She was now on free soil, but she was doomed to still further sufferings .-A negro there, by artful menas, entrapped her and sold her for $250 to a resident of Natchez, where she was taken. After six or seven unsuccessful attempts, she reached Canada but without her child. Her object now is, if possible, to earn money to support herself, and to raise enough to purchase the freedom of her child, the property of Ann Choil, Boydstown, Kentucky. $250 is the amount necessary to restore the child to his mother. Need we commend the poor woman to the citizens of Montreal for their practical aid, after the history we have given of her? We feel that there will be an immediate response from all.
