"I KNOW NOT THE DAY OF MY DEATH Genesis xxvii.

I know not when; but this I know, That it will surely come to me, The day which comes to all below, Which every child of earth must see; For o'er his spirit none hath power, To keep it, in that last dread hour. I know that I shall watch the sun, As I have watched him many a day, In gold behind the hills go down, Gilding with splendor all the way-I shall not see him set again, Yet this I shall not know e'en then. Some night, I know the shades will gather, The dusky shadows deeper grow, The silent stars come out together, The last that I shall see below-No voice from out that distant sky Will warn me that my end is nigh. Some spring time, I shall mark the trees

Grow greener o'er my head, .d-And in the autumn I shall feel all come The dead leaves rustle 'pr tomb. Nor know next Autumed room. To strew the dry, my faintest breath, And there wa gathering gloom, And om off the wings of Death-A ... ot hear the muffled tone, silent whisper, "She is gone." But when this last great change shall come,

If I be ready for my home It matters not how soon I rest-Death will be but the end of sorrow, Dawn of an endless, heavenly morrow

Is hidden from us-and 'tis best;

day go by without seeking forgiveness of a Christ. In this way alone can our conscias be cleaused each day. In this way alone can we have peace with God. In this way alone can we rise when we have fallen in sin.

2. No morning should go by without seeking nourishment from God's Word. Nor should this be of the letter alone. It should be remembered that Christ is present in his Word, and that what we need is spiritual communion with him. The Word is the Bread of Life. Without it, we must needs spiritually

3. Be sedulous in prayer. There is no growth in grace without this communion with Christ, the living Head. And this prayer should be stated, ejaculatory and social. We should have fixed periods for prayer. Our Saviour, divine as he was, and blest with constant communion with his Father, nevertheless withdrew for prayer to the solitude of the mountain and the seclusion of the garden. Laborious as was his brief ministry-wearisome as were his labors-he, spent nights, after days of fatigue, in earnest prayer for us, who are so cold and slow in praying for ourselves. Where could there be a stronger proof of the necessity of prayer? Where, a more tender appeal for us to commune with him, who thus, in the days of his flesh, so strongly pleaded with us? Where, a more earnest exhortation to stated private prayer to

Then prayer should be constant. The Christian can pray over his books; in his workshop; during his daily toils. The school-boy can look forward to his father's home, over the book in which he studies; and works none the less heartily because he sees the vacation ahead of him, in which that home will be highly satisfactory results were show FIRE DEPARTMENT. The most gratifying proof of the expansion of the business is exhibited in the one following fact—that the increase alone of the last three years exceeds the entire business of some of the existing and of many of the recently defunct fire insurance companies of this kingdom.

The Premiums for the year 1855 being.....£180,060

While the Premiums for the year 1555 are.... 196,148 Showing an actual increase of or upwards of 50 per cent. in three years. The recent returns of duty made by Government for this latter year (1858) again show the "Royal" as more than maintaining the ratio of its increase as stated in former years. Only one among the London insurance offices exhibits an advance to the extent of one-half the increase of the Company, while all the others respectively fall far short of the moiety of its advance. The amount of new Life Premiums received this year is by far the largest received in any similar period since the commencement of the business, and must far exceed the average of amount received by the most successful offices in the kingdom. The number of policies issued in the year was 832, the sum assured £587,752 6s. sd., and the premium £12,854 8s. 4d. These figures show a very rapid extension of business during the last ten years.
