by Gen. McLellan, an officer whose antece dents are most promising. Discipline among the soldiery is being enforced by the most stringent regulatious. Troops are pouring in from the North eager to retrieve the loss which has been sustained, and though the period of final triumph seems to have been delayed, we are none the less assured of ultimate victory to the cause of order and freedom."

"Mr. Richardson in Congress related a conversation which had taken place in his presence between General Scott and the President on the subject of the battle at Bull's Run. General the world! I have fought the battle against my judgment, and I think the President ought to remove me to-day for doing it. As God is my judge," he added, after an interval of silence, "I did all in my power to make the army efficient, and I deserve removal, because I did not stand up when I could and did not." "Your conversation implies," said the President to Gen. Scott, "I forced you to battle." To which Gen. Scott replied: "I have never served under a President who has been kinder to me than you have

We are however, enabled to state authoritatively, that the most sweeping reforms are contemplated, which will ultimately result in establishing a much desired esprit du corps among the troops. A Provost Marshal is to be appointed for the city of Washington, officers and soldiers will not be allowed the freedom of the city unless on cfficial business, nor will they be permitted to reside in any place other than their regimental encampment or barracks. No liquors will be allowed to be sold to common soldiers, unless upon the written order of his commanding officer, nor will places where liquurs are sold be permitted to remain open between the hours of nine o'clock in the evening and six o'clock in the morning. will be permitted to visit any of the regimental encampments, unless upon the order of the Presi- debt of Italy. dent, Secretary of War, or the officer commanding the department. A rigid state of tactical discipline is also to be enforced. Commandants of regiments will not be permitted to absent themselves from their commands, unless upon ment."

WASHINGTON, August 1, 1861. It is suspected here that the army of the Potomac will not be kept idle so long a time as has generally been predicted. Its reorganization proceeds with great rapidity. The new troops ar- Pacha. riving here are placed at once in brigades, and pobably only a few days, at farthest only a few weeks, will be requisite, at the present rate of progress, to make a forward movement that shall
