BRITISH AND FOREICN.

There is nothing later from England this week. We give an extract from the speech of Mr. Beecher, delivered at Exeter Hall, London, on the 20th ult. :

THE WAR; THE TIMES; AND THE RUSSIANS. But I hear a loud protest against all war. There is a small band in your land and mine which is opposed to war under any circumstances, and although cannot accept their judgment, I bow with profound respect to their consistency. But putting those aside, I regard this British horror of war as something wonderful. It is a phenomenon of itself. On what shores, let me ask, have not the prows of your ships clashed? What land is there with a name and a people where your banner has not waved above your soldiers? When the great resurrection reveille sounds, it will muster men who have fought in your ranks from every clime under heaven. But it is said, "this is a war against your own blood." How army across the Rappahannock. General Lee fell long let me ask, is it since you poured troops into Canada and caused all your dockyards to work night and day to avenge on your own blood the taking of two men out of the Trent? [Cheers.] Old England ashamed of a war of principle! She gained her glory in such contests. (Cheers.) Old England ashamed of a war of principle! Your national ensign symbolizes your history-the cross on the field of blood -and will you tell us who are your descendants, and who inherit your ideas and your pluck, that we must not tight in such a cause as that which I stand here wounded in these engagements was only four hunto advocate? [Cheers.] Ah! the child must pay heed to the parents, until they get so old as to tell the child that he must never do what he used to be whipped for not doing. Virginia is again the theatre of important military operations. General Meade has obeyed the instructions he received from Washington, and marched his back as the Federal army advanced, and now occupies his old entrenchments on the South side of the Rapidan. Before reaching the Rappahannock Gener 1 Sedgewick's corps encountered and routed a corps of the Confederates posted in advance of their army on the north bank of the river. Beginning with the location of Heaven and the creation of Angels, anterior to anno Munds: with the derivation of the name of God. Next, on Man, with a discussion (in the first number) which continued for six days in succession, on the immertality of the Soul. The conscious existence of departed spirits, and the foture punishment of the im-Then on the fallen Angels of the Scriptures, proof positive of the being of Satan, and of evil Spirits, with a demonstration on demonology: followed up in a chronological chain of theological and universal history, showing the principal events of the Church and of the World, &c. It then proceeds with the history of Satan, the origin of Sin and Sinners, the mode, probation, or trial of the Angels who kept not their first estate, and were cast out of Heaven with Luciter, son of the Morning, and how he became a'devi and the father of lies: for we are prepared to prove that he told 400 lies at one time, On Lucifer being overthrown, and cast out of Heaven how evil spirits get possession of human beings: of their shape, power and restrictions. Of the time in which this great catastrophe took place, called war in Heaven; and that it was shortly after the creation of this world, of Adam and Eve; and of course before their fall and expulsion from Paradise. Satan finds his way to the garden of Eden, and devises the destruction of the human lamily. We now go to prove how the battle was lost and won; Paradise lost and regained through the mighty Shaddai, the second Adam, with an account of the antidiluvian world up to the Deluge. Then on the divergement of the sons of Noah, from their eaving the ark, with the number of animals saved therein. following them in their various settlements: beginning with Asia, the starting point of both worlds. Also, of the Babel builders, the rebellion of Nimrod, and a part of the sons of Ham, &c. On the settlement of Ham in Africa, viz: Egypt, Misream and Ethiopia; touching on the origin of the coloured race, also, on Japhet in Europe, &c.

Every subject embellished with original or selected Poetry, with many other critical subjects too numerous to mention here, all bearing on the plan of Salvation. CHRONOLOGICAL CHAIN!

Great care has been taken to put every event in its proper Chronological order, so that the reader as he passes long may have a correct view of the When, Where, and How, in which every great transaction occurred.
