Put your arms around me tight, I am cold and tired, mother, And I feel so strange to night: Something hurts me here, dear mother, Like a stone upon my breast; I wonder, wonder, mother, Why it is I cannot rest!

"All day long while you were working, As I lay upon my bed,

I was trying to be patient.

And to think of what you said; How the kind and blessed Jesus Loves his lambs to watch and keep; And I wish he'd come and take me

In his arms that I might sleep. "Just before the lamp was lighted, Just before the children came,

While the room was very quiet, I heard some one call my name. All at once the window opened, In a field were lambs and sheep, Some from out a brook were drinking, Some were lying fast asleep.

"But I could not see the Saviour, Though I strained my eyes to see, And I wondered if he saw me, Would be speak to such as me? In a moment I was looking

On a world so bright and fair, Which was full of little children, And they seemed so happy there!

"They were singing, oh! how sweetly! Sweeter songs I never heard! They were singing sweeter, mother, Then can sing our yellow bird. And while I my breath was holding, One so bright upon me smiled;

And I knew it must be Jesus, When he said, "Come here, my child!" And at first I felt so sorry

You had called me-I would go-Oh! to sleep, and never suffer! Mother, don't be crying so! Hug me closer, closer, mother, Put your arms around me tight, Oh! how much I love you mother, But I feel so strange to-night!"

And the weeping mother pressed her To her overburdened breast; On the heart so near to breaking, Lay the heart so near its rest, In the solemn hour of midnight, In the darkness, calm and deep,

Lying on her mother's bosom, Little Bessie fell asleep.

LEAD US NOT INTO TEMPTATION. The following incident, which is related by one who was a witness of it, is worthy of preservation :-During one of the days of the muster held at Concord, a year or two since, after a long and tedious march, the troops were halted for rest, a portion of them being in front of an ancient but comfortable looking mansion, everything about which bespoke thrift and happiness. In front of the house was a pump and an old-fashioned watering trough. Several of the soldiers stopped to slake their thirst. There they were joined by the owner of the place, an old gentleman who had seen more than the "three score years and ten" alloted to man, and who had witnessed the muster of the "minute men" on Concord Green, on the memorable 16th of April. The sight of the troops seemed to stir his inmost soul, and he rubbed his hands in glee, congratulating the troops meanwhile upon their soldierly appearance, and relating incidents of the times which tried men's souls. One of the young men presently drew from his pocket a flask, and after taking a draught, presented it to the old man with an invitation to imbibe. He respectfully but firmly declined.

"Oh, take some, it will do you good," said the

"No, I guess not," responded the old man, it is now twenty years since I have tasted a drop of intoxicating liquor, and I guess I won't begin again." "If you have not taken any for so long, it's time

"No, I guess not," responded the old man, in a voice which plainly showed that he was half-inclined After a little more urging he took the proffered flask, and raising it to his lips was about to swallow the terrible poison, when a daughter, who had been a witness of the scene from a door of the house, and heard the conversation, uttered the single word. "Father," in a voice which thrilled every hearer, and caused every limb in the old man to tremble. The flask dropped, and in its contact with the ground was broken, and the liquid it contained was drunk by the thirsty earth, and has and the

"Thank God I am saved," exclaimed the old man. The tears which started to the eyes of those who witnessed the incident, testified to the impression which it made upon their hearts, and which will of religion. probably never be totally effaced.

Oh, it is a fearful thing to urge the poisoned cup on one whose best days have been spent in the indulgence of strong drink, the memory of which fills him with keen anguish, whose appetite is as the slumbering volcano; ready to belch forth fire and slaughter whenever conditions shall have become favorable to such

HARRY'S PROMISE .- "O George! that was wicked to say that !" "Well, didn't Will Brown spoil my ball and then throw it at me? It was enough to make anybody swear. Father only bought it for me yesterday."

