No Government can please everybody. But of this, or any other Government, it is not our object to speak at present. But when a worthy and highly respected gentleman, of irreproachable life and morals, becomes the target for slander and vituperation simply because he belongs to a certain political party, or is a member of a Government which that party has elevated to power, we think the honest indignation of all right thinking men is excusable.

These remarks are called forth by the unblushing abuse in one morning paper in this city, and the scurrility which has been occasionally indulged in by another, against a gentleman holding a high office in this Province. We are aware that that gentleman does not require our defence, but public sentiment does; and at the risk of a little abuse upon ourselves we choose to discharge our duty to the public. On Friday morning, 10 instant, Mr. George P. Taylor, in the 24th year of his age, eldest son of Jonathan P. Taylor, Esq., Merchant, of this City. The affliction which terminated his mortal career was short. Strong hopes were entertained of his recovery until within a few days of his solution, when the disease assumed an alarming appearance, and on Thursday the physicians, who were in attendance, after holding a consultation, concluded that his end was near. But while his outward man decayed his inward grew stronger and stronger, and in his last hours he fre-quently exclaimed "I know that Jesus died for me, and hath forgiven all my sins," and that "I am sure I shall go to heaven." After bidding his father and sisters and other connections who were at his bedside, an affectionate farewell, he mentioned several other relations and dear friends by name, and said "Bid them farewell for me, and tell then that I have gone to heaven." Shortly after he calmly fell asleep in Jesus. On Sunday following his remains were carried to the grave, and deposited in the grounds selected by himself about six weeks previous for the interment of his mother, and as a family burying lot. It may emphatically be said that his end was peace. How true it is that in the midst of life we are in death.
