It tells me where my soul may flee; Oh! to the weary, faint, opprest, How sweet the bidding, Come to Me ! When the poor heart with anguish learns

That earthly props resigned must be, And from each broken eistern turns, It hears the accents, Come to Me! When against sin I strive in vain, And cannot from its yoke get free, Sinking beneath the heavy chain, The words arrest me, Come to Me! When nature shudders, loth to part From all I love, enjoy, and see; When a faint chill steals o'er my heart,

Come, for all else must fail and die; Earth is no resting-place for thee; Heavenward direct thy weeping eyes; I am thy Portion, Come to Me! O voice of mercy, voice of love! In conflict, grief, and agony,

A sweet voice utters, Come to Me!

Support me, cheer me from above And gently whisper, Come to Me! CLING TO THE CRUCIFIED. "Cling to the Crucified! His death is life to thee-Life for eternity.

His pains thy pardon seal, His stripes thy broises heal, His cross proclaims thy peace, Bids every sorrow cease, His blood is all to thee, It purges thee from sin; It sets thy spirit free, It keeps thy conscience clean. Cling to the Crucified! Cling to the Crucified! His is a heart of love, Full as the hearts above ; Its depths of sympathy Are all awake for thee; His countenance is light Even in the darkest night. That love shall never change, That light shall ne'er grow dim; Charge thou thy faithless heart, To find its all in him. Cling to the Crucified !"

"Yes, we are very bad off," said the boy, brightening up as he spoke, "but I go to Sunday school, and I love Jesus-and I couldn't be dishonest." This needs no comment. It is simply an instance of what the power of religion can do, when put to the sorest test; for it was this that overcame the sorrows of poverty and the dread of starvation in the aged Christian, when no earthly help seemed nearand it was this that made the noble boy more than a conqueror, in preferring to suffer the pangs of hunger rather than defile his conscience by a secret sin.

"This is the victory that overcometh the world, even our faith."

SUNSHINE IS A GREAT PURIFIER. - Go into a room which has been for a few days previously closed up and how musty and disagreeable it smells! But unfasten the shutters, so as to admit the sun's warm rays, and-even though you should not open the windows so as to allow the fresh air to enter from without-you will find the atmosphere in the room has become comparatively pure and pleasant. Go out on some calm evening of summer after the sun has set into some dirty, foul locality, and what noxious exhalation pollute the air! But visit the same district the next day when the sun is shining brightly overhead, and, impure though the place must be, it will be found to be far less impure than on the previous evening. It has been purified of much of its offensive effluvium by the sun's rays. But when the sun's rays depart, and the dews of evening begin to fall, the locality again becomes as before, anything but agreeably odoriferous to a person possessed of

An Infidel Converted .- Last week a meeting was held in the Lecture Hall of Taylor's Depository, Southwark, for the purpose of hearing a statement from a Mr. Bebbington, who was stated to be the late editor of the Propagandist and Secular Lecturer, of the reasons which had induced him to renounce infidelity and embrace Christianity. He said his pious father died when he was a child. In his earlier years the only chape! he had the opportunity of attending was that belonging to a congregation of Ranters, and their extreme views and extraordinary exhibitions exciting his derision, he begun to scoff at them and to seek out passages of Scripture in order to contradict them, Ultimately, he threw of all cloak or reserve, and came out as an avowed sceptic, and travelled the country to proclaim his doctrine. In the month of September last he went on a lecturing expedition to Scotland. The first place at which he held forth was Glasgow. There he saw the churches all crowded on Sundays, and even on week-days | Teeth. From Glasgow he went to Greenock, and there the case was worse. All the infidels he could muster were some half-dozen working men, and he began seriously to reflect that playing the infidel prophet was something very like playing the fool.