' For all that, George, it was wrong to speak so." "What makes it so wrong, Henry? I am sure I think our Joe ought to know a great deal better than you do, for he is almost a man, and when he gets cross at me he talks a great while longer that way than I did. I don't remember all he says." "I said something like that once, George. I was wakened me. He told me mother was very sick, and wanted to see me. He carried me to the bed. She building? Just so it is with the members of a community; the big stones make a great show, and smiled. I crept close to her and hid my face against hers. She kissed me a great many times, and then she asked me if I remembered yet, what she had then she asked me if I remembered yet, what she had begone if the little ones should rebel, and conclude begone if the little ones should rebel, and conclude the little ones should rebel and conclude the little ones you to promise me, that if you ever think of using such words, or if you hear other boys use them, you will remember what your mother told you.' I promised her I would. Oh! how tight she held me then! I cant tell you all she said then, George, but it was something about God's taking care of me and my promise. After a while I felt her check grow like snow; and she didn't held me so tight. Then uncle Henry took me back to my bed, and I saw he had oct 29.-wi 9 South Wharf, corner of Ward st. | Dec. 5, 1801.-wpi.

Here Harry stopped and drew his hand across his George asked: "How long it had been since then." "Three years now," for I was eight last week, and

I was only five when mother died.' "And have you remembered all this time, Harry?" "Yes. Sometimes I think of using bad words, when the boys make me cross; but directly I seem to see mother looking at me, just as she did that "Well, Harry, I am going to try your promise too

"Why, yes, if you will, George; but -- " He stopped and looked down. "But what, Harry?"

"I was going to tell you what I thought helped me to keep my promise. You mustn't tell the other boys this, they might laugh at it; you know we never like them to laugh at us, and that would be worse, for it would be laughing at mother."

"I'll not tell, Harry, if you don't want me to." "Well, I think it was the prayer mother made afterwards that helps me keep my promise; and besides that, every night and morning ever since, when I kneel at my bed, I ask God to help me keep my promise to my mother."

Mothers, be encouraged! The little seeds of counsel which you are daily scattering are never lost. Like a rich harvest, they will return in blessing on your children's hearts.

Perhaps they seem unmindful of your kind instructions and gentle words; but remember, that He never forgets, who said: "If ye shall ask any thing in my name, I will do it."

A DAUGHTER'S FAITH. - There was a widow in A whose sole support, after her husband's death, was an only danghter. This daughter soon died. Her last thought of self was, "My soul longs for Jesus." Her last thought for her mother was, "Dearest mother, I have trusted you to the Lord, who will care de Amerikani Ciething Steine

Eleven years have passed and that mother has never wanted. She has taken her sister and niece into her house, and still God supplies her; yet she has seldom more than her daily bread. Her faith has been strengthened; she has no uneasiness; she says it is the Lord who provides. A. often visits her, and as often as he has asked if she is in need she replied "No, I want nothing. There is enough for to-day both for me and those who are with me." "O woman, great is thy faith !"

"I ONLY CRIED WITH HER."-The widow's mite was of more value in the Saviour's eyes than large contributions by the wealthy, because of the willing heart and the scanty means. The following beautiful little incident shows how even children can do good by a little tender sympathy:-

"A poor widow, the mother of two children, used to call on them at the close of each day, for the report of the good they had done. One night the oldest hesitated in her reply to her mother's question, "What kindness have you shown?" "I don't know, mother." The mother, touched with the tone of her answer, resolved to unravel the mystery; and the DRESS GOODS.—Our new stock of Dress Goods embraces every novelty of the season. We can offer for little sensitive thing, when re-assured, went on to say :- Going to school this morning, I found little Annie G., who had been absent some days, crying very hard. I asked her, mother, what made her cry so, which made her cry more, so that I could not help leaning my head on her neck, and crying too, Then her sobs grew less and less, till she told me of her little baby-brother, whom she nursed so long. and loved so much-how he had sickened, grown pale and this, writhing with pain until he died, and then they put him from her forever. Mother, she Fancy and Staple Dry Goods, suitable for the present seatold me this; and then she hid her face in her book, and cried as if her heart would break. Mother, I could not help putting my face on the other page of the book, and crying too, as hard as she did. After at we had cried together a long time, she hogged me and kissed me, telling me I had done her good. Mother, I don't know how I did her good, for I only cried with her. That is all I can tell, for I can't tell how

A WORD TO BOYS AND GIRLS ABOUT ORDER. - Little friends, put things right back in their proper places. Never leave things all about, helter-skelter, topsyturvy-never. When you use any article-hoe, shovel, rake, pitchfork, axe, hammer, tongs, boots or shoes, books, slates, pencils, writing apparatus, pins, thimbles, pincushions, needles, work-baskets, kitchen-furniture, every article of housewifery or husbandry, no matter what it is-the very moment you have done using it, return it to its proper place. Be sure to have a special place for everything-a place for everything, and everything in its place. Order, order, perfect order, is the watchword-heaven's first law. How much precious time is saved (aside from vexation) by observing order—systematic regularity! And little folks should begin early to preserve order in everything-form habits of order. These loose, you took a little, it will warm your blood," urged slip-shod, slatternly habits are formed in childhood, and habits once formed cling for life.

> Young friends, begin early to keep things straight in their proper place; study neatness, order, economy, sobriety, -everything just, honest, pure levely, and of good report.

At a meeting held in Deerfield, Mass., on the evening of Sept. 3, to obtain recruits, Hon. Hugh W. Green of Northfield, in the course of his excellent remarks, said: "If I were called upon to lead an army to the field, I would rather have 600 good temperate Christian young men, those who looked up to God in prayer both at morning and night, cornestly seeking for direction, than 1,000 prayerless young men." This is a good testimony for Christianity, coming as it does from a politician, and a man not a professor

NO ROSE WITHOUT A THORN. A chubby little four-year old Pluck's from the parent tree A budding moss rose: but, alas! He pull'd so cagerly,

That on the dimpled little hand A thorn its impress set; Ah, cruel thorn! to care to wound

My charming little pet! "Mamma." he lisp'd, with trembling lip, And tearful, childish wee, " I wish'd to love this naughty rose,

And it has hurt me so !" "Ah, darling mine; thy baby heart

These pretty flowers warn That pleasure, grasp'd too eagerly,

Must always leave a thorn."

SMALL STONES NEEDED .- The living stones of which the Church of Christ is constructed are not spinning my top and the twine broke. Mother heard necessarily of the same size, nor are they employed what I said, and she called me up into her room and to edify the same parts of the building. Did you the best markets for that purpose.

Arrangements have been made with Baldwin's Northern told me how very wicked it was to talk so; she was never see a country house built of stones of all sick then. THE ROYAL INSURANCE COMPANY 92, embard-street, London, and Royal Insurance-bui

Chairman of the London Board .- Samuel Baker, Esq. Chairman in Liverpool.—CHARLES TURNER, Esq.
The Royal Insurance Company is one of the largest Offices in the kingdom.

At the Annual Meeting held in August 1859, the following FIRE DEPARTMENT. The most gratifying proof of the expansion of the business is exhibited in the one following fact-that the increase alone of the last three years exceeds the entire business of some of the existing and of many of the recently defunct

The Premiums for the year 1855 being.....£180,060 While the Premiums for the year 1558 are 196,148 Showing an actual increase of 66,088 r upwards of 50 per cent. in three years. The recent returns of duty made by Government for this atter year (1858) again show the "Royal" as more than maintaining the ratio of its increase as stated in former years.

Only one among the London insurance offices exhibits an advance to the extent of one-half the increase of the Company, while all the others respectively fall far short of the moiety of its advance. LIFE DEPARTMENT. The amount of new Life Premiums received this year is by far the largest received in any similar period since the ommencement of the business, and must far exceed the average of amount received by the most successful offices in the kingdom. The number of policies issued in the year was 832, the sum assured £387,752 6s. 8d., and the premium £12,354 3s. 4d. These figures show a very rapid extension of business during the last ten years. Thus :-Years. No. of Policies. Sums Assured. New Premiums. £48,764 17 0 £1,380 9 1 95,650 9 11 2,627 4 181,504 10 6 5.828 5 10 161,848 13 4 4.694 16 0 297,560 16 8 8.850 3 11 387,752 6 8 12.354 8 4 The remarkable increase in the business of the last four years is mainly consequent upon the large bonus declared in 1855, which amounted to no less than £2 per cent. per annum on the sums assured, and averaged 80 per cent. upon PERCY M. DOVE, Manager and Actuary. JOHN M. JOHNSTON, Secretary to the London Board. All descriptions of property taken at fair rates, and Fire
